Now It's Official! 3 Leaves, Bars

'O Canada' The Anthem

By STEWART MacLEOD

The government today unveiled the design it will ask Parliament to approve as the official flag of Canada, and at the same time it was revealed parliamentary approval will also be sought to make O Canada the national anthem of Canada.

A colored reproduction of the proposed flag was distributed to members of Parliament and the Press Gallery today, six days after the design was approved by cabinet.

Prime Minister Pearson and several cabinet ministers were known to have favored the design and its selection had been predicted.

GEORGE V EMBLEM

A notice of motion appearing on today's Commons order paper says:

"That the government be authorized to take such steps as may be necessary to establish officially as the flag of Canada, a flag embodying the emblem proclaimed by His Majesty King George V on Nov. 21, 1921—three maple leaves conjoined on one stem—in the colors red and white then designated for Canada, the red leaves occupying a field of white between vertical sections of blue on the edges of the flag and also to provide that the Royal Union Flag, generally known as the Union Jack, may continue to be flown as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth of nations and of our allegiance to the Crown."

'THE QUEEN'

Under it was a second notice of motion:

"That the government be authorized to take such steps as may be necessary to provide that O Canada shall be the national anthem of Canada and that God Save the Queen shall be recognized as the royal anthem in Canada."

The proposed flag was among three designs shown to the press on two previous occasions by the prime minister's office.

The other two under consideration included one similar to the design selected, except it had no blue bars, and the other had three red maple leaves on a solid blue background.

SECRET KEPT

Since the decision was made, the 25 cabinet ministers and the half-dozen others who knew the choice have been sworn to secrecy, and despite daily prodding in the Commons there was no official indication of what design would be proposed.

The manner in which the resolution was presented meant it would go through only one debating stage, as opposed to four stages in the Commons for ordinary legislation and five for money bills.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker got his first look at the design from a copy handed him by a reporter. He said he had no immediate comment.

Some Conservative backbenchers said Tuesday night a filibuster is likely when the issue

TORONTO (CP)—The Royal Canadian Legion intends to fly the Red Ensign over its offices "now and in the future," Patrick Biggs, provincial secretary of the Ontario Command, said today.

Dief Sneers, Douglas Backs Maple Leaves

Although Opposition Leader Diefenbaker declined immediate formal comment, he remarked as he looked at the picture of the design and turned it around: "It doesn't make much difference either way."

A number of Conservative backbenchers re-affirmed their intention to fight the government's flag resolution into a general election, if possible.

New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas said he will support the proposed flag, but would have preferred one maple leaf on it instead of three.

PREFERRED ONE

"It's what we expected," Mr. Douglas said.

"I think I would have preferred a single maple leaf but I understand the background and significance of the three maple leaves as the national emblem chosen in 1921.

"Anyone with my Scottish background would, of course, like to see the Union Jack and the fleur-de-lis continued, but I recognize there are 5,000,000 Canadians who have neither a British nor a French background and we have to consider, too, the young people—of whom there are increasing numbers coming along—who don't feel any deep attraction to either Britain or France.

"I will support this design. One maple leaf might have been more distinguishable, from

'Light Is Out' As India Mourns Nehru

(Times News Services)

NEW DELHI—Jawaharlal Nehru, builder of modern India and its prime minister since independence in 1947, died from a stroke at his home here today. He was 74.

(See also Page 42).

Shortly after the death of the leader of India's 470,000,000 people, a new acting prime minister was sworn in by President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan. He is Gulzarilal Nanda, home minister at the time of Nehru's death and senior government cabinet minister.

The acting premier will hold office until the ruling Congress parliamentary party meets to elect a new leader, who will become prime minister.

Nanda, a man with a reputation of getting things done, was one of the officials who broke the news to Parliament that Nehru was taken ill suddenly.

Before Nanda's swearing-in, it had been announced that his appointment as prime minister would be temporary.

"I have grave news to announce to the House and the country," Ministe. of Steel C. Subramaniam told the lower house of Parliament. "The prime minister is no more. The light is out."

DIED AT 2 P.M.

Nehru was stricken at 6:25 a.m., shortly after he got up at his usual hour. He died at 2 p.m., seven hours and 35 minutes later.

Eight doctors, including a brain specialist, tried to save him. The Associated Press

'Guided India With Wisdom' —Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today the loss of Prime Minister Nehru of India will be felt by all who hope for peaceful progress in the world and for good relations among men.

He said in a statement:

"I had the great privilege of enjoying Mr. Nehru's friendship over many years. I learned to appreciate his deep and far-sighted wisdom, his strength and moderation, his devotion to freedom for nations and individuals. He had a deep respect also for law and for order; he had conquered prejudice and contained passion.

"He is rightly regarded as the architect of his country's independence and he guided India with skill and dedication in the early and critical years of its national existence.

"No man has made a greater impact on his time. He will be sorely missed by his countrymen. His loss will also be felt by all who hope for peaceful progress in the world and for good relations between men of all races and colors and creeds."

CAST OF 1,400

Peace Damsite Spectacular Tourist Bait

By FRANK RUTTER

PORTAGE MOUNTAIN—Man has changed the course of nature here to create a tourist spectacular unequalled anywhere in B.C. this summer.

A cast of 1,400 performs daily in a 3,000-foot arena scooped out of the bottom of the mighty Peace River.

Their stage—the floor of the craggy Peace River Canyon—less than a year ago was beneath the fast-flowing brown river.

Now the water speeds through the centre of Portage Mountain, diverted by three huge concrete tunnels each the width of a four-lane highway.

And now the shape of the giant Peace River power project is gradually unfolding.

You can watch it all summer from vantage points high on either side of the canyon — so high that the men look like dolls, and their huge machines like toys.

And yet these observation posts nearly 600 feet above the river will be under water when the dam is finished in 1968.

B.C. Hydro is making tourist business a byproduct of its $680,000,000 power project, and already the transportation companies are taking advantage of it.

One busline offers a week-long tour of the Peace River country and Cariboo for $138 from Victoria.

'Chinese Teahouse' Offers View

Hydro has built a tourist lookout, known locally as the Chinese Teahouse, on stilts high above the project. It offers a panoramic view and inside, along with refreshments, you can watch the work below on closed circuit television. When you leave, you get an orange bumper sticker which proclaims "I have seen the Peace power project."

You can get to the project quite easily either by road or plane, landing on a gravelly Hudson Hope strip or more comfortably at Fort St. John, a 60-mile drive away to the east.

And when you get there it's a lot more than a big hole in the ground.

At present there are two main sights: the site of the dam itself on the riverbed, and a fantastic three-mile conveyor belt being built to carry 60,000,000 cubic yards of fill for the dam from a mountainous glacial deposit.

On the riverbed, blocked off by a 150-foot high coffer dam, huge cats are starting to smooth and compact the first loads of fill—taken from the bed itself.

On the left bank a layer of gunnite—cement and sand—is being hosed onto the rockbed to provide a seal for the core of the dam.

In the centre a 20-foot square concrete-lined trench has been punched through the ground. Here workmen will drill a curtain of grout, sealing the underneath of the dam as deep as 350 feet to prevent seepage.

Across the hillside opposite Portage Mountain runs the conveyor belt to the moraine which will eventually be transformed into a dam 600 feet high, 1,500 feet long and half a mile thick.

The belt, longest of its kind in the world, will carry rock, gravel and sand at 11 mph to three towering steel processing plants and then to a dump at river level.

100-Ton Truckload Each 35 Seconds

There 100-ton trucks will catch the fill at the rate of one truck every 35 seconds and carry it to its exact position on the dam.

This work will start in July.

The belt, driven by electric motors, is an engineering marvel.

Made of rubber with steel cables through the core, it runs on steel rollers, straight as a die across the hills.

Being built by a Vancouver firm, it is based on a patented German design, and a German foreman is supervising the project.

Trickiest part is splicing together 1,100-foot lengths of the rubber. It takes a day for each splice.

The belt and processing plants will cost $11,000,000 and when the project is finished the lot will be sold for scrap.

Main processing plant is five storeys high—all steel.

The plants will screen the material from the moraine into the various grades required for different sections of the dam—a fine impervious layer for the core, gradually thicker layers of gravel for the body, and heavier gravel and rock for the shell.

BALLOT COUNT on flag issue is supervised in Times office by secretary Elsie Edwards. Returns this week have run to more than 700 letters a day.

3,000 BALLOTS

Red Ensign Scores Runaway Victory

Nearly 3,000 Times readers have now expressed their preference between the Red Ensign and the new Canadian maple leaf flag design, which was officially disclosed in Ottawa today.

The design follows very closely the unofficial sketches carried earlier in newspapers.

But, it would seem, if the Times ballot can be regarded as a good sampling, that Victorians who have decided views on the flag favor the Red Ensign much better than two to one.

The latest count is:
Red Ensign 2,071.
Maple leaf 733.

The trend has been the same since the returns started coming in on Saturday. The ballot is discontinued today since it appears to have established what the feeling is.

Once again in today's mail there were dozens of letters accompanying the ballots.

Quite a number express deep feelings about fathers and sons who fought under the Red Ensign, and some who died.

Others are quite vigorous in their demand for an entirely new Canadian flag.

Some who like the maple leaf design would have one leaf instead of three.

Among those pulling for the Red Ensign some suggested the inclusion of a single maple leaf in the fly.

Ensign 2-1 In Edmonton

The Edmonton Journal, which is taking a newspaper poll on the flags reported a count today of 2,042 for the Red Ensign, 1,082 for new flag.

First returns in a Toronto Telegram poll were 1,150 to 289 for the Red Ensign.

Viet Platoon Wiped Out

SAIGON (AP)—The death toll of South Vietnamese troops in a Communist guerrilla ambush only 20 miles north of Saigon was 20 killed and eight missing, U.S. military sources said today.

That meant only two of the 30 men in the platoon that set out Tuesday to guard the road came back alive.

First Treaty Signed Between U.S., Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today an historic consular treaty with the Soviet Union and termed the event "a significant step" in building understanding between the American and Soviet peoples.

The treaty, announced simultaneously in Washington and Moscow, will provide for the opening of consular offices in the two countries. It is the first treaty ever negotiated between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Johnson, citing the advantages which he expects the U.S. to receive as a result of the agreement, said that when the treaty takes effect "Americans detained in the Soviet Union for any reasons will be assured of access without delay to American consular officials."

George Reedy, White House press secretary, was asked whether this would apply to any Americans who might be arrested on espionage charges.

"The statement says 'for any reasons'," Reedy replied.

Johnson said the agreement, which must be ratified by the Senate before it can take effect, will be signed in Moscow June 1.

FOE PAYS TRIBUTE

'Champion of Liberty'

Times News Services

The death of Prime Minister Nehru of India shocked the capitals of the world today. Tributes poured forth from friend and foe alike.

Perhaps the most moving scene came at Geneva, where the delegate of Pakistan, a nation that once fought India and had no use for Nehru, rose to address the United Nations world trade and development conference.

His voice breaking with emotion, Pakistani delegate Habibur Rahman declared:

"He was a champion of liberty and freedom throughout the world and played a dominant role in the struggle for the independence of the Indian subcontinent. Pakistan joins with all its heart in the condolences offered to the Indian delegation and the Indian people."

In Moscow, Soviet Premier Khrushchev went to the Indian Embassy and stood for a minute in silence before a portrait of Nehru.

Khrushchev, accompanied by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and First Deputy Premier Alexi Kosygin, then signed the Book of Condolences, writing simply his name and the date.

He told Indian Ambassador T. N. Kaul that Kosygin would fly to India tonight with a party of officials to attend the funeral Thursday.

In Washington, President Johnson said the world has lost a leader who served all humanity in "fearless pursuit of a world free from war."

Paying tribute to the Indian leader as "a great and beloved man," Johnson said in a statement that there could be no more fitting memorial to Nehru than a world at peace.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk left immediately to attend the funeral.

In Britain, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home and Lord Mountbatten, chief of the armed forces, announced that they would fly to India this afternoon to attend his funeral. Douglas-Home will represent the British

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

A couple of bon mots dropped at Monday's University of Victoria convocation by Msgr. Jacques Garneau, 46, contained sage wisdom but drew chuckles from the assembly.

"Allow me, before starting each on your separate way," he told graduates, "to warn you that education is not an act of salvation after which one is safe for eternity."

He then quoted a remark made by Prince Phillip: "Youth is in itself a qualification."

"Let me promptly add, however, that youth bears the bright promises of the future and that age in itself—any age in fact—is not a guarantee of experience or competence; it merely guarantees age."

One young graduate at the university ceremonies made me wonder if all the new degree holders were really as calm and cool as they appeared. Getting his coffee at the table in the reception hall afterwards, he calmly and coolly dropped two lumps of sugar into the jug of cream instead of into his cup.

We regret to report, Times fashion editor Nona Damaske will NOT become aircraft editor.

Damaske

Attending the International Trade Fair last week at Vancouver, she took in a movie at the Field Aviation exhibit. She made so many happy noises while watching a Bonanza aircraft speed across the screen, she drew attention of the sales manager.

"How about lunch," he said hungrily, "at Harrison Hot Springs?"

We looked forward to a story on handling ability, speed and versatility (of the aircraft, silly). And what did we get?

"The aircraft is canary yellow, blue-trimmed. It has five comfortable seats, upholstered with soft gold. Lunch and cocktails were delicious, and I was the envy of every girl at the fashion show that evening, etc., etc., etc."

We will write to Beechcraft to learn whether the ship is a jet, has wheels or floats, what altitude it attains, its speed, its cost, and its record in competition.

And as for Nona—back to the women's page.

The Union Jack as it exists today should not be in any Canadian flag, says P. M. Chiswell, 2311 Shakespeare, a Legionnaire. Ireland's St. Patrick's cross—the diagonal red cross—was not on the flag under which Wolfe took Quebec in 1763, but was added in 1801.

Mr. Chiswell suggests the Union Jack of 1763 be placed in the upper left corner, with the rest of the flag white with nine gold maple leaves and one gold fleur-de-lis.

Victoria secretary Mrs. Dorothy Hewitt White of 86 Kingham Place is up in arms because, she says, Canadian business firms are reluctant to hire older women.

"I have just accomplished a two-week task in one week-end," she said today, "yet the business world says I am too old for a job."

Last week Mrs. White was asked to type a book of more than 200 pages for a well-known Victoria speech therapist who wanted it within a week.

Recovering from a broken ankle and a broken wrist, sustained in a recent accident, Mrs. White began typing the book Saturday morning and finished it Sunday night.

"I took Saturday afternoon off to go shopping, and did not neglect the major duties of home-making—bed made, all dishes washed and put away, cat fed and waited on, the lawn watered without automatic modern equipment, meals prepared and cooked.

"With all this, I typed about 100,000 words, as well as assembling all the carbons, disassembling and putting the copies up in sets.

"Many women, 25 years my junior, are rubbing their arthritis and taking naps in the afternoon. Yet the business world says I'm too old for a job."

Even hymns are now keeping pace with the times.

Over CJVI this morning we heard a choir singing the tried and trusty favorite, Eternal Father, strong to save.

But instead of the old familiar lines:

O hear us when we cry to Thee
For those in peril on the sea

we heard

O hear us when we lift our prayer
For those in peril in the air.

quoted a member of his personal secretariat as saying Nehru died of a stroke, his second in the last five months. A reliable report said he had suffered a thrombosis (blood clot).

Home Secretary V. Viswanathan said Nehru's physicians attributed his death to "heart attack and shock."

The official gave this report of Nehru's last hours:

After returning to New Delhi Tuesday night from a three-day holiday in the mountain resort of Dehra Dun, Nehru went to bed at 11 p.m. as usual in his second - floor bedroom. He seemed normal and cheerful.

Upon arising this morning, Nehru acted and apparently felt as usual. But within minutes he was stricken and immediately lapsed into unconsciousness. He never regained consciousness.

Doctor who had lived in the prime minister's mansion since his first stroke last July 7 left his side partly paralysed, quickly administered oxygen and other specialists hurried to the mansion. But at 11:45, word spread through the house that "he is sinking."

At 1:30 p.m. Nehru's condition was termed "desperate and critical," and he died at 2 p.m.

It was announced soon after the death that Nehru's body will be cremated Thursday morning on the banks of the Jamnu River, near the spot where revered Indian independence leader Mohandas Gandhi was cremated 16 years ago.

The mourning period will last 12 days. Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Nehru's only child, was at his side when he died. Nehru's two sisters, Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit and Mrs. Krishna Hutheesiingh, left Bombay by special plane for New Delhi. Mrs. Pandit is governor of Maharashtra state.

If the usual custom is followed, Nehru's ashes will be strewn in the nation's holy rivers, probably at Allahabad, his birthplace, at the confluence of the Ganges, the Jumna and the mythological underground Saraswati River.

Only five days ago, Nehru indicated that he had given some thought of retiring.

Despite his slow improvement from his first stroke, in recent weeks he had resumed some of his government activities, including appearances in Parliament.

After the first stroke, Nehru brought 59-year-old Lal Bahadur Shastri back into the government as minister without portfolio and the government's spokesman in Parliament. Shastri then was viewed as deputy prime minister in effect and Nehru's heir apparent.

But after the prime minister's partial recovery and his return to Parliament, Shastri's authority diminished and a leadership vacuum developed. Nehru still was not physically able to carry out his duties fully but was unwilling to delegate authority for major decisions or designate an heir.

"The death of Prime Minister Nehru came as a severe shock to all East Indian residents of Victoria," Mohinder Singh Randhawa, secretary of the Khalsa Diwan Society said today.

"He was a great statesman and a friend to all countries."

This summer's work force will total 1,400 at Portage Mountain.

At the peak of the project, mid-1966, there will be 2,400 men on the job.

Now, 1,000 men live in a trailer city at the camp of the chief contractor for the dam, the dam, the Kiewit-Dawson, Johnson three-company syndicate.

Hydro has its own camp for 100 engineers.

Other workers live at Hudson Hope.

Although B.C.'s trade unions entered into a non-strike pact to ensure completion of the project on schedule, there is one sour labor problem.

Men who live in the Peace River country are complaining that all the hiring is done in Vancouver.

First Laid Off

Many of them have jobs on the project, but often they say, they are the first to be laid off, to save the contractor the cost of a return fare to the lower mainland for workmen from farther afield.

They have formed an organization called the North Peace Employed and Unemployed Laborers and Skilled Workers.

It has about 400 members and is pressing hard for local labor preferences.

government and Mountbatten the Queen.

The Queen in a message of condolence to India's president said:

"I am deeply grieved to hear of the death of Mr. Nehru, who will be mourned throughout the Commonwealth and among the peace - loving peoples of the world.

"My husband and my family join me in sending our deep and sincere sympathy to you and to the people of India in the irreparable loss which you have suffered."

RUSSIA SORROWS

Radio Moscow called Nehru's death "an enormous loss."

"We have lost a sincere friend, a man with whose name is connected a lot of good in the relations between the Soviet and Indian people," Radio Moscow said.

"We Soviet people bow deeply in memory of a great son of a great people and will remember him forever."

Earlier this year Khrushchev invited Nehru to visit the Soviet Union to convalesce from the illness that struck him last year. Nehru turned the invitation down.

Nehru once said it was "enough for me that I have exhausted myself, my strength and energy, in India's task."

In Japan, Socialist Leader Leader Jotaro Kawakami called Nehru's death "a great loss to the world, especially at this moment when the prospects of peaceful coexistence have begun to improve."

In Berlin, visiting King Mahendra of Nepal learned of Nehru's death as he was visiting the Berlin wall. He ordered his retinue back to the hotel where they were staying in the city and city officials said he was cutting short his visit.

Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin, said the world "has reason to mourn because Nehru was a caller for peaceful balance and joint work for the common good of nations."

In Yugoslavia, Radio Belgrade broke into a regular program with the news of the death. Nehru, the announcer said, "was one of the greatest people of the present world."

In Kashmir, Sheikh Abdullah, the "lion of Kashmir," wept when he heard the news of Nehru's death shortly after he arrived in Muzzaffarabad, the capital of Pakistani Kashmir, only a few days after he and Nehru had last held talks.

Abdullah, released from jail seven weeks ago after nearly 11 years in prison on charges of seeking to overthrow the Kashmiri government, has been conferring on the Kashmir problem with Indian and Pakistani leaders.

In Britain, the man who was prime minister when India achieved independence in 1947—Earl Attlee—said Nehru was "a great world figure and perhaps might be regarded as a doyen of world statesmen."

comes up for debate but final strategy would depend on an examination of the resolution.

A majority of Conservatives favor retention of the Red Ensign, although Quebec members of the party support a maple leaf flag.

Most members of other opposition parties are expected to support the government. A few Liberal members have indicated they may abstain from voting.

Since the cabinet decided on a design for the proposed flag last Thursday, the issue has developed into a cliff-hanger with daily questions in the Commons attempting to pry information from a tight-lipped prime minister. Nothing on the design or the resolution has been forthcoming, except that it would be a maple leaf flag.

Mr. Pearson told the Commons Tuesday that after members have had a chance to study the proposed design, the flag debate will be launched "in a matter of days." Mr. Diefenbaker had asked how soon the debate would be started after "we see this pictorial obsession produced."

By Tuesday it had become obvious that the government was not going to tip its hand on the flag design and the number of questions on the issue faded off sharply.

Louis - Joseph Pigeon (PC—Joliette - L'Assomption - Montcalm) wanted to know whether the government would make a "stupid" proposal to have two flags.

"There can be only one national flag," said the prime minister.

Speaker Alan Macnaughton ruled out of order a question by Robert C. Coates (PC—Cumberland) as to whether there would be educational programs carried out in countries where Canadian troops are serving, so they wouldn't be fired on when carrying an unfamiliar banner.

Mr. Pearson told Leon Balcer (PC — Trois-Rivieres) that the government has not taken a poll on the flag question "nor do I know of any poll taken by any party."

'CHILDREN, CHILDREN, CHILDREN'

Like People? Garden Court Fine

By MARGE GILROY

For families on the move, garden court apartments provide moderate rental accommodation and a home for children.

"Regardless of whether people like them or not, there is a social need for them," Anthony Roberts, director of the Capital Regional Planning Board, told the Times.

Mr. Roberts said garden court apartments provide a special place in the housing needs of the community.

Rents range from $85 to $135 monthly.

He doesn't think they will deteriorate into slums.

In 1962 Coun. Joseph Casey predicted the $1,350,000 Burnside Gardens at Burnside and Tillicum would become an eyesore unless developers are forced to keep up maintenance.

Not Slums

At the same time Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson said: "I don't see how it (Victoria Garden Court in James Bay) can help but become a slum."

Now, almost two years later with the newness worn off both developments, garden court tenants were interviewed to find out their reaction to the new-style accommodation.

Mrs. Helen Gillie, who has lived at Burnside Gardens for almost a year said, "people are coming and going all the time—moving trucks are in here all week long."

She enjoys running across the hall to chat over a cup of tea at any time of the day, but at the same time she complained about the lack of privacy.

"You sure got to like kids and people to live here," she said.

'Best Place'

Lt.-Cmdr. R. A. McKay, who previously lived in a private home, said: "We've been satisfied here, and although we would prefer our own home, we prefer this type of apartment living to an apartment block."

Mrs. Mabel Crockett: "I love it; it is the best place I have lived—I never have to worry about the children."

Mrs. Doris Dalman: "I don't like it—there is no privacy—but I work so it doesn't matter too much to me."

Inside, the apartments are spacious and convenient with facilities including a washing machine and dryer. Outside, there are children, children, children.

Some tenants commented on social cliques that form within the unit. Others had not observed this.

More Regulations

Caretaker at Burnside Gardens, Bob Gordon is an ex-navy man who knows about rental headaches.

"After the war people were treated like criminals if they had children and wanted to rent," he said.

"Our tenants are mostly service personnel, from officers to ordinary seamen, salesmen and company representatives posted here for a period of a couple of months to a couple of years."

Since the apartment opened, Mr. Gordon said, there has been a 75 per cent turnover every year.

At the Victoria Garden Court, a more compact unit of row houses, one of the first tenants, Mrs. Dalme Szy, likes the idea of a garden court apartment, but she would like to see more regulations governing the noise.

Water running and children playing late at night she finds very disturbing.

Feels 'Close'

"It is time the city built apartments for families with children, not just older people," she said.

After one week in residence Mrs. Doreen Mowatt observed, "There is lots you have to put up with—with all the children making a noise outside they might as well be in your own house."

But after living in older suites in Victoria she considers the garden court apartment a superior type of accommodation.

Already she is conscious of the "closeness" in the unit, as children and neighbors dropped in to see if they could help her move.

Barry Graham, one of the operators of Victoria Garden Court, said, "This type of accommodation is now a standard thing, and there will always be a demand for it."

"Certainly there is a lot of wear and tear on the building with so many people moving in and out, but the cost of constructing 78 garden court suites is considerably less than a 78-suite high-rise."

Fewer Rules

While some tenants would like more regulations, others, like Mrs. Rod Hendry, would like fewer.

Mrs. Hendry, a tenant in the Newton Garden Court off Richmond Road, said: "When I moved here I felt it was so commercial, it is not like your own home with so many regulations.

"I don't mind the communal living but I don't like the restrictions."

Mrs. Hendry previously lived in a large private residence, but with three children grown up and only one 13-year-old at home, she and her husband sold their home.

"My husband works late and he likes to bring friends and business associates home after work. Now he can't do that."

Other tenants in the new complex, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Moser, are finding apartment living a new experience.

Mr. Moser likes it. He has no upkeep, no worries, a comfortable place to live and a swimming pool outside his own patio.

Mrs. Moser is less enthusiastic. She described it as "a perfect place for children, they are never at a loss for something to do—they can always find a dozen kids in the hall."

Triple Theft Sentencing Set For June 2

A youth who stole three vehicles, one of which was deliberately wrecked, was remanded to June 2 for sentence when he appeared in court Tuesday.

Gary Streeton, 415 Island Highway, took a car off a city parking lot early on the morning of Dec. 21 last and abandoned it in Colwood.

The windows of the car were smashed and the radio missing. Altogether it sustained $350 damage.

Then, said RCMP Constable T. W. Shield, Streeton and some friends took a truck and drove it to Esquimalt. On Nov. 23, according to Cons. Shield's evidence, Streeton had stolen another car by crossing the ignition wires to start it.

LIONS FREE DRAGONS IN CHINATOWN

The dragons will be turned loose in Fisgard Street tonight as Victoria Chinatown Lions Club's welcome to the 1,600 delegates attending the 43rd convention of Lions Club District 19.

The program they have laid on will include a procession of oriental characters and oriental entainment.

From 8 p.m. Fisgard Street will be blocked off to traffic from Government and Store Streets.

The public as well as visiting Lions is invited to the grand pageant which will last about an hour.

Queen, Philip Plan Official Visit to West Germany

BONN (Reuters)—The Queen and Prince Philip will pay a state visit to West Germany in May, 1965, the West German president's office announced today.

The announcement said the visit would repay that made to London by the late West German president, Theodor Heuss, in October, 1958.

The Queen and Prince Philip must first repay a state visit to London made by Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia in 1954. They will visit Addis Ababa next February.

Prince Philip has made several private visits to West Germany in recent years to see relatives.

The visit next year was seen as finally setting the seal of approval by the major Western powers on post-war West Germany, following successful tours by the late president Kennedy and French President de Gaulle.

Post - war relations between Britain and West Germany have at times been uneasy.

It was noted that the Queen's 1965 visit was being announced an unusually long time in advance—a full year. Observers suggested this was to give the British public and press time to get used to the idea.

It was considered unlikely here that the Queen would visit West Berlin because of the political considerations involved.

Elizabeth will be the first British sovereign to visit Germany since King George V and Queen Mary, her grandparents, made an informal trip to Berlin in May, 1913.

This was for the marriage of Princess Luise of Prussia, Kaiser Wilhelm's only daughter, to Duke Ernst August of Brunswich-Luneberg.

Before the First World War George's father, Edward VII, frequently visited German health resorts and attended the Kiel regatta with Kaiser Wilhelm.

Norwegian police investigated 46,122 cases of crime and misdemeanor in 1963, an increase of seven per cent over 1962.

SOCREDS, NDP HELP

Grits Survive Another Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—With help from two New Democrats and eight Social Credit MPs, the minority Liberal government Tuesday night survived its 10th non-confidence motion of the 1964 parliamentary session.

The motion was defeated 130 to 112.

If the 10 opposition MPs who backed the Liberals had swung their support behind the Conservative non-confidence motion the government would have been toppled.

The Conservative motion, moved Monday by former agriculture minister Alvin Hamilton charged that the government had failed to meet the pressing agriculture problems of Eastern Canada.

The 89 Conservatives present drew voting support from 12 NDP members and 11 of the Creditiste group. There were 120 Liberals in the chamber.

EXPLAINS HIS VOTE

H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat) said his party agreed there were pressing agriculture problems in Eastern Canada, but they couldn't vote for the motion for this reason:

"There are problems of unity and other matters before the country at this time, and I am sure that if we were to support this (motion) tonight and thus plunge the country into another election at this stage, the wording of his amendment would be lost in the minds of its supporters before the election campaign was two weeks old."

BARS ON FLAG

'Not Correct But Glamorous'

OTTAWA (CP)—The vertical blue bar at each end of Canada's proposed flag is not correct heraldry, but adds glamor to the flag, Commander Alan Beddoe said today.

Cmdr. Beddoe, the government's expert in the field of heraldry, who has studied flag designs since 1946 and created crests for the armed forces, spoke as an individual on the subject, not on behalf of the government, he emphasized.

Disclaiming authorship of the flag design, Cmdr. Beddoe said at a press briefing he is merely a civil servant who made "a pragmatic distillation of many minds and authorities" in putting the design together.

It is based on three maple leaves joined on a single stem and the colors red and white, the national symbol and colors approved for Canada in 1921 by royla warrant issued by King George V.

The first time maple leaves were used in heraldry to represent Canada was in 1868 when they appeared in the arms of the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

At that time, a design for a Great Seal of Canada was drawn up employing the shields of the four original provinces—Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario.

NEVER AUTHORIZED

The seal was never officially authorized and no national crest was approved but it continued in use with changes as additional provinces joined Confederation until 1921.

By that time, there were nine provincial shields, which an authority described as a fish chowder of heraldic designs.

In 1919, the Conservative government of Robert Borden appointed a small committee of senior officials to study the armorial bearings of Canada, and in 1921 the new seal was adopted. It was approved by the Royal College of Heralds and issued by the Crown, the fountainhead of all heraldic honors.

Cmdr. Beddoe said that in preparing sketches for these arms, the Canadian maple leaves had always been shown in red on white, but Mr. Borden—later Sir Robert Borden—said the leaves should be green to denote Canada's young, growing status rather than the color of mature leaves.

They first appeared officially in 1921 as green and later were corrected.

Basically, Cmdr. Beddoe said, it would be correct heraldry to have the new flag without the vertical blue bar on each side. The blue strips, each one-tenth the width of the flag, "are not correct heraldry quite wrong in fact," but were added for glamor.

"By adding the blue, we have perhaps a more glamorous flag."

Cmdr. Beddoe said the pale blue of the United Nations flag was considered but rejected because it would seem to disappear against a blue sky. He described the proper colors as "a good strong blue and red."

WHITE CRITICIZED

"There has been criticism of a white flag because it denotes surrender," Cmdr. Beddoe added. But he described that as a fable.

White was an honorable color in heraldry, representing peace, faith and humanitarianism.

He noted the flag of the International Red Cross is a red cross on a white field. The banner of St. George was also red on a white field, and Jerusalem's flag was gold on white.

White was also the basic color of the Crusaders' flags.

Asked whether the new flag might not get soiled easily, Cmdr. Beddoe said: "Well, wash the thing. People would honor a flag more if they took more care of it."

Asked what happens now to the Canadian Red Ensign, he said it is essentially "a sea flag," used by the Canadian merchant marine as a special privilege granted in 1892 by the British admiralty.

There has never been any proper authority for displaying the Red Ensign on land, he added. Its use on government buildings in Canada and abroad was authorized in 1944 by cabinet order-in-council without the approval of the Crown.

Cmdr. Beddoe describes the maple leaves as stylized.

REPORTER CRITICAL

A reporter said the stems look like a plumber's nightmare and should be curved.

Cmdr. Beddoe said the three leaves with their many points, made such a "busy" design that they needed to be supported by strong, straight stems.

Pressed by reporters about the blue in the flag, he said "anybody that doesn't like the blue can take scissors and cut it off, but if Parliament and the Queen approve it, that's it."

He again emphasized that he spoke as an individual.

PARENTS POP PILLS INTO PUPILS

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—A New Jersey state health official believes some overanxious parents are dosing their children with tranquillizers before sending them to school.

Dr. Geoffrey Esty, a state health department pediatrician assigned to the state education department, said the parents apparently are trying to protect the children from cracking under pressure for good grades.

Drivers or Riders

A LARGE NUMBER OF Greater Victoria residents resent suggestions of amalgamation, or of metropolitan government, for reasons that are good or bad or simply emotional.

But while they cling with determination to the individual municipal entities, the problems they face continue to spread beyond municipal boundaries. The solution to those problems very frequently appears to be joint action with a joint administrative board to direct it. This is a situation created in this community by geography and modern living.

In an effort to overcome the semantic disadvantages of "amalgamation" and "metropolitan government", Mr. Dan Campbell, minister of municipal affairs, has proposed an approach which would bring together elected representatives of the municipal units in boards with jurisdiction over various services. The Greater Victoria Water Board is cited as an example. The Greater Victoria School Board might be even more impressive a pattern were it not for the fact that amalgamation of municipal education boards was enforced by the government.

Basically the intent of the new approach is to give the different municipalities elected representation on committees, commissions or boards entrusted with the administration of certain services. Development of a comprehensive sewer system is a pertinent case.

The suggestion is excellent insofar as it avoids treading on the toes of sensitive municipalities.

The fact is obvious that Greater Victoria is confronted with the necessity of joint action. The community as a whole stands now approximately where the city stood in 1912 when it operated under the ward system. In May of that year Victoria abolished the five wards, which suffered from the rival pulls of sectional self-interest, to create a single method of electing aldermen from the entire city with a view to serving the highest public interest.

The danger in the present situation is that the obvious need for concerted action could lead to the establishment of boards detached from councils and appointed rather than elected. By this process the unification of a particular service could come about without elected representatives having any control over it.

Gradually council authority would be eroded and the effective body would persist as an independent agency not responsible to the electors. Ultimately councils might become little more than tax-collecting instruments for the special boards.

The question seems to be whether or not the elected people want to hold the reins and drive where they want to go, or become, in time, the hitch-hikers sitting on the tail gate facing the other way.

Instant Compost, Atomic Style

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE United States presidential race far beyond the bounds of that country is emphasized in many ways—the most recent being Republican would-be candidate Barry Goldwater's proposal to use the nuclear bomb in South Viet Nam.

It is true that Senator Goldwater would use bombs plainly marked for use against tree leaves only, in order to clear the jungle cover and expose enemy encampments. But the nuclear weapon has a tendency to clear everything in the path of its blast, not just leaves, and the Goldwater proposal could well leave South Viet Nam a lifeless, radioactive waste.

It would also invite the fear of the rest of the world, and hurried preparations to retaliate if necessary against the trigger-happy nation that so casually employed the world's most terrible weapon.

The effect on the United States, on Canada and on the world if this man were to be elected to the presidency of his nation would be incalculable. Quite apart from his earlier extremes of opinion — on economic, racial, political and other matters — this latest approach to international solutions through the atom would be enough to reverse a decade of progress toward disarmament and international understanding. No foreign country would feel safe with Mr. Goldwater in the White House, no day would dawn without the threat of some catastrophic utterance or development which might rock the world's security. We would live in a state of perpetual brinkmanship.

We therefore have a heavy stake in next November's election and in the party nominations which will precede it. We in Canada have difficulty in understanding how Mr. Goldwater can have any support at all. We can only hope that his nomination would be all that is needed to elect his opponent.

To Earn, to Pay, to Study

AN EMPLOYMENT SURVEY covering students of the University of Victoria has produced results that should be noted by the Provincial Government.

More students than ever before are seeking jobs and so far fewer have been engaged than last year. This means for most that earning opportunities for the year, on a vacation basis, have already been reduced by about one-quarter and the situation is not expected to improve when high school seniors hit the labor market at the end of next month.

For the sons and daughters of families comfortably off and ready to finance higher education for their children, this may impose little hardship. For those dependent on their summer earnings to continue their education, the outlook is anything but happy.

It is made more discouraging by the fact that fees have been raised — a measure taken by the universities to increase revenue when their financial needs outpaced government grants.

The alternative to employment for deserving students seeking to continue to higher grades seems to be an expanded program of loans, scholarships and bursaries — one that not only yields more grants to the students, but amounts of greater size. This, in itself, however, seems a less adequate means of broadening educational opportunities to those progressing to higher study than more generous treatment of the universities by the government.

A Policeman's Lot . . .

THERE CAN BE NO DOUBT that the Canadian forces stationed in Cyprus to preserve the peace are doing an excellent job in the full meaning and spirit of their United Nations assignment. Under extreme provocation they have twice replied to Cypriot fire with the result that the gunmen have ceased their attack on the civilians the Canadians were escorting. They have been tough when necessary, neutral at all times.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant has issued a clear warning that the "vicious circle of . . . incident and reprisal" perpetuated by the Greek and Turkish Cypriots could lead to a complete breakdown and the imminent threat of open war. That war could involve both Greece and Turkey as a start; there is no limit to the speculation on those who might be drawn into it.

The Cypriots show no appreciation of this likelihood; they are completely engrossed in asserting their respective rights and ruining their island in the process, besides storing up resentments and wrongs that may take generations to dissipate.

In such a situation the work of a police force is of extreme delicacy. Too light a hand will merely invite continued violence by the native fighters; too heavy a hand may mean that the warfare is merely broadened to include a third party.

So far the Canadians have acted with tact, with restraint, but with firmness when required. The Turkish and Greek Cypriot armed bands must by now recognize the neutrality and toughness of the Van Doos and accompanying troops. They are carrying out a difficult task with commendable ability.

The Boomerang Comes Back

WITH A SORT OF GENIUS FOR unmaking friends and influencing people unfavorably, South Africa has compounded its restrictions on Albert Luthuli, the non-white winner of a Nobel Peace Prize.

Mr. Luthuli, whose present term of limited movement ends in the next few days, has been made subject to a new order which will keep him in a small area in the middle of an African reserve, near Durban, for the next five years.

The hardship thus imposed on the African leader will be widely recognized outside his own country. But, as in other instances, the action of the South African government will again boomerang. The harder they throw the weapon at Luthuli, the harder it returns to strike them.

Parade Echoes

Suggestions

I would like to point out two things at the Victoria Day parade which I think were wrong:

The horses came in past the start of the parade, so everybody—I for one of them—at the Mayfair Plaza could only see the horses' tails.

The Indians should have been at the front of the parade, not at the tail-end. They were a splendid group and I think, deserved a prominent place.

Appreciation

Now that we have concluded our Victoria Day celebrations for this year, I should like to express the thanks and appreciation of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association to all those who took part in the Grand Parade and the many other events during that weekend of festivities. We are grateful for the many hours of work spent in making the beautiful floats and other decorated units in the parade and thank all those who contributed their efforts to make the week-end festivities a success.

We also wish to thank the public of Greater Victoria for the appreciation they have shown of the efforts made by the many participants in the festivities and for their magnificent attendance at the Grand Parade.

FROM THE HAGUE

By RICHARD PURSER

The Need for a Policy on Non-NATO Nations

AN assessment of the NATO ministerial conference here suggests that the most urgent topic for discussion by alliance members is an agreed policy toward the under-developed nations. It may be NATO's duty to look at the political and military threat of communism in Africa, Asia and Latin America, just as it has become GATT's duty to look at the trade situation in those areas.

Purser

But agreement will not be easy to achieve. Mr. Spaak would like a common NATO policy toward the former colonies of Britain, France, Belgium and The Netherlands, Mr. Stikker says most NATO nations would like a common policy on trading with the communists. Canada wants NATO to put pressure on Greece and Turkey over Cyprus.

One of the big problems, as Mr. Martin found out when he raised the latter point, is the disinclination of many NATO members to discuss threats outside the 15 treaty nations at all. If this was true with Cyprus, right on the fringe of NATO and involving two of its members, how much more will it be true with Latin America and Southeast Asia?

Mr. Spaak, although representing a small nation, stated the problem. The United States after the war made the greatest effort in history of one nation to help others. Through the Marshall Plan and NATO, it gave all-out economic and military backing to Europe. Now the under-developed world needed backing, and the United States was handling most of the burden alone. Was Europe helping its former savior, and was Europe conscious of its long-term interests?

The Belgian's backing came as Mr. Rusk pleaded for support on two issues: American trading policy with Cuba and American military policy in South Viet Nam.

Reluctant Partners

It was not Mr. Spaak's contention that the alliance should automatically fall in line with American policy. He merely asked for honest policies of immediate interest to NATO's senior partner. Little such effort was evident. Not only were many partners reluctant to get involved, but two partners appeared to the Americans to be obstructive. They were Britain on Cuban trade, and France on South Viet Nam. As an American source tersely remarked after the conference: "Washington will continue in touch with London over Cuba."

Since the sale of buses to Cuba, Britain has been steadfastly upholding the principle of non-interference with commercial trade in non-strategic goods. As far as the United States is concerned, Britain is standing on its high horse and (successfully) encouraging other NATO nations to do the same.

The reasons for American Cuban policy have nothing to do with trading principles. They were set out in detail by Undersecretary of State George Ball in a speech April 23 at Roanoke, Virginia. If allies are to disagree with American policy, the Americans would like to see them attempt to challenge the reasons for that policy—and to consult with the threatened nations of Latin America while they are about it.

The American appeal for support in South Viet Nam referred to political, and if possible financial and supply support. There was no question of asking for combat help. This is in line with the "opening up of NATO" attitude struck by Mr. Spaak and Mr. Strikker. As Mr. Strikker pointed out, attempts to extend NATO's military influence outside it own area would be unwelcome everywhere in the world, except under treaty.

Even in its request for non-military support the United States did not get very far. American delegates left the conference expecting offers of help in one way or another from individual countries, but the United States won no mention of Southeast Asia in the conference communique.

This was because France has lately been pushing for the neutralization of South Viet Nam. The French policy is regarded by the American as impractical.

Laos Example

The Americans are likely to be confirmed in their opinion by recent developments in supposedly neutral Laos.

The trouble is that these conflicting opinions were not debated at the NATO conference. De Gaulle had stated his Southeast Asia policy at his last press conference, and that was that.

It is accepted that development of NATO towards Atlantic unity is suspending while Gaullism prevails. It now is believed by many circles that the alliance must use the breathing spell to come to terms with the communist threat outside the Atlantic area.

This attempt will get nowhere if France refuses to discuss any subject on which there is initial disagreement, and other members do not try to look seriously at an alliance on world problems that now are too much the responsibility of one member alone.

Further Opinions on a Change in the Canadian Flag

On Field of Light Blue

The issue with regard to the new flag for Canada is fraught with many diverse and conflicting opinions, some of which could be dangerous to unity.

To study the matter from a Canadian viewpoint one should read the Durham Report of 1839, and be familiar with the settlements in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, P.E.I., Ontario, by the British, and with the opening of the West by Britons. One should study the French-Canadian viewpoint with regard to Britain, from the First World War on to the unhappy incidents of the bombings and stealing of arms in Montreal, including the dire threats to Her Majesty the Queen.

Then we should fully understand the sacrifice made by hundreds of thousands of British-Canadians mostly, during the two great holocausts. There is not much use seeking the opinion of first generation Canadians of European descent with regard to a flag about which they know very little.

If the new Canadian flag were to be similar to those of New Zealand and Australia — viz: the Union Jack quartered with three maple leaves on a light blue background, all would be well, especially if Quebec were to be granted her own flag. But to placate Quebec—one province out of 10, by eradicating the Union Jack is, to my way of thinking, a political gesture, and should be condemned. What we want in this country is unity. But unhappy feelings about the present suggested new flag are not considered to be of a character to ensure unity.

ARTHUR HINTON.

Had the Jack Gone Down . . .

I would like to know the real reason behind Mr. Pearson's sudden decision to force his own idea of a national flag on the Canadian people. This pitiful design has not any historical background nor is the maple grown only in Canada. I am probably in error but it appears to be a bid for the Quebec vote. I quite agree with the proponents of a distinctive Canadian National Flag but the Union Jack must be a part of it.

If we move to leave the Union Jack out of a Canadian flag originated in Quebec, I would remind my French-speaking fellow countrymen—or should I say Normandy patois speaking—of a few facts.

(1) It is known that on the conclusion of the U.S.A. War of Independence, which was won by the British settlers, had Benjamin Franklin put a little pressure on the British government, the new nation would have received a free gift of all Canada.

(2) In the War of 1812, the habitant fought well under the Union Jack for they had the belief that had that flag been replaced by the Stars and Stripes, they would face a very harsh regime.

(3) When Kaiser Wilhelm started out to carve out a place in the sun, had Britain gone down, Canada would have sustained a real knockout blow.

(4) Again in 1939, Hitler went on the war path, the Union Jack, under which men from all the Commonwealth fought including Canadians, kept flying. British stubbornness won.

In any of the four cases, I mentioned, had the Union Jack gone down to defeat, Quebec French would now be a dead language.

Distinctive Red Ensign

It is said that the reason for wanting to discard Canada's honored and respected Red Ensign is in order to have a distinctive flag. But the Red Ensign is already distinctive as with the coat of arms of Canada in the fly, it cannot be mistaken for the flag of any other country.

We are told that the flag that is suggested will be similar to that shown on the recently issued 5-cent stamp. That shows three leaves of what seems to be the Norway maple, which is not a native tree, but an imported one—from a country other than France.

If we do have this flag imposed on us by the politicians, it is not likely that it will command respect or loyalty when it may in its turn be discarded by some other politician, who thinks he will gain more votes than lose votes by making a change. Our flag should not be a political pawn.

As for Quebec feeling neglected and backward compared with the rest of Canada, its inhabitants should not compare their social and material standing with those of the English parts of Canada, but with those of countries like South Ireland, Portugal and Spain, which like Quebec are dominated by the Italian Church of Rome.

RED ENSIGN.

Paging Betsy Ross

What a fuss about a flag. I wish someone would pay me $18,000 or more a year to waste my time on the above nonsense. In my opinion a group of women could have designed a flag and settled the issue in an afternoon. Let our representatives get on with more important things while in Ottawa.

MRS. C. G. GOATER.

Dictatorship

Up to the present Canada has been known as a democratic country.

When important issues, which concern all the Canadian people, and which should be decided by their free vote, are left to the tender mercies of politicians (hemmed in as they are by party lines and the thoughts of $18,000 indemnities) democracy apparently ceases to function, and dictatorship takes over.

(MRS.) ELEANOR M. HOWARD

No Rush

When in the service of my native Canada and visiting other countries, both foreign and Commonwealth, I often was mistaken for anything but Canadian; during the last World War we proudly carried CANADA on our "gas mask" haversacks.

Canada has needed a distinctive flag for years, but we no more want a new one shoved off on us than inherit the one we have. As far as a choice is concerned, if we don't know what we want, well why not keep the one we have, which at least has some real significance.

Canada, and I mean all of it, is represented by any flag which by choice we accept, but who would, in this country salute say, a swastika?

There's no rush, we have a flag and if flag-wise we can discard this one like a dirty shirt, who will worry what takes its place, within reason?

My idea of Canada is gathered from visits to nearly every part of it and it seems to me a flag to represent this vast domain would have to come from a native artist inspired like a poet laureate and gifted with a great patriot's love of all its parts and peoples. I would think a cabinet under control of a prejudiced leader and pressed by expediency is no climate for the birth of a badge representing the third largest country.

H. F. LEGGETT.

What Evaluation?

You want a plebiscite on the flag question but plebiscites are usually employed when a government refuses to act or to encourage a large turnout at the polls. It is true that any individual knows enough to pick his own flag by plebiscite but the plebiscite like your flag ballot could prevent him doing so.

In your ballot you give us two choices—Mackenzie King's Red Ensign and Mr. Pearson's national emblem design. You don't give the many people who would prefer the Union Jack a chance to vote. And how about the White Ensign? You are editorializing in favor of the Red Ensign; some people are going to vote twice, some people aren't going to vote.

In all honesty, how are you going to evaluate the result?

Had you really wanted to settle this problem by plebiscite you should have said so when Mr. St. Laurent was in power. He would have welcomed some western pressure on that line.

I would like to point out that with the exception of the republics it is the Crown that is the unifying force in the Commonwealth and the Queen has her own Canadian standard.

The members of Parliament understand this and for this reason I would not be surprised that if the measure passes at all it will do so unanimously. Canada deserves a little unanimity on this subject at least.

For Plebiscite

This is a letter to pay tribute to your Columnist—Arthur Mayse. His column in your paper of May 20 is excellent. It is a restrained and reasoned statement which appeal to all real thinking Canadians who love their country, and one which is urgently needed to be said at this crucial time in our history—indeed a "Second Battle of the Plains."

One can only hope and pray our Government will hold a plebicite so that all the people of Canada may express their wishes before it is too late.

Thank you, sincerely, Mr. Mayse, for your efforts in expressing so admirably the heart-felt feeling of so many.

By ART STOTT

Easier on the Pocket

WITHIN a month property-owners of Oak Bay and Esquimalt turned down proposals to add swimming pools to their recreational facilities.

In my opinion this does not mean that the property-owners are against municipally-built swim pools. It means, if I guess correctly, that they weren't prepared to spend the kind of money the councils suggested for the projects. I think the public would be happy to support pools that came comfortably within their purse.

Stott

It goes something like the debate in our house over renovation of the bathroom. We agree something has to be done. The only thing holding us back is the price. I can't afford gold taps.

Here's a case, it seems to me, of the perfect being the enemy of the good.

But do we people who live in Greater Victoria need to lay out so much to get pools that would be adequate? Certainly not if we'll be satisfied with teaching pools and play pools.

When I was young, innocent and altruistic and my children were small, we lived for a while at the foot of Wildwood. A block or two west were the steps leading down to Little Ross Bay. At low tide I inspected the site and the rock formation which leaves the bay virtually a large pond when the water is low. And from my inspection I came up with the idea that a few hundred or maybe two to three thousands dollars worth of concrete properly spaced on the rocks would provide an excellent child's pool.

I was covering the City Hall at the time and I managed to convince Ed Williams, who was then chairman of the public works committee, that the expenditure would be very much worthwhile.

Came the night of the council meeting at which Ed was going to introduce the recommendation. We'd done a pretty competent job of lobbying and had lined up a majority. The project was in the bag. And then—

Ed came to me and said the whole thing was off. Why? Because the sewage from the Ross Bay outfall swung directly into Little Ross Bay, the water was so heavily polluted that a public swim pool there would be a major health hazard to the children of the district and beyond. So the deal fell through.

But it fell through too quickly. Tony Clegg, who has an interest in Ross Bay affairs, suggested another approach. Build the pool so it was water-tight, leave it empty until it had been thoroughly disinfected and then fill it with fresh water, drawn off the city supply at night when it wouldn't impair pressure.

Tony's idea still makes sense and it would indicate the feasibility of outdoor seaside swim pools here, sun-warmed during the summer.

There are difficulties, of course. In addition to making an enclosure to hold water, there'd still be the problem of keeping it reasonably clean so that it wouldn't be flushed out to sea at low tide just when it was warming up. There would also be the business of keeping the sand free of bugs and dirt. But it seems to me worth a try.

Around other parts of our Greater Victoria coast it should be possible to create enclosures that could be filled with sea water relatively, if not entirely, free of pollution.

Creating all-weather, all-year covered and heated swim pools would be more expensive. But if the less costly experiment were tried, we might have a good start toward inexpensive warm bathing.

There's a lot of difference between outdoor, summertime teaching and play pools and the type of facilities needed for championship meets. The latter come high. I'd like to see both here, supplementing the Crystal Garden, which has been an attraction for about 40 years.

Since I now suffer from vertigo when I get on a three-metre board, my interest runs to facilities for the youngsters. And when I think of them, I am seized again with wonder at the job Archie and others at the YMCA have done in starting top-notchers in the 60-by-20-foot enlarged bathtub at the corner of View and Blanshard.

The kind of coaching available is naturally a determining factor in the kind of swimmers turned out, but facilities are essential too. The facilities, I'm sure, could be provided at a price property-owners would be ready to pay.

IN CALIFORNIA

'Responsibility' Rocky's Ploy

By JACK BELL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller apparently believes he has welded a "responsibility" key that will unlock the doors to victory in California's vital Republican presidential preference primary next Tuesday.

The New York governor has tossed overboard in California the underdog role he played expertly in winning the May 15 Oregon primary. In that contest he damaged beyond practical repair the potential candidacy of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

In his role of political despoiler, Rockefeller now is reported highly confident he can handily defeat Senator Barry Goldwater in next week's voting and thus blight the Arizona conservative's burgeoning drive for the 655 convention votes needed for the presidential nomination. The Republican convention opens in San Francisco July 23.

SOME DOUBT PREDICTION

Rockefeller's public prediction that if he wins California's 86 votes in Tuesday's balloting he will have 400 convention votes on the first ballot is privately chalked up in his own camp as wrong. Even if he can field all of New York's 92—of which there is some doubt—Oregon's 18 and California's 86 would give him just 196. He probably would go over the 200 mark but would still be a distant second to Goldwater on the first ballot at the San Francisco meeting.

But his victory in Oregon and his confidence that he can win in California have restored the governor's obviously faltering faith—which he never conceded publicly — that he could win the nomination for himself.

Nobody around him was willing to admit it aloud, but until Oregon came along and California began to look good, the Rockefeller operation was regarded by the political pros as little more than a desperate effort to stop Goldwater.

The pros are not ready yet to go along, but Rockefeller's people are talking optimistically of getting the nomination for their candidate. In this connection, they are bearing down on the point that the governor really believes he can beat President Johnson in November. They are suggesting that Goldwater and some other potential nominees have no such faith in their prowess.

N.B. PREMIER SAYS:

'Quebec Gains Aid Others'

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Premier Luis J. Robichaud said Tuesday night he does not always agree with Quebec but each victory in its battle with Ottawa for provincial autonomy "has been a victory for the other Canadian provinces."

Quebec, said the premier, has developed its educational, cultural and political systems to a point where it has become self-confident and to a large extent self-sufficient.

"This new-found vitality has given her a new role also. For Quebec, now more than ever, is assuming the role of a benevolent protectorate over minorities in other provinces."

Speaking of the New Brunswick Historical Society, the premier called for harmony among French and English - speaking Canada to find the true spirit of Confederation. He said the idea that Quebec automatically boycotts any federal proposal has been added to the lon glist of "myths" about that province.

Its co-operation with federal authorities was exemplified by the recent proposals for a federal-provincial pension plan.

"I believe that the agreement reached when no one really thought that it would be feasible proves that relations between Ottawa and Quebec can work to the distinct benefit of all Canadians."

Dogs, Beware of Sam

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The trouble with the U.S. postal service is that it has lost its sense of drama. Not since the days of the Pony Express has carrying the mail packed a real punch.

West

The glory that once belonged to the postal service has been taken over by such glamorized government agencies as the FBI, the CIA and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

There has now arisen, however, a unique opportunity for the postal service to recapture some of its old aura of adventure and excitement.

It recently was announced that letter carriers across the nation are being armed with a new weapon—an aerosol spray dog repellent.

The stuff comes in a plastic container which the postman clips onto his belt. If he finds a snarling dog standing between him and a mailbox, he can draw his repellent sprayer and open fire.

The sprayer, which contains about two dozen shots of a harmless oil and pepper mixture, is reported to be effective at ranges up to 12 feet.

Do you see what I see in this? I see the makings of a television series based on the adventures of the fastest draw in the postal service.

The program can be called "Sam Code, Postal Dog Fighter," and it should do for the postman what Ben Casey has done for your stodgey old family physician.

As I see it, Sam Code is the Gary Cooper type. Doesn't talk much, but when he smiles that crooked little smile of his the girls just go ape.

Sam has a roving, trouble-shooting assignment. Anywhere there is a vicious dog on a postal route, that is where you will find Sam Code.

The big scene takes place at high noon. Our hero, substituting for the regular postman, approaches a house which harbors a pedigreed chow with a nasty reputation.

Step by step, the steel-nerved repellent slinger advances toward the mailbox. The chow, teeth bared and hair bristling, runs out from under the rhododendron bush and blocks his path.

"I'm calling your bluff, Fido," Sam sneers. "You've made a smorgasbord out of a postman for the last time."

His hand inches toward his trusty aerosol sprayer. One squirt and it's all over.

After the commercial, we see Sam at the door delivering 12 pieces of junk mail and two department store bills. Then, with a crooked little smile, he is off to face a bad-tempered boxer.

Soup Cans in the Window Box

One of the problems of window boxes is to keep them thoroughly moist throughout the summer, for once the soil becomes dry in the centre it is almost impossible to get it saturated again.

Jack

If the boxes could always be placed in the shade the problem would not be so acute, but only begonias do well under shady conditions. The usual window box annuals must have full sun.

Of all the suggestions I have collected over the years, only two seem practical enough to pass along as possible means of keeping the boxes damp enough.

One is to set a row of perforated soup cans spaces about eight to 10 inches apart along the centre line of the box from end to end. These are buried to soil level and are soon covered by the foliage. They are effective in maintaining a reasonable distribution of moisture if filled every other day when the surface soil is watered.

The other idea is to build the window box of rough cedar and then add a false front and ends made in a fancy design from plywood. These pieces are attached to spacer blocks which leave an air space of about one inch between them and the box.

The three-ply receives the full heat from the sun and some of the heat is passed to the air in the space between plywood and box.

As soon as this air reaches a temperature higher than the surrounding air it starts to rise and is replaced by cooler air from below.

In this way the heat is removed from the space and the window box itself remains much cooler than a box without a false outer shell. A cooler box means less rapid evaporation of soil moisture and better plant growth.

Algerians Seek Aid For Orphans

OTTAWA (CP)—A delegation of deputies from Algeria's National Assembly arrived here Tuesday to seek government and private aid for Algeria's 180,000 war orphans.

The five-member delegation, the first to leave Algeria on such a mission since the country's war of independence ended in 1962, already has been to points in the United States and to Montreal.

At a press conference, members of the delegation said that although they hope to get pledges of financial aid from the Canadian government and veterans' organizations, they are also seeking technological assistance.

"We need teachers who can speak French, to educate these orphans," said Deputy Abdelkader Ammar-Mouhoub. "Over 80 per cent of the children are illiterate."

"Homeless, penniless, in rags, I was an outcast, without hope. Then The Salvation Army found me. They fed and clothed me. They showed me the way to regain my self-respect. Now I have a job, and I'm going to make good. For all this I have to thank the helping hands and the understanding hearts of The Salvation Army."

The Doors of The Salvation Army's havens, hostels, homes and hospitals offer the way to a new life for men, women or children who are in want or trouble. Won't you help us to keep these doors open? In aiding others you will bring joy to your own heart.

Jobless Benefits 'Sapping Fibre'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Toronto insurance executive Graham E. Brown Tuesday described unemployment insurance as "rocking chair money" and accused Canadians of throwing their individual rights down the drain by tolerating the proposed Canada pension plan.

In a speech to the B.C. Chamber of Commerce annual meeting, he said the pension plan was another example of Canadians delegating their rights and responsibilities to government at the expense of individual freedom.

Mr. Brown, senior vice-president of Sun Life Assurance and chairman of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce's executive council, also had a few unkind words for government planning in general.

He said it was going beyond the indicative stage and into compulsory planning. "This we must fight . . . good men and good money will not tolerate a restrictive atmosphere and will move to where they can flourish."

Mr. Brown said "unemployment insurance has been prostituted until it has become rocking chair money, sapping our moral fibre." Unemployment had become a regional problem in Canada and since both men and money were mobile, mobility may be a better cure than subsidy, he told chamber delegates.

CHECKS IMPOSSIBLE

He urged a full investigation of the federal pension plan before it is launched saying it would create a $5,000,000,000 concentration of financial control in government hands with no way for the public to check it.

The insurance executive warned that the plan will add to industrial costs, reducing Canada's ability to compete in world markets. It would also reduce the amount of private Canadian capital available for mortgages.

Mr. Brown said too many Canadians had transferred their responsibilities to all levels of government. "We must not delegate these rights and responsibilities of the individual.

"The chamber of commerce should constantly check the government and demand more realistic expenditures. The tax burden is much too heavy and we must keep the pressure on the government to reduce costs and establish priorities," he said.

34 Employees At Auto Firm Given Notice

About 34 remaining employees of Pacific Chrysler Dodge (1954) Ltd. have been given notice effective at week's end, it was learned Tuesday.

H. H. Wilson, acting as general manager of the firm — organized as a partnership in 1960—said he had no statement to make at this time.

The partnership with former president George Hankinson was terminated at the option of the Chrysler Corp. a month ago.

About half of the firm's staff since have left to join Mr. Hankinson in three of his own businesses, Pacific Collision, Downtown Motor Service and Oak Bay Motor Service.

It was understood that members of the Pacific Chrysler staff were given mimeographed forms telling them their jobs would end.

Among changes expected as a result of the take-over are a shift of the Valiant, Dodge, Chrysler auto franchise to National Motors, which in turn was expected to drop its Studebaker franchise to David Motors, and perhaps give up Rover, Mercedes-Benz and Standard-Triumph dealerships.

Meanwhile, Ensign Motors are contemplating a move to premises of Pacific Chrysler, retaining its Valiant, Plymouth, Chrysler dealership.

Dolphin Motors, with the Renault agency, was expected to move into Ensign's premises.

Desegregated Schools Ordered By Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court ordered Prince Edward County, Va., Monday to reopen its public schools on a desegregated basis by next September.

County education officials closed the schools in 1959 to avoid court-ordered admission of Negroes. "Private" schools were then set up for the white children.

ONE OF THE WORLD'S LARGEST bulk carriers, the British-owned Argyll is back in drydock here for a second time. First time was in 1962 when the 39,000-ton salt carrier was on her maiden voyage. The 760-foot cargo ship has twin 10-ton railway cranes which operate full cargo length and four sets of conveyor belts used for both loading and unloading. The bridge stretching across the 106-foot beam is situated on the forward section of the ship. After having her bottom scraped and painted the Argyll will go back into operation between Mexico and Vancouver carrying salt from the Black Warrior Lagoon.

Tobacco Ad Ban Opposed

TORONTO (CP)—J. J. Robinette, counsel for the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, says that in his opinion a bylaw recently passed by the town of Cardston, Alta., prohibiting tobacco advertising is invalid.

A statement by the CDNPA says publishers have commented editorially that the bylaw appears to be a "disturbing infringement of civil rights and have raised the question of its legality.

The CDNPA says it submitted the matter to Mr. Robinette whose opinion said: "I am clearly of the opinion that such a bylaw is invalid and not within the legal powers of a municipal council."

In an interview Tuesday Mr. Robinette said: "This is not the sort of thing municipal councils can legislate. This is a matter of civil rights. Municipal councils have certain powers delegated to them and this is not one of them."

He said this is the type of legislature that would have to be dealt with by a provincial legislature.

Saanich Virgin Lands 'At Builders' Mercy'

Virgin lands of the Saanich Peninsula are at the mercy of speculative and often cynical developers, a Victoria businessman told the B.C. Chamber of Commerce on Monday.

Hugh Stephen told a panel discussion:

"Among thinking people, the horror of the desecration that is slowly overtaking this superb countryside is fully comprehended . . .

"(But) we are confronted by an apathy on the part of most of our citizens and the almost complete failure of the sources of public authority to regroup their forces so that sufficient power may be assembled to resolve the issues."

John A. Wallace, also of Victoria, was elected first vice-president of the B.C. chamber at the meeting.

A resolution by Port Alberni delegates calling for federal and provincial legislation to combat air and water pollution was tossed out by the convention.

Instead, delegates voted to urge government and industry to support pollution studies by the B.C. Research Council.

The new Bank of British Columbia was rapped by Edward Benson, president of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

He said it was useless to oppose its establishment but:

"We should continue to express our concerns about its becoming a political tool—and I am not referring only to the present party in power."

'Here's Your Free Land' Vancouver Tells Smythe

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council agreed Tuesday night to provide land free of charge for a proposed $8,000,000 downtown sports coliseum.

The council decision bridged one of the last gaps standing in the way of construction of the 20,000-seat coliseum which Toronto Maple Leafs' president Stafford Smythe said he would have built if the city threw in the land free.

The decision to provide land was approved unanimously. The council is said to be considering several sites, including a choice $2,000,000 parcel of land in the heart of the city.

The next step proposed by council is to meet here immediately with the Leafs' president and vice-president Harold Ballard to work out mutual satisfactory arrangements for the over-all development.

Donation of the land will likely have to be approved either by plebiscite or bylaw, council indicated.

The city disputed claims made by a strong bidder for the coliseum, Reeve Alan Emmott of suburban Burnaby, who said the building would create an impossible traffic problem in downtown Vancouver.

Reeve Emmott had met personally in Toronto with Mr. Smythe and made a strong bid to have the coliseum built in Burnaby. He offered free land, but Mr. Smythe said he wasn't interested as long as Burnaby had no legal authority to permit Sunday sport. Vancouver has a bylaw allowing paid Sunday sport.

"You can give Reeve Emmott an 'A' for effort," said Ald. Hugh Bird. "His mouth may be watering, but he won't get the candy."

In an earlier council session Tuesday, a letter from Mr. Smythe was read. In it, the Leaf president offered to "meet immediately" with city council if satisfactory arrangements regarding provision of the land and taxes and municipal services was worked out.

Shamrocks Lodge Protest After Loss to Vancouver

Shamrocks 8, Vancouver 9

VANCOUVER—Enthusiasm is a contagious commodity.

Victoria Shamrocks' executive is protesting the team's 9-8 loss to Vancouver Tuesday night. The executive feels it has "just cause," but there's another reason that prompts the filing of a complaint to the Inter-City Lacrosse League's front office.

Le' manager Hec McNeill explain it:

"We (the executive) have to back the fellows. They turn in a fine team effort, and then fall victims to a bad call.

"Well, we've got to fight, too, to show the players we're behind them all the way."

Shamrocks based their protest on a fourth-quarter goal disallowed by referee Ralph Plumridge of Vancouver. The young official, who played in the Inter-City Junior League last season, ruled Reg Foster had stepped in the goal crease before scoring on Vancouver's Norm Nestman.

The other referee of the piece, Whitey Severson, signalled a goal.

Shamrocks insist that if the scoring play was not valid, then Foster should have been handed a two-minute minor for playing the ball in the crease. No such penalty was called.

Shamrocks, ahead 5-2 at one stage of the rough encounter in Kerrisdale Arena, are up-in-arms over the call. The defeat cost Victoria a chance to step to within one point of second place.

Instead, Vancouver moved into first, a point ahead of Westminster.

Rocks Again Get Most Penalties

Coach Don Ashbee plans to call up Nirmal and Ranjit Dillon from the junior team for tonight's game. As well, Bill Bradley looms as a possible starter.

Bradley, a mainland product who played with Shamrocks last year, signed his 1964 form Tuesday night.

"Bill wasn't feeling up to snuff Tuesday night," said McNeill, "but we're hoping he'll make it for tonight's game."

Tuesday's was game No. 9 for Victoria, and the ninth straight time the Shamrocks drew the brunt of penalties. Severson and his rookie mate tagged Victoria with 61 minutes, including three 10-minute misconducts. Vancouver was assessed only 15 minutes.

Victoria defenceman Barry Ashbee was available for only 34 of the 60 minutes as a result of drawing two misconducts and three minors.

Jim McNeill drew the other misconduct as a result of a post-game discussion with the officials.

Barry and Don Ashbee each scored twice for the Rocks while singles went to McNeill, Ray Beech, Foster and Bill Munroe.

Pete Black scored three goals for Vancouver and Doug Carter got two, including the winner. Gord Gimple also got a pair, while Gary Stevens and Bob Marsh added singles.

You Wouldn't Believe It . . . Mets 19, Cubs 1

Associated Press

National League umpires, who are talking about a strike, must have been out painting picket signs.

How else can you explain New York Mets scoring 19 runs in a single game?

There were 2,503 fans in Chicago's Wrigley Field Tuesday who can testify to the 19-1 victory over the Cubs. In years to come that number is sure to grow. People like to say they were on hand when history was made.

Dick Smith became the first Met ever to get five hits in a game with three singles, a double and a triple. Charley Smith belted a three-run homer, the game's only four bagger, and added two singles for five RBIs.

Jack Fisher, delighted with the fantastic 23 - hit support, fashioned a four-hitter and went the distance for the first time since May 3, 1963.

Casey Stengel, the Mets' long-suffering manager, was delighted.

"Well, I suppose most of the club-owners will be trying to contact me now to get my players," the Ol' Perfessor told reporters.

While the Mets were wearing out Cub fielders, Pittsburgh Pirates gave Philadelphia Phillies a similar treatment, scoring 10 runs in the first two innings to coast to a 13-4 victory. Houston Colts dropped Milwaukee Braves 4-2 and Cincinnati Reds whipped Los Angeles Dodgers 6-2. San Francisco Giants and St. Louis Cardinals were rained out.

FOUR IN FIRST

The Mets jumped on Cub starter Bob Buhl for four runs in the first and completed the carnage with six runs in the ninth.

Manny Mota had a solo homer and Jim Pagliaroni crashed a grand-slammer as the Pirates hopped on Chris Short and Dallas Green in the first two innings. Cookie Rojas and John Callison homered for the Phils.

Dick Farrell became the first seven-game winner in the majors, throttling the Braves on four hits. Al Spangler's leadoff homer got the Colts started while the Braves had solo homers by Felipe Alou and Joe Torre.

Don Drysdale permitted just three hits but Cincinnati bunched them in the second inning and, combined with Drysdale's throwing error on an attempted pickoff, it led to a 3-0 lead.

In American League action, Baltimore stopped Detroit, 2-1; New York shaded Cleveland, 3-2; Boston defeated Washington, 3-2; Minnesota clipped Los Angeles, 2-1, and the Chicago White Sox at Kansas City game was washed out.

Ike Cans Long Putt, Steal's Arnie's Army

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower stole the play and the gallery from partner Arnold Palmer Tuesday in winning a charity golf exhibition from Jimmy Demaret and dancer Ray Bolger over the Merion Golf Club course.

The Eisenhower-Palmer team, playing par golf, trounced their opponents 3 and 2.

With the match over at the 16th, officials asked Palmer whether the match should continue the last two meaningless holes.

"It's up to the general," the four - time Masters champion said.

'LET'S GO'

The former president, tanned and fit for his 73 years, turned to an aide who said: "I think it would be better if we leave, general."

"Ah, let's go on and play it out," Eisenhower said. Then he proceeded to the 17th hole where he ran in a 40-foot putt over two rolls for a birdie deuce.

LIMITED CROWD

The limited crowd of 700—200 patrons who paid $100 and 500 who forked over $50 each for the Heart Association of Southeastern Pennsylvania — became delirious.

"You're great, Ike," some yelled. The five - star general had even captured Arnie's army.

KEY SHOTS

The fabulous putt on the 17th was just one of a half-dozen key shots turned in by the spry former president whose golf up to now has been a classified secret.

He never missed a fairway, and he chipped and putted brilliantly as the partner of Palmer, whose booming drives, although often wild, kept the team in the vicinity of par.

On stroke scoring, the Eisenhower - Palmer team scored 37-34 on the par 36-34 Merion course. Bolger - Demaret had 40-34.

FLOYD SAYS HE'LL QUIT IF HE'S BADLY BEATEN

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Paterson, former world heavyweight boxing champion, said Tuesday he will retire from the ring if he is badly beaten by Eddie Machen in their fight in Stockholm, Sweden, on July 5.

The fighter made the announcement at Kennedy International Airport before boarding a plane for Stockholm.

He said that by losing badly he meant either being knocked out or taking severe punishment in losing a decision.

"If I were to be knocked out because of cuts, I don't believe I would retire," he said.

Moseley Thwarts McLaren's Hopes

Just when McLarens think they're rolling, someone, or something, comes along to apply the brakes.

Tuesday night it was a "someone," Des Moseley.

Hard-luck club during the early weeks of the Senior Amateur Baseball League campaign, McLarens started the final inning Tuesday trailing Greaves 4-1.

Mike Hodge led off with a single. When Gerry MacAdams cracked out another hit, McLarens had "something going."

They didn't reckon with Moseley. Des reared back and, in rapid succession, set down Bob Lumley, Joe Patterson and Larry Johnston on strikeouts.

Moseley, who finished with 11 strikeouts in the seven-inning affair, allowed only four hits to push McLarens into the league cellar.

Tonight Greaves try their luck against pace-setting Independents.

STAN MUSIAL SAYS:

College Should Come Before Pro Baseball

NEW YORK (AP) — If Stan Musial had it to do all over again, he would go to college before playing professional baseball.

Musial says he hates to think what would have happened to him if he had failed to make the grade in baseball. The former St. Louis Cardinal great makes the observations in the book Stan Musial, his story as told to Bob Broeg, sports editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The retired star, now director of President Johnson's physical fitness program, tells how he moved from $65-a-month in Class D to a $100,000-a-year salary with the Cardinals.

Musial rates Willie Mays and Joe DiMaggio as the best players he ever saw. But he calls Ted Williams the best hitter of his time and doubts that anyone would hit .400 again.

Druce's Baby Rocks Uncork Dazzling Try

Coach Tommy Druce's junior Shamrocks are starting to show some of the form that carried them to the Inter-City Junior Lacrosse League title last year.

The Victoria squad unveiled its best offensive display Tuesday night at Memorial Arena to defeat Vancouver Legion 19-8.

The Baby Rocks, who must win six of their 12 league games in order to qualify for the playoffs, now hold a 2-2 record.

Bill Robinson, Sigmund, Hornby, McDonald, Ciccone, Dawson, Jensen and Treloar scored for Vancouver.

'Hike Pensions Or We Go Out'

CHICAGO (AP) — The National League Umpires Association served an ultimatum Tuesday that if the baseball umpires do not receive a pension increase by July 3 the group may be forced to go on strike.

The announcement was made by attorney John J. Reynolds of Chicago, who represents the organization. The association comprises 20 umpires.

Eighteen of the umpires met with Reynolds in Chicago Monday and drafted a letter which was sent to Warren Giles, president of the National League, and to each of the clubs.

It read in part that "it is the position of the association that we have been courteous, patient and reasonable in attempting to negotiate an increase to the plan but have not been given an opportunity to negotiate on the increases."

"Therefore, we wish to advise that in the event we do not obtain the consent of the National League of professional baseball clubs to the increase by 3 p.m. July 3, 1964, we will have no alternative but to take appropriate action."

Under the existing pension plan, which has been in effect since 1955, an umpire, when retiring at the age of 55, receives $200 a year for each year of service. This meant that an umpire serving 10 years would receive a pension of $2,000 a year.

The group now seeks a minimum of $300 a year for each year of active service.

Two weeks ago Reynolds said he received a letter from Giles in which the league recommended to increase the plan to $250 a year a man retroactive to last Jan. 1. The umpires, however, rejected it.

The American League has no umpire association. Its pension plan provided for $150 a year a man until this spring when it was boosted to $250.

Dancer Gets Day of Rest

NEW YORK (AP)—Northern Dancer celebrated his third birthday today with a brilliant past behind him and an even brighter future in the offing.

Trainer Horatio Luro gave the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner the day off from preparing for the June 6 running of the Belmont Stakes, when he will seek to become the first triple crown winner since Citation in 1948 and the ninth in history.

Engines Pass Inspection

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway technical committee finished up inspections Tuesday on the 33 cars that will start Saturday in the 500-mile race and found nobody was cheating.

All the engines — 23 Offenhauser Fours, seven special Ford V-8s and three supercharged Novi V-8s—were within the size limits.

While the automotive engineers recorded such things as bore, stroke, chassis length and weight and the various required safety features, they didn't ask the crews to list their fuel tanks' capacity — and that could be vital.

For the first time at modern racing speeds, a set of tires probably will last longer than a tank of fuel. A set may last the entire race and offer the possibility of the first non-stop performances since Jimmy Jackson and John Mantz in 1946.

CITY COUNCIL YIELDS ON RACING LEASE BID

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council unanimously approved Tuesday a new 30-year lease on the east-end fairgrounds for the Pacific National Exhibition.

This cleared the way for the PNE to grant the B.C. Jockey Club, operators of Exhibition Park race track, a 30-year lease on the race track. The club and the PNE plan to redevelop the racing facilities at a cost of $1,300,000.

FEDERAL OFFENCE

'Fix' at Your Risk

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Tuesday passed and sent to the White House a bill making it a federal crime to fix a sporting event or influence the score by shaving points.

The penalty could be a $10,000 fine or a five-year prison term or both.

Enactment of the bill was an outgrowth of a number of scandals in sports in recent years.

The bill would not replace any state laws pertaining to bribery in sports, but would apply to any event that involves interstate or foreign commerce. This would include transportation and communications.

It would apply to anyone who attempts to influence in any way a sporting event, professional or amateur.

I'M LUCKY, SAYS BAUER TO $50 FINE

BALTIMORE (AP)—Manager Hank Bauer of Baltimore Orioles was advised Tuesday he had been fined $50 for his vigorous dispute with umpire Al Salerno last Friday night.

"I think I got off pretty lucky," Bauer said after receiving a telegram from American League president Joe Cronin.

Bauer charged onto the field when Salerno warned Oriole pitcher Steve Barber and fined him $50 after Minnesota's Tony Oliva was struck on the batting helmet by a Barber pitch. Bauer had to be restrained by other umpires and Oriole players.

Race for Battered Jug Costs Losers Millions

By WILLIAM TAYLOR McKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Association

On both sides of the Atlantic, the big 70-foot sailboats that will battle for the America's Cup are almost ready to go.

This is the world series of sailing that the United States has won every time out—18 contests in all — since the Yankees brought the battered silver jug back from Britain in 1851.

The new stateside boats plus three experienced campaigners, will be trying all summer to be selected as the one cup defender against the English. All are the single-masted speedsters of the 12-metre class with the same measurements. But all have tiny refinements of hulls and sails and rigging, subtle differences that the designers and owners devoutly hope will make their boat the winner.

GRETEL WON ONE

Last challenge for the fabled cup came in 1962 when a bunch of Australian sailors in a slippery sloop named Gretel won only once race in the four-out-of-seven series.

Weatherly won't campaign this year, but Boston's Easterner and Nefertti from Marblehead should be out in full force. Columbia, successful 1958 defender against Britain's last challenger, Sceptre, has been sold to a new California syndicate which will race her.

Unknown quantities are two new racing machines just ready for launching. Constellation was planned by Olin Stephens, Columbia's successful designer, and is being built at City Island, N.Y.

HELPED WEATHERLY

American Eagle come from the drawing board and boatyard of A. E. (Bill) Luders, Stamford, Conn. Bill never designed a 12-metre before, but he built Weatherly in 1958 and later added hull and rigging ideas that helped make her the winner in 1962.

England's new Sovereign has been tuning up there since launching last year, and now must fight for her right to challenge in a series with the newer, Australian-financed Kurrewa V.

Each entry in this big league represents half-a-million dollars. Owners of the five big yachts that don't make the finals—one British would-be challenger and four American—are going to end the summer $2,500,000 poorer.

ONLY THE EARLY-RISERS WILL 'CATCH' THE BIRDS

SEATTLE (AP)—The only home appearance for the University of Washington crew this season will bring here University of British Columbia Thunderbirds here Saturday for a race for early risers.

Junior Varsity eights will row the 2,000-metre course at 7:40 a.m. Varsities will go the route half an hour later.

It will be the last race for Washington before the IRA regatta June 20 at Syracuse, N.Y.

TrackMeetNow Two-Day Affair

The Vancouver Island open track and field championship will be a "split-level" affair this year.

The competition will be spread over two days, June 13 and 20, because the meet "has grown too big for its britches," says Art Burgess of the YMCA, one of the meet directors.

In past, championships in five divisions; midget, juvenile, junior, senior, and open, have been held on a single day at the Victoria High School track.

Last year's meet drew more than 200 competitors, about as many as the single day's running was able to accommodate.

EXPECT 300 ENTRIES

This year, meet organizers YMCA and Victoria Gyro Club expect close to 300 entrants, so the two-day plan had to be put into effect to give them breathing room.

Track and field events in the juvenile and midget divisions will be held in the afternoon of June 13, with the junior, senior and open events run off on June 20.

The directors decided to run the meet according to divisions to give the spectators both track and field events each day, Burgess said today.

JEROME MAY COMPETE

The schedule also means competitors won't have to come two separate days to compete in all their events.

"A lot of Victoria boys come home for this meet," Burgess said.

Entry forms have been sent all over B.C., to Alberta, Washington and Oregon.

Victoria runners expected to enter include John Valiant, John Warrington, Bob McLaren, John Edwards, and Lynn Eves.

Harry Jerome from Vancouver may also compete.

"It's too early to say definitely who'll be coming," Burgess said.

But with 300 competitors, it will be the largest Vancouver Island open ever.

Tugmen Thumped In Opening Game

Pat Mulcahy and Bob Harris fired the big salvos at the Memorial Arena Monday as Jokers gave Foul Bay Tugmen a rugged welcome to the 1964 Senior "B" Lacrosse League season.

Harris and Mulcahy each scored three goals as Jokers thumped the Tugs 12-5.

Jim Cunningham and Dave Wakelyn each collected two tallies for the winners and Bill Wilson scored a pair for Tugmen, who were making their first start of the season.

He has been assigned to the Totems by Montreal of the National Hockey League under a working agreement with the Totems.

Midget Racers Go Here on Saturday

Car racing fans will be treated to something different at Western Speedway Saturday night—midget racers.

At least 15 mighty midgets from Washington and Oregon have given assurances they will appear at the Millstream Road oval, and more may enter.

Midgets are pint-sized modifieds, but they go almost as fast as their big brothers—in excess of 100 mph.

They use the famous Offenhauser four-cylinder engine, or the old 1937 vintage Ford V-8 60.

In either case they are scrappy little machines, with their light weight and high speeds making them tricky to handle.

A trophy dash, four heat races, and a main event is scheduled, with time trials starting at 7:30.

SAILS ASTRAY

Crewman climbs forestay of Kurrewa V, Australian-financed sloop that is competing in trials off Gosport, England, to decide British challenger for this year's America Cup races. Confusion and fog marked start of second series of trials Tuesday and contest between Kurrewa and Sovereign was called off. (NEA Photo.)

Confusion in Fog; Trial Called Off

GOSPORT, Eng. (UPI) — The second series of trials to determine a British challenger for this year's America's Cup races opened Tuesday amid incredible confusion.

When the Sovereign and Kurrewa sailed out of Gosport Harbor they ran into fog and fickle northeast winds.

The Royal Thames Yacht Club committee boat decided to move the starting marker and disappeared into the mist. The yachts finally found the marker, four miles from its announced destination. It turned out it had not been anchored.

The start of the race was delayed for another hour by lack of wind. When the trial finally got underway, the Sovereign lost sight of the weather mark and its navigator wheeled off in the opposite direction from the Kurrewa.

That's when officials decided to call off the entire show.

Olympic Aces To Swim Here In Final Prep

Victoria will become the swimming capital of Canada for two days in September.

Scheduled for the Crystal Garden pool is a pre-Olympic open and age-group meet that will bring Canada's entire Olympic swim team here for competition against the best splashers in the Pacific Northwest.

Sponsored jointly by the Victoria YW-YMCA and the Daily Times, the meet has been sanctioned by the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association and enthusiastically approved by Olympic coach Howard Firby.

Swimmers will compete for trophies in heats and finals on both days—Sept. 19 and 20—and exhibition performances by the country's diving representatives will be included in each day's events.

FIRBY PLEASED

Firby has welcomed the opportunity to give his charges additional competition while in the final phase of their training before departing for the Olympic Games at Tokyo.

The veteran Vancouver coach will take over the team following Olympic trials at Vancouver in the first week of September.

It is expected that the high calibre of the meet will attract some of America's outstanding swimmers from clubs in Washington and Oregon.

Officials predict that the meet will produce several Canadian records. The Crystal Garden has one of the few championship 50-yard pools on the continent and listed marks for a 50-yard pool could take a beating.

MISS STEWART SHARP

Makeup of the Canadian team is still a matter of guesswork, but one star who is rated an almost sure bet to win another Olympic trip is Vancouver's Mary Stewart, holder of the official world 100-metre butterfly mark.

Miss Stewart is currently training in the United States and is reported to have trimmed a couple of seconds off her mark during practice sprints.

Another is Sandy Gilchrist, the versatile Ocean Falls, B.C., distance ace, who is easily the best of the Dominion's medley swimmers.

Sixth Straight Track Triumph

University School boys chalked up their sixth straight track and field triumph Tuesday.

Competing in a dual meet with Oak Bay High, US scored a 49-21 victory on home grounds.

Dual Swim Meet At Crystal Pool

Victoria Amateur Swimming Club will take on Vancouver A.S.C. in a dual meet at the Crystal Garden pool Saturday.

Forty events are scheduled, starting at 5 p.m.

Your Merc dealer invites you to
the power and fuel economy of a Merc 1000 with competitors' 90 hp outboards

The 100 hp Merc 1000 has at least 10 more horsepower than any other outboard. It will outrun and outpull any competitor's outboard . . . and do it on less fuel.

In actual tests on a typical family runabout, a competitor's 90 hp outboard used 30 per cent more fuel than a Merc 1000 when both outboards were traveling at the competitor's top speed. Of course, at full throttle the Merc had a top speed of more than 10 per cent higher than the 90 hp. Even the Merc 850, with 85 hp, was more than a match for the 90 hp. That's why the only outboard that could beat the Merc 850 is a Merc 1000.

In the same tests, the competitor's 75 hp outboard used 21 per cent more fuel than the Merc 1000 when the Merc was cruising at the 75's top speed.

High-horsepower Mercs (Merc 1000 and Merc 850) have six in-line small-bore cylinders instead of four big-bore cylinders like other outboards. These smaller cylinders are more efficient in squeezing the most work from every drop of fuel . . . to give you more miles per gallon. Power-Dome combustion chambers further reduce fuel consumption and boost the power. Small-bore, short-stroke design also allows Mercs to be made smaller and lighter . . . and still deliver more power at the prop than other outboards of equal or greater piston displacement.

Fuel economy, speed, durability, and tremendous pulling power are engineered into every Mercury. A Merc will consistently give you more miles per gallon and more miles per hour than any other outboard in its power range. Remember, only Mercury gives you a six. Only Mercury has Jet-Prop exhaust. Remember, also, that Mercury gives you the most hp per pound, the most hp per cubic inch, the most miles per gallon.

See your Merc dealer today. COMPARE the Merc 1000 and Merc 850 with competitors' 90-hp outboards. Learn why you get more RUN for your money with Mercury . . . 100, 85, 65, 50, 35, 20, 9.8, 6 and 3.9 hp outboards and MerCruiser Stern Drives . . . 110 to 310 hp gasoline; 60 and 100 hp diesel.

Return to Gym Helps Hepburn Heal Old Scars

By JACK MORRIS

VANCOUVER (CP)—In a small basement gymnasium beneath a suburban pool hall a man once acclaimed as the world's strongest is groping in search of new strength.

Doug Hepburn, Canada's weightlifting wonder scant years ago, is trying to heal old scars and make a new beginning for himself from the ashes of self-doubt and fear.

Pipe-smoking Doug Hepburn, now 36, is a squat, powerfully built weightlifter who rocketed to fame in 1953 when he was crowned heavyweight weightlifting champion of the world.

Born a cripple, a boy with a club foot, he still bears the facial scars of a hard forceps delivery. Operations corrected an eye impairment. But doctors could only fuse the ankle of his club foot; that ankle never moved again. As a consequence, his right leg never developed to the size of his left.

Despite physical drawbacks, Doug dreamed of becoming the strongest man in the world. He turned to weights and literally lived in a gymnasium, sleeping there on a bed of potato sacks.

Climbed His Everest In Stockholm

In 1953, a strapping young Canadian relatively unknown even in his own country flew to Stockholm and, with an injured foot, tossed more than 1,000 pounds in three Olympic lifts and was declared the champion, the "world's strongest man."

He had reached his Everest, even though he had injured the bones of his left foot and could not train for three weeks prior to the contest.

"I had to pull myself off that plane at Stockholm with my hands. I couldn't put weight on that foot."

The following year he won a gold medal for Canada at the British Empire Games in Vancouver—and he did this with an injured knee.

Then came the letdown.

"I had attained my dream. I was the strongest man in the world and I felt my country owed me something. Maybe it was a child's fantasy, a dream of immaturity, but that's the way I felt."

Pushed by promises of $100,000 a year, Hepburn turned to professional wrestling.

"I hated wrestling. I hated physical violence. Every time something went wrong, or I'd get depressed or lonely or tired, I'd go back to the weights, back to where I was the king."

First Gyms Were Financial Flops

Doug began to drink. He broke his wrestling contract.

"I began to hate myself."

On-and-off attempts at managing the first Doug Hepburn gymnasiums here fell through. His weight began to fall—a bad sign for a weightlifter.

"One day I walked to the door of the Hollywood Hospital (a suburban hospital for alcoholics) and asked for help. I got it, and for nothing."

Long talks with a psychiatrist helped. Doug stayed at the hospital for a year after his own treatment, helping others.

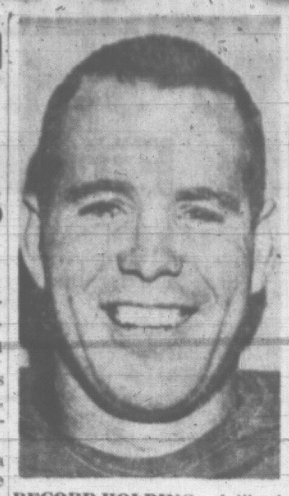
"I realized that something inside me, something more than just will-power, gave me the power to lift weights. Body alone was not enough. And that spark, that something, I realized, could be transformed to another field — maybe writing or something, I'm not really sure yet."

Again Doug turned to the weights. With a partner, he opened a new Doug Hepburn gym—smaller than the others, but quiet, clean and "dedicated to weightlifting."

"I can't regain my amateur status now, since I've been a professional. But with about 16 months of training I know I could lift enough to place in the Olympics for Canada.

"Since I can't do that now, I'm hoping to train some youngsters who can."

Hepburn still is searching for the answers to his problems. He believes he has found at least some of them.



RECORD-HOLDING fullback in Western Football Conference, Earl (the Earthquake) Lunsford, 30, has decided to retire after six seasons with Calgary Stampeders. Lunsford, who rushed for record 1,797 yards in 1961 season, hopes to try hand at coaching.

INDEPENDENT SOFTBALL

Kings downed Newstead 10-7 and Dunsmuir clipped Mayfairs 6-3 in Independent Softball League games Tuesday.

Court Delays Expulsion Bid

EDINBURGH (AP)—Five Scottish soccer clubs Tuesday won a court order blocking a move by Glasgow Rangers to oust them from the Scottish League.

Rangers have sponsored a move to reconstruct the league and reduce it in size. It was scheduled to be discussed at the annual meeting of the league Thursday.

Under Rangers' plan, five clubs were to be thrown out—Berwick Rangers, Brechin City, Albion Rovers, Stranraer and Stenhousemuir.

Lord Cameron, presiding over the court in session in Edinburgh, made a temporary order banning Rangers from trying to alter the league rules in this way.

Ian Robertson, counsel for the five teams faced with expulsion, claimed it was beyond Rangers' powers to suggest such a reconstruction.

"It is just a device to get rid of us," Robertson said.

Rangers are the most powerful soccer club in Scotland. They have dominated Scottish soccer during most of the last 50 years.

Last month Rangers met with 26 other clubs and won their approval for the reconstruction plan.

Robertson claimed that Rangers had threatened some of these clubs. He said they had been told that if they did not vote for the reconstruction they themselves would be asked to withdraw from the league.

The Scottish League consists of 37 teams—18 in the first division and 19 in the second division. Rangers want two divisions of 16 teams each.

"Sure appreciate your catching them lousy things, Mac . . . get that kind out o' the lake and it'll be a good spot!"

WEBBER PRESIDENT

National Body For Tenpinners

TORONTO (CP)—Milton Webber of Toronto has been named the first president of the newly-formed Canadian Tenpin Federation, the first national organization for Canadian tenpin bowlers.

Representatives of provincial tenpin associations created the CTF to make Canada eligible for world tournaments organized by the Federation Internationals des Quilleurs, which comprises 30 member countries.

Webber, executive director of the American Bowling Congress in Canada, said Canadian bowlers previously competed only in major events under ABC auspices.

Other CTF officers are: John Allenby, Vancouver, first vice-president; Frank Degenstein, Regina, second vice-president; John Trager, Winnipeg, secretary-treasurer, and Deane Morgan, Calgary, and George Smith, Montreal, directors.

'HANDKERCHIEF HEADS'

Amos 'n' Andy Cause Howl

CHICAGO (AP) — Amos 'n' Andy are coming home and Chicago's civil rights factions are in an uproar about it.

A newly opened ultra-high frequency television station announced Monday it has purchased re-run privileges to the famed comedy show, which was a pioneer in Chicago radio. The shows—77 of them—will be televised two times a week beginning June 4.

"If they do," warned Edward C. Berry, a civil rights leader, "they (the station owners) are going to catch hell and the sponsors of the show will not sell to the Negro market.

"It's awfully late in the day for anybody to be engaged in anything so primitive as reviving the show," angrily continued Berry, a Negro who is executive director of the Chicago Urban League.

"The show depicts the Negro as a foot-shuffling handkerchief-head," he said. "It will do the Negroes and the nation a great disservice."

A spokesman for the more militant Student Non - Violent Co-ordinating Committee, which co-sponsored Chicago's two all-day school boycotts, also voiced a strong protest.

"Bringing back a show which portrays the Negro as a lazy, soft-shoe jokester is an insult to a large number of people," said Mrs. Joan Kehoe, a member of SNCC's executive board.

But John Weigel, president of WCIU-TV, said of the rebuffs: "I'm going to run the show, despite the protest."

Russ, Chinese Films Coming For Festival

Eight new countries—including Russia and China — have entered this year's Victoria International Film Festival.

In all, 23 countries have entered the festival which takes place in Beacon Hill Park, July 6 to Aug. 19.

Showings will take place every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings between those dates.

The other new countries to enter are Sweden, Belgium, Portugal, the Netherlands, the Caribbean countries and France, who are offering several, as yet, unreleased documentary films.

BACK AGAIN

Those countries returning for another year are: United States, Canada, Switzerland, Malaysia, New Zealand, England, Scotland, Wales, India, Isle of Man, Ulster, Germany, Australia, Africa and Japan.

Weather providing, the organizers hope for a record turnout to exceed last year's 25,000 visitors to the festival.

Admission to the shows, in the Cameron open-air band shell, is free. City council covers the entire cost of staging the festival with a grant, this year, of $2,500.

Program director Paul Courtice promised a "very interesting and varied program." One night will be set aside to show films produced in B.C.

Another distinctive feature of this year's festival will be the awards presented to prize-winning features.

Eleven plaques have been made from native pine by local carver Kay Nielsen. These awards will be presented on the final night.

Unwarranted CBC Interference By Government Tory Charges

OTTAWA (CP)—A charge of unwarranted interference in the independent operations of the Crown-owned CBC by Prime Minister Pearson and his government was made in the Commons Tuesday night by Erik Nielson, Conservative backbencher from the Yukon.

Mr. Nielson said the Liberal government had imposed censorship on the CBC in blocking the broadcast of a TV show on Mr. Pearson prepared by Intervideo Productions.

He also accused Transport Minister Pickersgill of trying to bring the CBC under the "complete suppression and control" of the cabinet.

Mr. Nielsen raised his complaint during a period in the Commons supply debate reserved for grievances from individual MPs.

Mr. Nielsen said he was raising a grievance affecting Mr. Pearson, External Affairs Minister Martin, Finance Minister Gordon, Trade Minister Sharp and Secretary of State Lamontagne.

All these ministers, he charged, had previewed the TV portrait of Mr. Pearson at a "little censorship gathering" at CBC studios. They had put the CBC in the position of refusing to air the film for fear of embarrassing Mr. Pearson and harming his "vote-getting image."

COST $35,000

Mr. Nielsen said the taxpayers had paid $35,000 through the CBC to have the film on Mr. Pearson produced, yet were being denied a chance of seeing it.

Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Athur), said the cameraman and producer involved in the film "are people with real reputations" in the field of television and films "and one of the terrible things that ensued from the controversy is that their reputations are under a cloud."

Mr. Fisher asked "what business had Tom Kent seeing the film?" Mr. Kent in policy coordinator in Mr. Pearson's office.

Labor Unions In U.S. Build Membership

WASHINGTON (AP) — Figures reported by the U.S. labor department Monday indicated that organized labor may finally be reversing a six-year decline in union membership.

A 300,000-member increase in 1962 was the sharpest gain since union membership hit a peak of 17,500,000 in 1956 and then started dropping, the bureau of labor statistics said.

While total membership is still nearly 1,000,000 below the 1956 figure, the 1962 increase "may foreshadow a change in direction," the bureau said.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1964—PAGE 13

Arthur Mayse

We were weeding a border, one of this spring's rare sunshiny afternoons, when a sense of being watched made me glance around. A black Labrador retriever stood on the lawn, tail gently wagging.

Such amiable company was part of our life once. But not for a long time . . . a year, almost now . . . had we looked up to find a black Lab watching us.

She stayed, this other dog who used to be our dog's friend, until it became plain that Paddy wouldn't amble up from the wildlands or loaf around from the house. Then she trotted off in the direction of the cove, to wade the shallows and chase the gulls alone.

Win returned to her struggle with the stubborn couch-grass. She didn't speak, nor did I. Death is absolute: where love and tears have failed, how can words prevail?

Paddy was my good friend. But he gave his heart into Win's keeping on the day they met; and through eleven years, he was her dog.

The name that went with his papers and noseprint was Mossbank's Westerly Pat.

Tom Moss set him in Win's arms when he was not quite four months old. It was a cool autumn evening. Win opened her coat, and with reckless disregard for consequences, nestled him in it. His tongue dabbed at her chin, and she said to him, "Hey, Paddy!"

That was the start of it. From that day, unless prevented by some circumstance he couldn't cope with, Paddy was never away from her for more than an hour or two.

He slept where she could drop a hand on his head, and trip over him when she groped drowsily into each new day. This concession he won by sheer persistence, coupled with winning wiles familiar to anyone who owns—or more accurately, is owned by — a Labrador retriever.

He was a zealous and constant fetcher of gifts. Even this long after, we find it strange never to be wakened by a shoe or book dropped on the face—not to blink up into brown eyes that beg us to stop wasting a fine morning.

Sometimes he would decide that Win had been housebound too long. He would take her wrist in jaws that could crush a beef bone, but softly, and lead her outdoors.

Always, he was happiest when he could lure her to the beach. But he would settle for gardening, content to tag after her as if he were still a pup, and not grown to the heavy-boned 85 pounds of his working breed. He fetched and he carried, a more willing helper than certain children who claim an allergy to Gordon Head's too - fruitful soil.

We showed Paddy once. He behaved like a gentleman and came away with a ribbon of which we were fatuously proud. Mostly, though, he lived our casual family life. He rode in our car with muzzle poked out of a window to test each passing scent, and fussed when we had to leave him behind.

The urge to retrieve was in his blood, and water his second element. I can see him still, hitting the cove flat out, lunging web-footed toward the thrown stick, turning with a sweep of his otter tail to forge in to the shingle. Then back to us with his prize, at the wonderful Labrador gallop.

And always, good friend though he was to the rest of us, he remained Win's dog.

Once when he was still young, he trapped his foot cruelly under a floor-level cupboard. Win kneeled by him where he struggled. He whimpered, and nudged her hand while she worked to free him. But not even in pain and terror did he snap at her.

Sometime, I know, we will find a new dog, committing ourselves to another few years of love, loyalty, and inevitable grief. But that black Lab will not eat from Paddy's bowl, or wear his collar.

FLAG-CONSCIOUS painter Harold Wilson, 4215 Cedar Hill Road, chose a novel way to let everyone know he likes to see the Union Jack preserved in Canada's flag. Careful use of the lawn mower keeps the question before the neighborhood. But how does he observe tradition that flag never touches the ground? And it could all turn out wrong if there are any maple trees shedding in area.

Bus Study Ordered By Cities

Rathie Ready to Fight Dumping of Bus System

Mayor R. B. Wilson today said a closed meeting earlier this week of Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver represenatives agreed to preliminary study of the possible financial consequences of B.C. Hydro transit operations being turned over to the municipalities.

He was commenting on a statement by Vancouver Mayor Bill Rathie to his council that the nine municipalities represented at the meeting in Imperial Hotel here agreed to block any move by the B.C. government to dump the buses on the municipalities.

"Our purpose in making these investigations is to avoid having to take over public transit," he said.

MORE GUARDED

Mayor Wilson's statement was much more guarded.

"All I agreed to—and I will still have to make my report to city council because it will make the final decision—was to have a preliminary study made of the transit system economics and related matters," he said.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett has several times indicated he wants the municipalities to take the money-losing operation off his hands when the B.C. Hydro bus franchises expire in 1967.

There were indications that one of the items to be studied by the united municipalities would be the present situation in which B.C. Hydro electricity revenues subsidize the bus operations.

UNFAIR

Premier Bennett is expected to say he won't give up the power distribution rights here and in Vancouver along with the buses because that wouldn't be fair to the rest of the power consumers in the province.

The municipalities are likely to shoot back that if B.C. power consumers should not have to subsidize Victoria and Vancouver buses, it was equally true that Victoria and Vancouver power consumers should not have to subsidize the rest of the province's consumers.

Research is expected to prove that high rates here and on lower mainland for power are being used to keep rates down in the rest of the province and even to help build the Peace River power complex.

HARMAC, POWELL RIVER

More Picketing Asked

(See Page 41)

Many employees of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River with grievances against the company are pressing for picket lines at Harmac, near Nanaimo, and Powell River, a union spokesman said today.

Port Alberni office workers' union business agent Doug Gibson said extra picket lines are not being considered at present, but it could happen.

"We're being pressured by people, many of them with grievances against the company in Nanaimo and Powell River."

LEGAL ADVICE

Mr. Gibson said legal advice would be sought before any extra lines were set up.

He said he could not give any interpretation to a warning by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson that "strong disapproval" would be registered in the event of a strike-spread.

Mr. Peterson is in Vancouver and could not be reached for clarification.

Sixty members of the office employees union have been on strike at Mac-Powell in the Alberni Valley for a week, idling 3,000 workers who honored the picket line.

In Vancouver, B.C. Federation of Labor secretary Pat O'Neal has given deputy labor minister Williams Sands a strike-settlement plan. No details are available.

Mrs. Emma Spink
. . . 95 Thursday

'Nowhere Like Victoria'

Victoria is the only place in Canada to live, says Mrs. Emma H. Spink, who will be 95 on Thursday.

"I came here with my husband in 1910 and I've been here ever since—there's nowhere like it."

Born in London, England, Mrs. Spink was brought to Canada by her parents when she was three months old and, except for a 20-year stay in New York, she has always lived in Canada.

'GREAT COUNTRY'

"It's a great country and a country with a future," said the cheerful soft-spoken old lady, interviewed in her room at Rose Manor, 857 McClure Street, where she has resided for 18 years.

Mrs. Spink is also the oldest living member of Victoria Seventh-day Adventist Church. She is the widow of Frank W. Spink who died here just 29 years ago.

'GOOD LIFE HERE'

"My husband travelled all over Canada," she said, "but he never wanted to live anywhere else but Victoria. We had a good life here."

Mrs. Spink recalled standing near the City Hall on New York's Wall Street when the church bells rang in the 20th century.

"So much has happened since then, I wonder how I can have lived through it all."

SIGHTLESS

Mrs. Spink has been sightless for the past 18 years and spends much of her time listening to the radio. She has a special liking for the CBC programs but listens to local stations when they broadcast "good music."

"I don't much care for this rock 'n' roll craze," she said. "The classics are more in my line."

No special celebration is planned for Mrs. Spink's 95th birthday but many friends are expected to call.

Northland Takes Over Barge Firm

Formal announcement of change of ownership of Vancouver Barge Transportation Ltd. is to be made here later today.

The firm will be taken over by Northland Navigation Company Ltd. June 1. Formalities were to take place at Empress Hotel at 5 p.m. at a gathering of officials headed by Capt. H. J. C. Terry, president of Northland.

Vancouver Barge was taken over by Vancouver Tug Boat Co. Ltd. a year ago from J. M. Lindsay and Associates.

The barge company operates scheduled freight services between Vancouver and Victoria, Nanaimo, Courtenay, Campbell River, Powell River and Vananda. The deal will permit Northland to move into the lower Gulf region, after confining itself to more northern areas for years.

A Vancouver source says Vancouver Barge was founded 40 years ago by the late Archie McGillis under the name Vancouver - Courtenay Transportation Co. It then employed two former rum-runners, the Etta Mae and Trucilla.

Under the new arrangement Northland will take over terminal facilities at the foot of Rogers Street in Vancouver and on Wharf Street here as well as control of eight cargo barges. Northland expects to employ its own tug Hecate Prince and tugs charted from Vancouver Tug Boat Co. An official said no immediate change in service or policy is anticipated.

SAANICH

Police Force Promotions Announced

A new detective-sergeant and three new uniformed sergeants have been appointed as the first stage in the re-organization of Saanich police force.

Chief W. A. Pearson announced today that Detective Robin Stewart has been promoted to sergeant in succession to Det.-Sgt. Joseph Armstrong, recently appointed as deputy chief in succession to John Hamilton.

He said Det.-Sgt.-designate Stewart will be in charge of the five-man detective branch. An earlier proposal to appoint a detective inspector has been shelved, the chief said.

Det. Stewart will assume his new rank June 1 as will the other appointees. He is 41 and joined the Saanich force in 1950.

UNIFORMED BRANCH

The three new uniformed sergeants are Corporals Robert Coleman, Frank Briers and Robert Peterson. Cpl. Coleman joined the force in 1946 and is 40 years old, Cpl. Briers joined in 1954 and is 43 years old, and Cpl. Peterson joined in 1953 and is 35 years old.

Saanich is a 36-man force including five civilian employees and two constables who will be taken on strength. Chief Pearson said further changes may be announced after the next police commission meeting June 16.

The new appointments were made on the basis of "ability and seniority," said Reeve Stanley Murphy. All are dependent on the men passing a routine physical examination and will be probationary for six months.

NEW COMANDER of HMCS New Glasgow, ex-frigate of Pacific command's ocean escort squadron, is Lieut.-Cmdr. O. J. A. Cavenagh, 39, of Victoria and Vancouver. Until recently he was operations staff officer at Atlantic command, Halifax. Lieut.-Cmdr. Cavenagh entered the navy in 1944, a graduate of Royal Roads, trained in the Royal Navy, served in Haida and became a navigation specialist.

Sun Thursday But Showers On the Way

Sun bathers can look forward to another day on the beach, but on the weekend they may find themselves dodging between sun shades and umbrellas

As a storm to the south and a storm to the northwest moves closer to Victoria, weatherman Bill Mackie said Victoria can expect some periods of cloudiness and possibly scattered showers

Thursday should be mainly sunny after morning clouds from the southern storm have moved out of the area. Westerly winds of 15 m.p.h. will bring cooler air but temperatures are expected to stay in the 60 to 70-degree range.

By Friday clouds from the northwest storm should be approaching Victoria and the general outlook for the weekend is cooler weather with cloudy periods and scattered showers.

Tuesday, temperatures of 66 to 69 degrees were recorded, changing the trend from below normal to above normal. Normal temperature for the same day is 63 degrees.

Low temperatures are still in the below-normal range as the thermometer keeps dropping into the low 40s each night. Normal low for this time of year is 48 degrees and Monday morning a low of 32 was recorded.

Distinctive Flag Tops Student Poll

A Victoria High School teacher has polled five classes on their flag preferences with topsy-turvy results.

The 140 students voted five to three for a distinctive new Canadian flag rather than retention of the Red Ensign.

But the same group voted five to three to retain the Red Ensign rather than adopt the maple leaf design being put forward by Prime Minister Pearson"s government.

UNITY SYMBOLS

The teacher, who asked to remain anonymous, said the students appeared to prefer a flag containing wider use of unity symbols—such as 10 small maple leafs, or the crests of the 10 provinces.

The same questions tried on six classes at Oak Bay High School showed almost five to one favored a distinctive new flag and almost three to one favored a maple leaf design over the red ensign.

Another school official noted that high school literature in B.C. is not without some partisan essays on a new flag.

HAIG-BROWN PLEA

In 1952 he wrote in support of "the triple scarlet maple leaves of the Second World War."

He added, "Let it be against a white ground, for the snow we are no longer too proud to admit, and for my country's innocence."

15 Die, No Inquests

April report of the city police department to Victoria police commission this morning showed there had been police inquiries into 15 sudden deaths last month. No inquests were held by the coroner.

Uvic Graduate To Spend Year At French School

Valerie Mary Hall, 22, learned the morning after graduating from University of Victoria that she will spend the next year in France.

The major in French and Latin won a French government teaching assistantship at Ecole Normale d'Institutrices at Rennes, where she arrives in September.

It means she will teach English for two hours daily and have time to further her own studies in French and Latin, in which she will probably take a master's degree after returning to Victoria.

She lives at 1857 Crescent with her mother, Mrs. E. C. Hall.

FUN TODAY, BUSINESS THURSDAY

Lions Cram Empress Den

Delegates of Lions Club district 19 rolled into the Empress Hotel in their hundreds today to register for the 43rd annual convention.

By noon, over half the expected 1,600 visitors, from British Columbia, Washington and Idaho had arrived.

More than 30 hosts from the four local clubs expected to be kept busy all this afternoon and Thursday morning with registrations.

Meanwhile, many delegates and their wives took advantage of the warm, sunny weather to see Victoria or to watch the Lions Golf Tournament at Royal Colwood Golf Club.

Main business will begin on Thursday with the opening of the general session in the Empress at 8:30 a.m.

There to welcome delegates will be Mayor Richard B. Wilson.

The convention ends Saturday.

Ask The Times

Q.—What causes condensation on windows throughout the house and can anything be done about it? F.P.

A. — Condensation forms when warm moist air comes into contact with a cold surface, such as glass. This can be avoided by providing adequate ventilation in rooms where condensation occurs.

A.—There is no lion on the flag of Ethiopia. The flag consists of three horizontal stripes, colored from top to bottom green, yellow and red.

MAJOR PRODUCTION

Ex-City Sisters Win Movie Roles

By DICK PRAUL

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — Former well-known Victorians Peter and Betty Berrington, now living here, have just learned their children have "struck it rich" in nearby Hollywood.

Their daughters, Stephanie, 11, and Jennifer, 8, have been selected from hundreds of girls in tests in Los Angeles, London and New York to play the part of two English schoolgirls in Universal Studios' new comedy, Father Goose, now being filmed in Jamaica.

The Berrington girls and their mother, the former Betty Denniston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. F. Denniston, 1960 Bowker Place, Victoria, have been in Jamaica for the past three weeks while the film is being completed. It is not known yet when it will be released. A major production, its list of stars is headed by Cary Grant and Leslie Caron, with the Berrington girls getting billing directly under them.

FOUR YEARS AGO

Their parents formerly lived on Rockland Avenue in Victoria, and were well-known members of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club. Mrs. Berrington had been associated with Wilson's stores in Victoria and Banff. Her husband had come to Victoria from England and was with a banking firm in Victoria before going to Vancouver to become associated with forest products concerns. Berrington was transferred here four years ago by his firm.

The Berringtons, while excited about the success of their daughters, are hopeful of having them continue normal lives despite the attractive pay the children are receiving for their work.

Mrs. Berrington commented: "It will make a good nest egg for them when they go to college. They each earn more in a few days than I ever earned in a month."

'OLDER' ROLES

Stephanie, who has the grown-up look of a girl of 15, actually plays the part of a 15-year-old. Jennifer, a pixie-like type who heads her class at Montecito Union Elementary School in Montecito, a millionaire's colony adjacent to Santa Barbara, has the part of an 11-year-old.

Father Goose title is taken from a code name during the Japanese war. The picture revolves around life on a southern Pacific island, where the children are taken in an emergency after the bombing of their consulate home.

Their grandmother, Mrs. Denniston, has had the thrill of seeing them appear in scenes shot on the Universal lot. But she missed the excitement when they were accidentally overturned while in a rowboat in a large pool on the film lot. Fully clothed directors dived into the pool to make sure the Berrington children were kept afloat until help arrived. The film of this unscheduled emergency was recently published in papers throughout the United States.

VANCOUVER BORN

Former Victorians Cmdr. and Mrs. A. D. Berrington, now residing in Ropley, Hampshire, Eng., are other grandparents of the young actresses. Cmdr. Berrington was for years secretary of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

Both Stephanie and Jennifer were born in Vancouver shortly after their parents moved to West Vancouver from Victoria.

Jennifer previously had a small part in MGM's Signpost to Murder, starring Joanne Woodward.

"It was sheer chance she got the part, as we never considered anything of the sort," said the attractive Mrs. Berrington. "MGM had contacted a Canadian friend of ours in Los Angeles whose daughter was too old for the part. They suggested Jennifer."

The director of Father Goose is Ralph Nelson, who did Lilies of the Field in which Sidney Potier won the Academy Award as best actor.

Hoffa Sells Holdings To Pay Legal Costs

CHICAGO (AP) — Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa has said he has been forced to sell some of his stocks, bonds and real estate to finance the legal fees for his $20,000,000 mail fraud and conspiracy trial.

The cost of legal counsel for Hoffa in his recent jury-tampering conviction and the current trial is estimated at up to $1,000,000. He recently instructed the Teamsters' Union to stop paying his legal fees until the question of whether he is entitled to financial aid from the union is settled.

"I've got to earn the money somehow," Hoffa said Monday. He was in New York Saturday at a fund-raising luncheon for his benefit.

Hoffa and seven other co-defendants are accused of fraudulently arranging $20,000,000 in loans from the Chicago-based pension fund. In return, according to the the charges, the eight got back $1,000,000 from those who received the loans.

H. C. Holmes Given Honorary Life Membership

Major H. Cuthbert Holmes of 336 Newport Avenue has been awarded an honorary life membership in the professional membership division of the Real Estate Institute of British Columbia.

Major Holmes, who is president of Pemberton Holmes Realty and a former Victoria alderman, has been ill at his home for the past four weeks. But he dictated a letter to the Real Estate Institute gratefully acepting the life membership.

"His illness is the result of an old war wound," a member of his staff said today.

He was severely wounded at Ginchy, France, in 1916 while serving with the Irish Guards.

TRAMP PRINTER REPORTS

Christchurch Outdoes Victoria's 'England'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Christchurch, New Zealand, is more "English" than Victoria ever was, in the opinion of veteran printer Arthur (Chappie) Floyd.

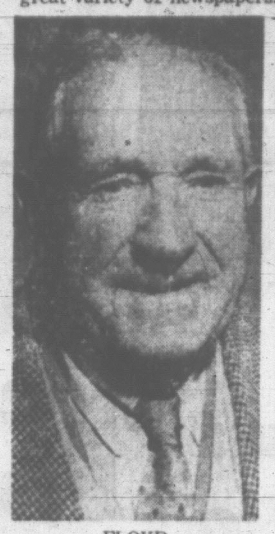
Mr. Floyd ought to know. He was in Christchurch recently and he knew Victoria way back in the early years of the century.

"It was much more English then than it is now—but not like Christchurch. They have the really restful atmosphere of rural England. Everything shuts down for the weekend—even the police stations. If you want a policeman (I didn't) you have to phone one at home.

"The people of New Zealand take their weekends really seriously."

At 81 Mr. Floyd is proud to call himself a tramp printer. He came to Victoria from his native England in 1904 and worked for The Times and Colonist as a linotype operator.

Since then he's travelled all over the world, serving a great variety of newspapers.



FLOYD
. . . things change

"Being a bachelor, I never stay anywhere too long," he said, "I like to keep moving."

Mr. Floyd looked over the plant of Victoria Press Ltd. Saturday and was remembered by some of its veteran employees. He is staying with Mrs. Betty Hawes at 4139 Interurban, Colquitz, but will leave for England soon.

"There's lots of travel left in me yet," he chuckled, "and plenty to see. I enjoy seeing new places and new faces."

He retired from printing after service with The San Francisco Chronicle in 1954 and is a 60-year member of the International Typographical Union.

"I still visit newspapers wherever I go," he said, proudly displaying his ITU card. "Newspaper production has changed enormously in 60 years but linotype setting is much the same as it always was."

Mr. Floyd began his printing career as a handsetter with The Aberdeen University Press and learned linotyping in his spare time.

In his travels he has worked the linos in South Africa, Argentina, China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, and in many parts of the United States, including California.

"Now I sit back and enjoy watching others putting out newspapers," he said.

Political Thinkers Begin Hunt for Workable Ideas

TORONTO (CP)—A weekend of discussion and debate among some 170 Canadian political thinkers marked the kickoff of a new forum for discussion of governmental problems and innovations.

Suggestions of constitutional reform, increased federal-provincial relations and a Liberal-New Democratic Party amalgamation were discussed at the founding convention of the Exchange for Political Ideas in Canada.

Douglas Fisher, NDP member of Parliament for Port Arthur, elected president of the new organization, said E.P.I.C.'s leanings, to be derived from its membership, will necessarily be toward the "left."

However, he said, some comings, to be derived from its membership, will necessarily be toward the "left."

However, he said, some compromise may be needed as the organization strives to present workable ideas to politicians.

E.P.I.C., the brainchild of several "left-wing" politicians, professors and businessmen, was conceived as a non-partisan arena for free discussion of political thought.

Its membership—for the most part Liberal or New Democrat—includes teachers, students, housewives, writers, social workers, businessmen and politicians.

DEDICATED TO REFORM

A constitution drawn up at the convention describes E.P.I.C. as a research, study, discussion and information group dedicated to change and reform but independent of party affiliation.

Halifax Crown prosecutor Peter Ohearn, author of a forthcoming book proposing constitutional reform in Canada, told the delegates Canada's constitution is in dire need of renovation.

"The main statute (the British North America Act) is an imperial order for a colony . . . and the other statutes dependent on it retain that character. This form is no longer consistent with the present status of Canada or with its dignity as a nation."

A Liberal member of the Ontario legislature and candidate for the provincial party leadership, Andrew Thompson, said the provinces should take more active roles in prodding the federal government into action—especially in public housing and technical education.

And Federal Forestry Minister Maurice Sauve called for more respect in Ottawa for politicians on the provincial level.

"Provincial politicians and bureaucrats are as able as the federal ones," he said. "The federal government must realize that flexibility is essential because of regional differences."

However, a British Columbia New Democrat, Colin Cameron, warned that the industrial-political power of large corporations, applied through the governments of Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia, is helping to drag Canada apart.

Those three richest provinces are so powerful as to pose a challenge to federal authority and a potential disruptive effect on national unity, the Commons member for Nanaimo-Cowichan-the Islands said.

SUGGEST ALLIANCE

Definite lines of opinion were drawn when it was suggested the New Democratic Party ally itself with the "left-wing" element of the Liberal party.

"The result would be rather to exclude the thinking part of our society from politics than include it," said J. A. Doull of Halifax, a New Democrat.

The Dalhousie University professor of classics warned that his party would be submerged in such an alliance.

John Stewart, Liberal MP for Antigonish - Guysborough, argued Canada's political system "works best with two parties. If you want a strong power in Ottawa, don't fragment politics."

Although no known Progressive Conservatives attended the convention, E.P.I.C. Vice-President Pauline Jewett, Liberal MP for Northumberland, said they are not excluded from the organization.

Mr. Fisher said E.P.I.C. committees are at work in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Windsor, Ont., Toronto, Peterborough, Ont., and Halifax.

French Press Service Pondered in Quebec

MONT GABRIEL, Que. (CP)—Establishment of a news co-operative by Quebec French-language newspapers and broadcasting stations was suggested Saturday, the final day of a three-day study conference on news by L'Institut Canadien d'Education des Adultes (Canadian Institute of Adult Education).

The suggestion was made by Lorenzo Pare, editor-in-chief of Quebec l'Action, and David-Armand Gourd, president of Radio-Nord Incorporated, a chain of four radio stations and one television station in the Abitibi area of Quebec.

Mr. Gouard said that although The Canadian Press, the country-wide news co-operative, has a French-language service, the great majority of events, sometimes even in Quebec, are originally covered by English-language reporters.

"We see the universe with the eyes of others," said Mr. Gourd. "But what is extremely more serious in my opinion, we see ourselves through the eyes of others."

He suggested Quebec newspapers, magazines and television and radio stations could set up their own news co-operative, perhaps called Quebec Presse and "liberate ourselves of our total dependence on the English-Canadian press."

He said such an agency could have an agreement with CP to receive news from English Canada and, in addition to the services of Reuters news agency and The Associated Press, reach an agreement with Agence France - Presse, the French news agency.

(CP's service in French is due to start distribution June 1 of news from Agence France-Presse to French-language newspapers on a trial basis. It has used news from Reuters French-language European service for the last year.)

Anti-Dump Group Wants to Correct 'Distortions'

Prospect Lake homeowners want to meet with Saanich health and welfare committee to "correct distortions" they claim have been made about two expert reports they commissioned.

The reports concern seepage from the Hartland Road garbage dump which residents say is polluting Prospect and Killarney Lakes.

These reports, paid for by the Prospect Lake and District Community Association, were played down by chief metro health officer Dr. J. L. M. Muirbread last week.

"There has been a serious distortion of the facts either by Dr. Whitbread or the press (in reporting them)," says a letter from the association to health committee chairman Coun. Harold Todd.

Association president G. A. C. Denford added today that on subjects on which he has personal knowledge, press reports have been accurate.

Saanich municipal officials say a committee meeting will be held within the next two weeks to discuss the matter, but a definite date hasn't been set yet.

AFRICAN POWDER KEG

Ben Bella Could Provide Spark to Ignite Real War

By RICHARD F. NEWCOMB
AP News Features Writer

South Africa, Angola and Mozambique are run by whites, and the whites intend to keep it that way.

South Africa, a republic, is trying one method and Portugal, which controls Angola and Mozambique, is trying another, but the aim is the same.

Against them are arrayed 30 other nations of Africa, a good share of world opinion, and a powerful trouble-maker — the Soviet Union.

To South Africa this means war, and that is what the nation is girding for. The main question is how soon will it come?

South African policy is clearly and forcefully stated. It is to keep the 12 million non-whites separated—physically and geographically—from the 3.2 million whites. This is being done by first sealing the borders—both with neighboring countries and with two black nations lying entirely within South Africa — the British-ruled territories of Basutoland and Swaziland.

Within South Africa, blacks are kept to their own areas, such as the new state of Transkei and the model black city of Soweto, a suburb of Johannesburg. Many more of these enclaves are planned to ensure total separation.

HARSH SECURITY

Some say the war has already begun and South Africa is acting like it agrees. Internal security is harsh. Under recent laws persons suspected of subversion may be held 90 days or more without rights and tried under laws leading to the death penalty.

Defence expenditures are rising steadily and this year will approach $300 million. Planes and heavy weapons are being acquired abroad, and the production of small arms is skyrocketing. Every white household is preparing. Housewives hold weekly "pistol parties," mingling tea and target practice. Young girls learn arms-handling and hand-to-hand combat. Regular police and home guards total 50,000 and another 250,000 trained reserves are available for emergency. There has been talk of preparing against radioactive fallout, poison gas and germ warfare.

The Portuguese are trying a different tack. There is no racial segregation in Angola or Mozambique. There the policy is to woo the friendship and support of the natives in keeping out "infiltrators" from nearby African nations.

The Portuguese reportedly have 40,000 troops in the field, white and blacks serving side by side. Their wounded are treated in the same hospitals, and throughout the territories the races work side by side, often in the same occupations.

STRONG FRIEND

There is cause for mobilization. A year ago, at the first African summit conference, the leaders of 207 million Africans declared war on South Africa and the Portuguese territories. Most of the new nations are poor and weak, but they have a strong friend.

Ahmed Ben Bella, president of Algeria, has just returned from Moscow, where he was made a Hero of the Soviet Union. It was Ben Bella who, a year ago, aroused the African conference to a fever with his call for "a bond of blood with those who are fighting in South Africa, Angola and Mozambique."

When he left Moscow Ben Bella had another $127 million in Soviet credits, promises of "small arms," and the blessings of President Leonid Brezhnev. Brezhnev said Algeria's "revolutionary banner is fluttering proudly over the vastness of Africa as a call to all those who have not yet acquired freedom and must fight for it."

TRAINING CAMP

Ben Bella replied that Algeria has been turned into a training camp for those fighting in South Africa, Angola and Mozambique, and is supplying them with weapons.

A "Freedom Radio" is now heard in South Africa. It is thought to be in Ghana, and it broadcasts in English and the tribal languages. Late in 1962 nationalists and Communists from many African nations reportedly met secretly in Beuchuanaland. They vowed "the immediate liberation of South Africa and the overthrow of the all-white Verwoerd government."

The hour is growing late.

GREAT ADVANCES

West Germany Marks 15th Anniversary

BONN (AP)—Though it's not celebrated as the national holiday, Saturday marked the 15th anniversary of the West German Republic.

It's not a national day because there is no single German nation. Five months after the proclamation of the Federal (West German) Republic, the Communists in the East proclaimed their own German Democratic Republic, comprising a third of the land and a fourth of the population left after the Second World War.

Both republics still endure side by side, under virtually the same leadership that founded them. They have little human contact now, though they carry on a flourishing trade.

Between them is 863 miles of border, guarded on the Communist side by barbed wire, tall wooden watch towers, mines, strips of land, and police.

Both sides say they want reunification. Neither is willing to do anything about it on terms the other will accept.

Fifteen years ago Saturday Parliament ratified the constitution carefully called the "basic law" because "constitution" sounded too permanent. Since then, Bonn, a small university city on the Rhine, has boomed into a major governmental centre but it is still officially a provisional capital pending a return to Berlin.

ONCE WAS POWERLESS

In 1949 West Germany was powerless. It had no army, and after two terrible defeats in a generation, many Germans did not want one.

Now it has the strongest land force in Western Europe and is an equal partner in the Atlantic alliance. One of the main problems of Atlantic policy is how to give West Germany a share in atomic armament without frightening its neighbors—friend and foe alike.

In 1949 the main feature of many German cities was the rubble heap, left over from the Second World War bombing. Rationing had just been abolished. Many basic goods were hard to get, except for the well-off. There were 1,300,000 unemployed, nearly nine per cent of the working force.

Today the beauty of West Germany's new buildings is often questioned, but nobody denies there are plenty of them. Traces of war damage are hard to find.

Wages are good, strikes rare. There are four times as many jobs vacant as there are unemployed, and nearly a million workers have been brought in from southern Europe.

Production has more than tripled. West Germany has replaced Britain as the No. 2 country in world trade and is pushing the United States for first place.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

SECESSION DENIED

Charges Hurled On IWA Split

Some International Woodworkers of America officials would like the union split to become a permanent division, a Vancouver leader charged today.

Vancouver IWA head Syd Thompson, whose 7,000 member local leads the move to reject a conciliation proposal in a contract dispute, denied his own local wants to separate.

"Some people would like to see it happen," he said.

Thompson's local has rejected proposals in the two previous sets of negotiations, and he is recommending rejection of the current proposal.

ACCEPT MAJORITY

"We have abided by the decision of the majority before, and we'll do it again," he said.

"The regional leadership (which has recommended that all locals accept the conciliation officer's proposal) should listen to the people in charge of unions at the local level."

He called a bulletin issued by the IWA regional wage policy committee "unadulterated hogwash," and refuses to distribute it to members.

"The bulletin was not put out by the policy committee but by a handful of regional officers," Mr. Thompson said.

PRESENT CASE

He denied he has kept the facts from members.

"Our local has presented the recommendations of the conciliation officer in full to membership," he said.

The bulletin reads in part:

"The IWA Policy Committee Recommends: ACCEPT this proposed settlement as the best yet obtained by the IWA; one of the best negotiated this year in B.C.; one which does not include any of the employers' dangerous proposals."

BRINGS PARITY

The concilation proposal by E. P. Fisher, the bulletin says, "brings parity with the base rates in the U.S. Pacific Northwest fir belt."

The offer being voted on by 26,000 coast lumberworkers at present is for 28 cents an hour wage increases over two years, plus 15 cents for tradesmen.

Present rate is $2.08 an hour.

The proposal takes into account the controversial subject of travel time thus: "Employers shall avoid unnecessary delays between marshalling points and place of work."

The vote must be concluded by June 8.

WANTS PLEBISCITE

Social Credit Leader Thompson said he personally is not pleased with the flag design and called for a national referendum to settle the issue.

Mr. Thompson issued this statement just before Social Credit MPs met in caucus:

"It is the policy of the Social Credit party that each of its members of Parliament have the right to decide the flag problem according to his personal conscience. Personally I am not pleased with the design.

"It is most unfortunate that the prime minister did not permit members of Parliament to act through a completely free vote.

'ARBITRARY WAY'

"The arbitrary way the matter as been brought to Parliament has stirred up so much bitterness and controversy, I am convinced that the only way it can be settled with any degree of national unity will be through a national referendum."

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) said: "I think that in the course of time it will be accepted and this is the true test."

HE'D AMEND IT

However, he does not personally like the design, he said, and he intends to propose an amendment.

He would have the House adopt a flag showing a green leaf at the centre of a red triangle and a white triangle.

The flag had been introduced 23 years ago by a Quebec group known as La Ligue du Drapeau (The Flag League) and "we shall put forward everything we can to have it adopted by Parliament."

'NOTHING BIG'

Mr. Caoette said Mr. Pearson's project "does not amount to anything big."

"If there is a vote on the project, we shall support the government because it is a matter of a distinctive national flag, but we shall first try to have the other one accepted."

Gilles Gregoire, Creditiste House leader, said he finds the red maple leaves too large and the blue bars too narrow on the flag design introduced by Mr. Pearson.

He said there should only be one leaf in the centre.

Mr. Caoette said the leaves "are not maple leaves, or perhaps they are Liberal maple leaves."

DEAD LEAVES

Deputy Social Credit leader Guy Marcoux said he didn't think much of the new flag. "Red leaves are dead leaves and three leaves are too many."

Prime Minister Pearson said he thinks the finished reproduction of the flag shows a "handsome and inspiring design." He added: "We expect to get it decided by Parliament shortly."

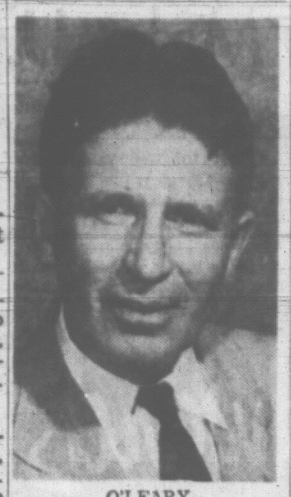
The new flag was discussed at a Liberal caucus meeting, held behind a door that was decorated with the new design. Sources said most of the party members strongly supported the design, but there were several suggestions that a referendum be held on the question. Ontario members of the caucus met earlier amid reports that some of them were seeking a referendum, but one Ontario member said later this wasn't the basic issue.

Soviet Bids Not Invited

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, says he didn't invite the Russians to bid on multi-million dollar equipment contracts for the giant Peace River power project.

Dr. Shrum, now headed home from a trip abroad in which he visited Russia and was reported inviting the Russian bidding, said in an interview from Toronto: "I didn't make any offers to the Russians. They asked me if I thought they'd be capable of building the equipment and I said yes."

The co-chairman of the big government-owned power agency which is charged with building the $800,000,000 Peace project in north-central B.C., said new bids will be called for sometime next month. The Russians had not asked for information on these for long-distance transmission lines.



O'LEARY
. . . 'phoney national pride'

'Fanatical Obsession,' Senator Says

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's pursuit of an international image was described in the Senate Tuesday night as a "fanatical obsession."

The remark came from Senator Grattan O'Leary (PC—Ontario) who also said Canada was a small power with a "phoney national pride."

In a hard-hitting speech that did not spare his own party for contributing to "the appalling extravagance" of recent governments, the senator questioned the appropriateness of Canada's support of various United Nations operations.

With debts mounting in its domestic affairs, the government should concentrate on setting its own house in order. This was the best way of showing the rest of the world how it's done.

He echoed earlier statements by Senator George S. White (PC—Ontario) who said Canada had done more than her share in supplying troops to the UN.

The upper chamber was considering an interim supply bill covering June expenses of $338,136,717. The bill was given second reading—approval in principle.

Senator Thomas A. Crerar (L — Manitoba) said governments since 1957 had shown the "extraordinarily bad habit" of overspending. From the end of the Second World War until 1957, there had been a decrease of $3,000,000,000 in the national debt.

Now increases in the old age pension were being provided by borrowing money.

New Vatican Look At Birth Control?

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Vatican publication said today medical discoveries may cause the Roman Catholic Church to take a new look at its stand on birth control.

At the same time Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, a leading member of the Vatican Curia, called on Catholic churchmen to stop public debate on the issue. He said only the Pope can decide "on such grave and debated questions."

He indicated that the Vatican ecumenical council resuming in September could open a discussion on birth control.

The statement that the church may undertake a new study of its birth-control stand appeared in the weekly L'Osservatore Della Domenica in an article titled About Birth Control Pills.

In the discussion on pills to make the time of ovulation predictable, the article noted that a debate over such a method of birth control had developed among church moralists.

The publication said the tendency favoring such pills does not justify a change in church regulations on marriage, but it added:

"It is sufficient, however, to justify the continuation of studies and of experiments in scientific research which could lead to conclusions susceptible of being taken in close and respectful consideration by church moralists for a rethinking of the question. . . ."

Some churchmen maintain that the pill method is not contraception, which is forbidden by the church, but a way to regulate the menstrual cycle and allow the rhythm method to be used with greater precision. The rhythm method is permitted by the church.

The L'Osservatore Della Domenica article was written by Msgr. Federico Lambruschini, an Italian theologian at the pontifical Lateran University. The weekly is a Sunday edition of L'Osservatore Romano.

It said oral contraceptive pills now on the market are not acceptable for Roman Catholics.

The publication said a new pill to regulate timing "constitutes the first physiological preparation, different from the ordinary contraceptive methods. . . ."

Driver of Death Car Remembers Nothing

Driver of a car involved in a fatal accident at Douglas and Kenneth May 17 said Monday in court he recalled nothing of the incident.

Walter Allison, 22, of 631 Kenneth, was testifying at the preliminary hearing of a charge of criminal negligence against the other driver, Rifleman Leslie Perry, 21, of Work Point Barracks.

Mr. Allison's girl friend, Della Mae Hoegi, 19, of 3016 Donald, died after the crash.

Mr. Allison said the two of them were at a wedding and reception Saturday night and had gone to a party afterwards. He recalled they got in his car and started for home but didn't remember anything else until he woke up in hospital.

Robert Courser, 2535 Lee, said he heard what sounded like an explosion and saw pieces of metal fly through the air after the crash. He drove to Saanich police station and called police.

Further evidence was to be give by Constable Harry Coote, who investigated the accident, when the hearing continues today.

EIGHT KILLED IN MID-WAKE

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters) — The floor of a house in which dozens of people were holding a funeral wake for a dead relative collapsed here Saturday, hurling eight of the mourners to their deaths and injuring 40 others.

TAG DAY SATURDAY

Volunteers Boost Solarium Drive

More than 300 volunteers will join the Solarium Junior League campaigners Saturday in an all-out effort to reach the Shower of Dimes objective of $15,000.

Volunteers for the big tag day drive will be located downtown and in districts surrounding Victoria.

Total collection to date is $7,600, just slightly more than half the objective.

Each year the Junior League raises funds to help care for 60 children in the Queen Alexandra Solarium. Average length of stay for each child at the solarium is 312 days and the cost is $14.88 per day.

Seven members of the campaign committee will take their blue and gold collection umbrellas Friday to the Alma Squares' annual square-dance jamboree at the Empress Hotel.

Donations may also be sent to P.O. Box 177, Victoria.

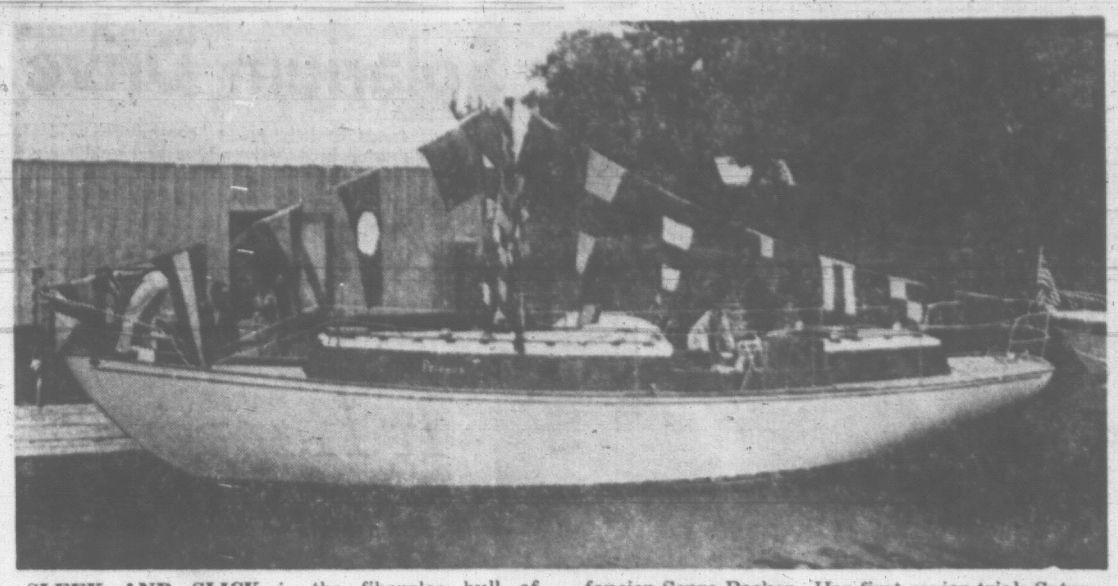
YATES AT QUADRA PHONE EV 3-1108



SLEEK AND SLICK is the fiberglas hull of Pelagius, a 40-foot yacht launched Saturday at Philbrook Boatyards, Sidney, for Seattle yacht fancier Serge Becker. Her first major trial: Saturday's world famous Swiftsure racing classic.

YANK IN CANADA TO CREW ON ENGLISH CREATION

Swiftsure Vet Goes International

By LESLIE MILLIN

Ray Richards is a Swiftsure veteran who designs Swiftsure veterans.

He also has a hand in constructing them, occasionally.

Saturday's Swiftsure classic yacht race will be his eleventh or twelfth — he's not quite sure—and competing in it will be two recently-launched 40-foot yachts of his own design.

Ray is a naval architect, and one of a group of people in Victoria taking advantage of a boat-building boom here.

Building yachts for racing and/or cruising is something better than a $100,000-per-year industry here.

For Americans

And most of those yachts—due to advantageous tax and duty and dollar-premium situations—are built for enthusiasts from south of the border.

"Two of the boats whose hulls I designed will be in this year's Swiftsure," says Ray.

They are the Pelagius and the Sabrina, with identical hulls but different rigging.

Pelagius, owned by Serge Becker of Seattle, has one mast and is sloop-rigged.

Sabrina, owned by Foster Anderson of Portland, has two masts and ketch rigging.

The hulls are fiberglas, 40 feet long and 10 and a half feet at their widest point, and were built by Pelagic Construction and Design Ltd. here.

Sabrina was completely constructed by Pelagic at the shipyard on Songhees Road. Pelagius was finished by Philbrook Boat Works, of Sidney.

In BB Class

Both run in the BB class in the Swiftsure.

Not quite ready for this year's Swiftsure is another of Ray's designs, a flat-out racer of unconventional design being built for a San Francisco doctor.

To be called the Warrior, it's being built at Candan Shipyards on Huron Street, near the VMD yards.

Warrior is a 37-foot fiberglas boat, sloop-rigged, and very well equipped for racing.

"She could have been in the water for this year's Swiftsure, but there wouldn't have been adequate time for complete testing, so we let it go," says Ray.

Warrior will cost that San Francisco doctor about $25,000.

The 40-footers, built for pleasure cruising as well as racing, might run as much as twice that.

At any given time, as many as four such boats are under construction in Victoria yards—all headed for U.S. owners.

Better Deal

As Ray explains it, an American owner can have his yacht built here and come out of it much better than a Canadian who wanted his craft locally built.

Raw materials can be imported cheaply from the United States, and the duty paid on them—99 per cent of it, anyway—can be redeemed when the boat slips back across the line.

When the graceful yachts are hovering on the starting line Saturday morning at 9:30, Ray will be aboard one of them—not his own creation.

He'll Crew

He will be part of the crew of Norena of Wight, owned by Victoria's Ron Ramsey.

That's an English creation.

In all, that gives Ray a pretty international status in the whole thing.

He's a transplanted Seattle-ite who came to Victoria two and a half years ago to help build yachts.

"And I wouldn't move back for the world," he says.

'YARD' UNIT YEAR OLD

Frogmen Make U.K. Crime Tougher

LONDON (CP) — Scotland Yard's frogman unit is making it tougher for criminals who use the Thames as an all-purpose rubbish dump.

Established on a full-time basis a year ago, the nine-man team has had remarkable success recovering objects as large as a limousine and as small as a 1½-inch brooch.

Before the unit was formed the Yard depended on the Royal Navy for jobs needing frogmen. But a rising crime rate and the numerous lakes, canals and rivers in the London area made it necessary for the police to train their own men.

The team is composed of volunteers with a high standard of physical fitness. They travel in a specially-designed truck that carries diving and dragging equipment and underwater lights.

During a recent search for a pistol used in a murder the divers were working in water temperatures close to freezing point. Because they could submerge for only short periods, it took 25 days to recover the weapon.

'Never Give Up' On Adult Centre

Greater Victoria School Board's efforts to secure an adult education centre will continue unabated despite a compromise by the minister of education.

Mrs. A. B. Thompson, chairman of the board of trustees, said Tuesday:

"The board is extremely interested in this and will never give up. It is so necessary."

She said trustees have even considered taking the matter to the people in a referendum, or using either Craigdarroch Castle or North Ward School to house adult classes in academic subjects.

Her remarks came after Education Minister Peterson said a site is being sought for a regional vocational school similar to five others in the province. It will be built, with federal aid, by 1967.

REFUSES SANCTION

The province will not sanction a separate adult education centre, as envisaged by the local board, to provide both adult academic classes and vocational-technical subjects.

Instead, Mr. Peterson said, the local board will be asked to help select courses to be offered at the provincial school.

"The school board will stand behind anyone in education and it realizes the need for vocational training, but we also stand behind academic aspects of higher education," the chairman said.

"Mr. Peterson, too, said he realized this and that these subjects would probably be handled . . . The only thing is for us to hope that academic subjects will not be neglected," Mrs. Thompson said.

EXPAND PROGRAM

Meanwhile, with mushrooming adult education enrolment, the 4-10 p.m. program in high schools will have to be expanded, she said.

Mr. Peterson asked the local board to recommend a site for the provincial school, which will provide specialized career training for students completing Grade XII in the vocational stream.

Ottawa will pay 75 per cent of construction costs, but operation will be strictly provincial.

Similar schools are operating at Burnaby, Nanaimo, Prince George, Kelowna and Nelson.

The minister said his department would co-operate in the creation of new accommodation for adult education classes here.

"The trustees are to be congratulated on their initiative in instituting such an excellent program of adult education in this community," said Mr. Peterson.

"Co-operation between board and province will result in providing the best of facilities in this field without placing too heavy a burden on the local taxpayer."

SAVED LIFE

Her Heart In Wrong Place

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI)—The bullet ripped into Mrs. Irene Nichols' left chest, aimed straight for the heart. But the heart wasn't there.

That's why Mrs. Nichols, 30, is alive today.

Doctors said the woman was born with a misplaced heart, on the right side of her body instead of the left—a quirk of nature that occurs only once in every 35,000 births.

Because of that, the bullet passed through her body and shattered her shoulder blade instead of the heart and she was seriously instead of fatally wounded.

The doctor who treated her said Mrs. Nichols almost certainly would have been killed had her heart been in the normal place. Instead, she is "doing nicely" and on her way to recovery.

Mrs. Nichols was shot during a family argument. Her husband, Clyde, 29, was arrested, charged with assault to murder and freed in $1,000 bond.

Highway Tenders

VANCOUVER (CP)—Highways Minister Gaglardi said Tuesday contracts on 300 miles of highway between Terrace and the Alberta border will be called by next April.

Two of the contracts, one for Highway 16 between Terrace and Prince George and the other on the Yellowhead Highway, were called Monday by the highways department, he said.

K Promises New Loan To Nasser

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev returned Monday from a 16-day visit to the United Arab Republic, where he promised another loan of $277 million and warned the United States its flights over Cuba could have "the most fatal consequences."

Khrushchev flew back to Moscow with full backing from UAR President Gamal Abdel Nasser for the Soviet "anti-imperialist" line. In turn, he promised support for Arab causes in their joint communique.

Diplomatic observers in Cairo agreed that the Soviet leader picked up much personal popularity during his 16-day visit, but considered it far from certain that he sold many Egyptians on Communism.

POP COMPANY SUED IN LOSS OF BOY'S EYE

VANCOUVER (CP) — A suit seeking $165,000 damages for a boy who lost the sight of one eye when a soda-pop bottle burst was filed in British Columbia Supreme Court Tuesday.

A writ and statement of claim filed on behalf of Michael John Mahoney, 12, claimed negligence "in the making, producing, manufacture and supplying of a damaged or defective product."

Coco-Cola Limited, Dominion Glass Company, and Assunta Citterelle, operator of a grocery store, were named as defendants.

The statements said the boy lost the sight of one eye and suffered impairment of sight in the other when the bottle exploded in a store last July 13.

Home Preserved

OTTAWA (CP)—The summer home of former prime minister Mackenzie King, 15 miles north of Ottawa in the Gatineau Hills, is to become a museum and tearoom. The Gatineau Historical Society said the former Liberal leader's bedroom is to be restored and a room in the home devoted to display of furniture and utensils used by the first families to settle in the area.

Marketing Board

Guest speaker, M. Gilchrist, head of the Provincial Marketing Board, gave members a comprehensive picture of the work of this board at recent meeting of Victoria Branch, Consumers Association of Canada.

Aim of the first marketing board, which came into being before the first war, was to move B.C. fruit to the prairies. There are now four groups functioning under the Marketing Board Act, passed in 1934—fruit board, interior vegetable marketing board, coast marketing board, and broiler marketing board.

Though they have authority over fruit in their own areas, they have none over imported products. Thus competition is created—sometimes favorable to consumers. Grower-organized pools, which divide sales money evenly among pool members actually sell the fruit. While boards do not sell themselves, they ensure that both producer and consumer are treated fairly.

Deplores Racial Discrimination

FREDERICTON (CP) — A recommendation against racial discrimination in Canada's immigration policy was passed Tuesday by members of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire at their 64th annual meeting here. It stated that the order favors an immigration policy "that does not discriminate on the grounds of race, national origin or religion." The policy should be "based on the economic needs of the country and its international and humanitarian responsibilities."

A resolution passed provides that the IODE will offer 22 bursaries of $1,600 each and six post-graduate scholarships of $2,000 each in 1964 from a Second World War memorial fund.

TO VETS' CHILDREN

The scholarships are awarded to Canadian sons and daughters of veterans disabled in the world wars.

War Memorial Secretary Mrs. R. C. Bennett, of Hamilton, announced winners of $2,000 scholarships for the 1964-65 school term.

They are Carole Borowski, of Dauphin, Man., Richard Alway of Hamilton, Jennifer Jackson of Scotland and Rosalie Beck of Lunenburg, N.S.

A municipal dinner for the order was held at the University of New Brunswick.

During the dinner Mrs. McGibbon read a telegram from Queen Elizabeth thanking the order for a resolution of loyalty to the royal family, passed Monday.

Of Personal Interest

At the Tea Hour

Miss Lorraine Patterson was a tea hour hostess last Saturday in the home of her parents at Esquimalt Drydock. Guests included friends and members of her class who will be graduating from Esquimalt High School. A centrepiece of red and white carnations and white candles decorated the refreshment table where Miss Diane Martin presided.

Return Home

Dr. and Mrs. Alec H. Gunning returned to their home on Duart Road on Monday after a three-week holiday in eastern Canada and New York State. While away, they visited friends and relatives in Toronto, New York State, London and Montreal.

In Farewell

Mrs. R. Sparkes, Mrs. H. Williams and Mrs. N. Mackay were co-hostesses at a surprise party in the Balfour Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. James Robertson, who are leaving the city shortly for Cornwallis, N.S. The guests of honor were each presented with a parting gift. Games were enjoyed and refreshments served. Guests included Mrs. Robertson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cudmore of Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. D. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. C. Buckley, Mr. and Mrs. G. Gammon, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hayward, Mr. and Mrs. C. Keighan, Mr. and Mrs. G. Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. N. Mackay, Mrs. M. Sneade, Mrs. R. Sparkes, Mr. G. Staniforth and Mrs. H. Williams.

Gown of Own Design

An ankle-length gown of white silk crepe that she had designed was worn by Winona Jerry McKay when she became the bride of Bruce James Purdy.

The gown was made by the bride's sister, Mrs. Gary Crowe. It featured a detachable silk crepe train lined in peau de soie and a gathered empire waistline enhanced with heirloom lace that was made by the bride's maternal grandmother. The bodice featured a V-neckline and long fitted sleeves. Her short, tiered face veil misted from a large white rose and lily of the valley. Gardenias, lily of the valley and ivy were in the bouquet.

Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff, assisted by Canon F. Pike, officiated at the double-ring ceremony in St. Luke's Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Colin J. McKay, 1047 Lodge Avenue. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Purdy of North Vancouver. Mr. McKay gave his daughter in marriage.

Apple green silk ensembles, designed by the bride, were choice of matron of honor, Mrs. Gary Crowe, and bridesmaids, the Misses Judy McKay and Margaret and Marilyn Purdy, all sisters of the principals.

They complemented their outfits with white accessories and toning tulle headpieces.

Petite Miss Carrie Crowe was flower girl for her aunt in a white classic bouffant cotton frock that was trimmed with a green velvet sash. She wore white accessories.

All carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Glen Voakes, Vancouver, was best man and ushers were George Specht, Michael Sullivan and George Wiginton, all of Vancouver.

A three-tier wedding cake, decorated in white, centred the bride's table at a reception in Holyrood House. Guest tables were decorated with yellow candles and arrangements of lily of the valley and yellow rosebuds. Jack Morrison, Brentwood, proposed the toast. Ron Berod was master of ceremonies.

The bride's going-away outfit was a white Italian knit suit topped with an aqua coat. She wore a white hat and ivory-toned accessories. Her corsage was lily of the valley.

Basket of Gifts

Master Ronnie McQuarrie presented gifts from a decorated basket when Mrs. Charles McQuarrie entertained at a shower honoring Miss Hazel Craig. Corsages were presented to the bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. R. Craig, and groom-elect's mother, Mrs. J. Comer. Invited guests included Mrs. Ken Comer, Mrs. J. Comer, Mrs. C. Knowles, Mrs. R. Comer, Mrs. N. Ingram, Mrs. R. Rickman, Mrs. G. Rickman, Mrs. D. Scott, Mrs. C. McQuarrie, Mrs. E. Dewhurst, Mrs. G. Maycock, Mrs. R. Stone, Mrs. L. Maycock, Mrs. D. Stone, Mrs. G. Lee, Mrs. R. Craig, the Misses Linda Knowles, Judy Knowles, Carol Dewhurst and Bonnie Maycock. Mrs. Kenneth Comer assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

Suggest Boycott

HAMILTON (CP)—A boycott of South African goods was suggested at the annual meeting of the local branch of the Voice of Women. The branch passed a resolution condemning recent pro-apartheid remarks by Toronto-born industrialist Garfield Weston.

Girls Find Pelligrinos in Rome; Whipped Cream in Coffee

Former Times staffer Judy Richardson and her friend Linda Scales, are now travelling in Western Europe. From time to time you will hear more of their adventures from abroad.

By JUDY RICHARDSON

"Going to Rome? Then, you must stay at Pelligrinos. It's the greatest!"

The American who told us this in Tours, way back in November, was obviously enthusiastic.

Richardson

Five months and many varied reports later, Pelligrinos was still the first place we headed after being left near the Coliseum, on our arrival in Rome.

When an impoverished Canadian hitch-hiker in Rome, you do as all the other English-speaking, low-budget travellers are doing. For you can be sure they've found the most inexpensive ways to enjoy the city.

Pelligrinos, for example, costs a bit more than either of the two Rome hostels, but it is within walking distance of practically all the main sights, while the hostels are both a half hour bus ride from the centre.

We found Pelligrinos by inquiring for "Ponte Sisto, two bridges down from the Vatican"—until we were within a few blocks, where everyone knew of the place.

Even at that it wasn't as notorious as we suspected. And, after two weeks, we felt we could disprove many of the rumors circulated by some hostellers of the scandalous goings on.

ONCE A CHURCH

The Forestiere de Pelligrino (as the sign says over the door) is part of a church. At one time, it was meant as a cheap lodging place for foreign pilgrims to the Eternal City.

Today, marble statues of Popes in flowing robes still lean out of niches in the walls and peer into the roofless cubicles which have been built in the centre of the long rectangular hall.

Usually, girls occupy the cubicles which contain a bed, a writing shelf and a cupboard and have a lockable door. But there are beds in each side hall at 100 lira less that may be taken by either sex. Altogether, there is room for about 60.

What upsets many, is the communal bathroom.

Hostel life is healthy with its 10 or 11 o'clock bedtime and seven or eight o'clock rising. But, for a change, Pelligrinos had a 1:30 a.m. lights out restriction.

Many a night it was a gay group that sat on the steps of the church next door and provided its own entertainment by talking and singing until after midnight. I wouldn't care to add one to my pack, but many fellows tote a guitar all over Europe.

Our meals were ethnic and hearty because someone had discovered "Mario's", a restaurant just across Ponte Sisto. Service was slow as Mario was his own waiter. But prices were fantastically low. For 50 cents we dined on a large dish of spaghetti, followed by a second plate of pot roast and cold sliced potatoes made delicious with oil, vinegar and spice.

GREAT DOLLOPS

Later, we'd troop up the street and around the corner for an ice cream cone. If we arrived at the right time we could watch it being made in a big electric churn. Then, for eight cents, we'd choose two flavors which the man slapped on the cone with a squat kind of knife rather than the scoop we use. On top he'd add a generous dollop of whipped cream.

Under the impression that Italy was a land of wine drinkers, we were fascinated by this milk shop. Sitting over an enormous morning cup of hot chocolate made with ice cream, we watched as people ordered whipped cream by the glass to go with their coffee.

One woman carefully broke pieces of croissant into her coffee, scooped a gob of whipped cream on her spoon, plunged this in the coffee to retrieve a piece of croissant and then jammed the whole mess in her mouth.

I'd still prefer bacon and eggs for my breakfast.

Of course, Pelligrinos had no hot water. But the public bath, three blocks away had all one could want for 50 cents. Four tubsful were about the average—one to soak in, one to scrub in, one to rinse in and one to relax in. Having a bath became a whole afternoon's project, eagerly awaited and much announced to the rest of the group.

The boiled lobster look was "in" at least once during everyone's stay.

Not just in Rome, but in all of Italy, the down-and-out sightseer is always a student no matter what his occupation. At the first Italian youth hostel he visits, he obtains a card that allows him free entry to all national museums — saving hundreds of lira a day.

The really astute down-and-outer will save himself 500 lira by arriving in Rome for the free day at the Vatican Museum—the last Saturday of every month. If he manages that he's a master of the "in" code for the poor traveller in Rome.

It's one of the things we slipped up on but will remember if there's ever a next time!

Nursing Study Coming

OTTAWA (CP)—Results of a comprehensive study of nursing education in Canada by a University of British Columbia professor will be made public at the biennial conference of the Canadian Nurses' Association in June.

The study, conducted by Prof. Kaspar Naegele of Vancouver, is believed to contain recommendations regarding the reorganization of nursing education.

It was initiated by the Canadian Nurses' Association following a pilot project on the educational standards of Canadian nursing schools, carried out four years ago by Dr. Helen Mussallem, the association's present executive director.

The executive committee of the association heard an interim report on the study from Prof. Naegele not long ago but he said his work still was not complete and declined to comment on it to reporters.

He said the full report will be available in time for the biennial meeting in St. John's, Nfld., June 14-19.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Fact—And Fiction!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is for the mother who read her 16-year-old daughter's diary and was "worried sick." I, too, was 16 when my mother read my diary (20 years ago). It read like this: "After choir practice we all went to Margaret's house and as usual her mother was out. We were popping corn when Margaret's brother came in with some friends. 'R.M.' sure is the love of my life. When Margaret's mother came home, 'D.M.' was showing us how the coach gives rubdowns. I'm sure she thought the worst! Next week after choir we will go to Betty's as her folks will be out of town. Oh, boy! Here's hoping 'R.M.' will be there."

Some of the above was true, but the part about "R.M." was all wishful thinking. I had a terrific crush on him and he didn't know I was alive. I filled my diary with one imaginary love affair after another. Of course my mother would never believe that it was all made up. I'm sure that many teen-agers do this today. My own little girl (13) is now entering the thrilling age of secrets, and I am glad I have a secret to help guide me.

Sincerely,
AUTHOR OF A TEEN-AGE DIARY

DEAR ABBY: I seldom disagree with you, but when you say that it is "unforgivable" for a mother to read her daughter's diary, I can't go along with that. It is the DUTY of parents to keep a close eye on their children until they are able to assume full responsibility for their actions. If a mother can learn something that will be helpful in guiding her daughter by reading her diary, or letters, or listening in on telephone conversations, I say more power to her! The "loss of privacy" is not nearly as serious to 15 or 16-year-olds as the trouble they could get into when they get away with things they shouldn't. It doesn't do any good to hear the confessions after a girl is in trouble when the trouble is evident.

ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW

DEAR ABBY: I, too, have read my 16-year-old daughter's diary for more than five years, and I expect to tell her only when she is lying awake waiting for her teen-ager to come in. By reading it, I have come to understand the intense need for love and patience at 16. It has helped me to foresee trouble before it develops, and to offer wise guidance. It has taught me to listen instead of preach. It has helped me to set limits before they are breached. It has also given me growing confidence in my daughter's ability to make the right decisions. I believe I have an obligation to God to return this child to Him as a fulfilled, useful person, not as an apology. And I know that I will be forgiven for using "unforgivable" means to do so when the time comes.

A MOM WHO CARES

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 16-year-old boy, and while he doesn't keep a diary, I did come across an unfinished letter he had written to a boy cousin. I was shocked and heartsick at some of the stuff he said he had done. Since one incident had to do with school, I got in touch with his football coach and a helpful school counselor, and had a talk with them. It turned out that my son hadn't done any of these things! He was just tired of being a "good kid" and wanted to appear more daring and spirited. Perhaps our entertainment today makes crime and violence appear so glamorous and exciting that our young people feel almost ashamed if they don't get into some sort of trouble. Parents shouldn't feel hurt if their children don't share all their thoughts and dreams with them. I know I didn't, and I had wonderful parents. This might help the mother who was "Worried Sick" because of the escapades she read in her daughter's diary. They were probably pure fiction, too.

Girls! You Too Can Join Ranks of Pipe-Smokers

By PENNY SAVER

When the latest cancer scare finally "hit home," many people gave up smoking altogether, or changed from cigarettes to cigars and pipes.

Pipe-smoking has long been popular among men, but never before have we seen so many women sporting sleek, slim briars.

In European countries, the advent of the pipe for women has taken a definite "hold."

According to manager of shop I was in today, women find pipe-smoking pleasurable as well as stylish.

In almost every walk of life you find the woman who formerly smoked cigarettes now has no qualms about taking out pipe and tobacco pouch and "lighting up" with her friends.

But don't think for a moment that women haven't put the mark of style on the pipes they smoke!

Ones I found in shop this morning are made in Germany and priced at $2.95 and $4.95.

Pipes selling at the former price have long, slim stems in gold and black, similar to a cigarette holder. Bowls of these are six-sided and made of fine dark-brown wood.

The higher-priced style also has the slim stem in gold and black with an extra touch added in four shimmering jewelled bands. The bowl of this pipe is gold rather than wood.

If you would like further information on where to shop for your pipe, call Penny at 382-3131.

SPADEA DESIGNER PATTERN

NS-359

Fontana of Italy

"Sorelle Fontana," the great designing "Fontana Sisters," from Rome are famous for collaborating on each other's designs, and their latest creation is a real "smash hit"! Feminine and fitted, softly draped and cleverly trimmed, it is typical of their fine Italian hands. This slim one-piece dress has an easy shaping. It is cleverly cut to give that elegant softness of line. With a "wrapped-to-one-side" effect the soft pleated drape on the skirt has a very slimming effect, and a pleat set in for easy walking. They have eliminated side seam bulk and placed the seams toward the back. The zipper is set in the centre back and the sleeves set in to top it all. To give an extra "dash" to this design they have added self-corded trim which is looped and twisted. Fabric suggestions include linen, novelty cottons, raw silk, shantung, crepe, light-weight woollens. To select your correct size, use Spadea's exclusive ready-to-wear size chart.

Supper Honors Mothers On Salt Spring Island

Covers were laid for 80 when girls of Salt Spring Island Guide Company and Brownie Pack gave a supper for their mothers at Ganges United Church Hall.

Seated at the head table were Mrs. F. W. Kirkham, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion; sponsors of the local Guide movement, Mrs. James Hedgecock, Surrey district Guide commissioner; Guiders Mrs. Kenneth Aquilon, Mrs. Floyd Luttrell, Mrs. Peter Dyck and Mrs. S. E. Hughes.

Supper was convened by Mrs. William Shaw, Mrs. Austin Wilson and Mrs. Fred Luddington. The Guides acted as serviteurs and washed dishes.

During the evening second-class badges were presented to Guides Marie Hughes, Patricia Deacon and Ingrid Dyck. Golden bars were received by Brownies Jennifer Humphreys, Joan Lowe, Judith Kelly and Marie Jarman.

Mrs. Dyck led a sing-song and skits were presented by the young hostesses.

An abandoned baby in Korea who was given the name of "Lotta" met her namesake, Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, during the Unitarian Service Committe director's recent visit. Only a little over a year ago, the night watchman had found the infant in the gatehouse of the Mokpo Hospital. The tiny tot was subsequently adopted by the sister and brother-in-law of one of the public health nurses on staff. The hospital which proved to be a haven for little Lotta is one of 70 major projects sponsored by the Unitarian Service Committee, 63 Sparks Street, Ottawa 4.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Gaining Weight After Age 25 Not a Healthful Practice

Lowman

It will be difficult for many North Americans to believe that most people around the world work harder than they do. However, that is the opinion of the food and nutrition board of a national research council.

This board has been more and more worried about the great number of North Americans who are overweight and believe that the ease of living which will increase and which leads to less vigorous physical activity, is an underlying cause.

Since 1943 the board has been feeding model men and women. They call the model man and woman the "Reference" man and the "Reference" woman. The reference man is 25 years old, weighs 154 pounds and is moderately active. The reference woman is 25 years old also, weighs 128 pounds and is moderately active.

The reference man has been eating 3200 calories daily since 1958. His calories per day have been cut by 300. The reference woman has been eating 2300 calories a day. Her intake has been cut to 2100 daily.

For best health, one is not supposed to gain weight after the age of 25. The many conveniences we now have, and the great number of cars, encourage a sedentary life. Today children would not think of walking to school even if it is only a 15-minute walk. A bus picks them up or their mother takes them. A young man seems to feel that he must have a car in order to have a date. Father seldom walks to the bus line or mother to the grocery, and there's a button to push for most of the activities which called for lots of physical exertion in the past.

For this reason the board feels that most people should have fewer calories now than in the past if they are to avoid overweight.

Next week I will tell you more about this report and how to calculate the number of calories you should have each day.

In the meantime, you may want to have my calorie chart which may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Bride Carries Heirloom Prayer Book

Prayer book, carried by her grandmother, her mother and her sister at their weddings was "something old" for Sharon Arlene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Doran, 3402 Luxton Road, when she exchanged vows with William Henry Beaudry, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Patton of Edmonton. Ceremony took place in Our Lady of the Rosary Church at Langford.

"Something borrowed" was a cameo pendant and earrings, belonging to her aunt, Mrs. G. Webb.

Given in marriage by her brother, Larry Doran, the bride was lovely in a gown of lace and nylon over taffeta that was styled with lily point sleeves and a skirt, slightly en train, and with bow as back highlight. A coronet of pearls and rhinestones held the chapel-length veil. Red roses and white carnations topped her prayer book.

Mrs. S. Hughes attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a yellow nylon and lace gown with toning flowered whimsie and carried turquoise chrysanthemums, edged with satin ribbons to match her gown.

The bride's tiny niece, Lou Anne Hughes, wore a flower girl frock of pink nylon and toning flowered whimsie. Roses and carnations were in her nosegay. Walter Hughes, the bride's nephew, carried the rings for the double-ring ceremony on a white satin cushion.

Best man was Len Cooke and usher, Lloyd Standvick. Groom and his attendants were in naval uniforms.

Fr. W. J. O'Brien officiated and later proposed the toast to the bride at a reception, held in her parents' home. There were 50 guests.

Tulle, white candles and red roses were setting for the wedding cake which centred the head table. It had been made by the bride and decorated by Mrs. J. E. Middleton. Miss Susan Smith, the bride's cousin, was in charge of the guest book.

Later, the bridal party visited St. Joseph's Hospital where the bride's father is a patient and gave him their flowers.

Hospital Chapel Setting For Bradley-Ellis Vows

The chapel of St. Michael and St. Luke in Veterans' Hospital, was decorated with standards of yellow gladioli, pink snapdragons and white stocks for the wedding of Maxine Ellen Ellis and Kenneth Frederick Bradley.

The bride is the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Ellis, Regina, Sask. The groom's parents are Mrs. Mabel A. Bradley, Leigh-on-Sea, Essex, England, and the late F. T. H. Bradley. Dr. Douglas Kendell officiated at the ceremony. Soloist, Miss Pamela Paver sang "Oh Perfect Day," accompanied by organist George Peaker.

Given in marriage by Robert O. Bell, the bride wore a two-piece ensemble of white embossed silk with a shoulder-length veil and white gloves. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley.

Junior bridesmaid, Miss Ariana Fairhurst, wore a full-skirted frock of yellow floral sheer over taffeta, and carried a bouquet of yellow carnations and Talisman roses.

Best man was Chris Heeman, and guests were ushered to pews marked with lily of the valley tied in white ribbon bows by Sidney Love and Dal MacLeod.

At a reception which followed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Garnham, 90 King George Terrace, the toast was proposed by Ted Fairhurst. A beautiful hand-crocheted cloth covered the dining room table that was centred by an arrangement of spring flowers and white candles. The bride's table was covered by a similar cloth and centred with a wedding cake.

An Italian wool knit coat and dress of dusty rose, a hat en tone and white accessories were worn by the bride for travelling on honeymoon trip motoring in the south.

Ridotto Committee Entertained

Mrs. Norman Blackmore will be hostess this evening at her Cavendish Avenue home. Guests will be members of the planning committee in charge of arrangements for the annual Ridotto sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service.

Early summer flowers will decorate the refreshment table. Among those present will be Mrs. D. A. Noon, Mrs. D. A. Noon, Mrs. C. B. Conway, Mrs. L. Charlton, Mrs. R. Forbes, Mrs. R. R. Wilde, Mrs. Kenneth Young, Mrs. Gordon Hunter, Mrs. G. C. Parrott, Mrs. H. A. Brown, Mrs. D. Hubin, Mrs. G. Waller, Mrs. O. Holland, Mrs. M. Emerson, Mrs. A. Fawsett and Mrs. A. E. Cooper.

The Ridotto will be held in the garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. R. Brown, 3045 Beach Drive on Saturday, June 6. In event of rain it will be transferred to St. Barnabas Church hall.

Couple to Make Home in Calgary After Honeymoon Trip to Hawaii

After a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harold Tanner will make their home in Calgary.

Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff and Canon F. Pike officiated at Tuesday afternoon's ceremony in St. Luke's Anglican Church that united Beatrice Joan Fortt, daughter of Mrs. Ronald L. Fortt, 2320 Windsor Road, and the late Col. Fortt, and the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Tanner.

FROM OTTAWA

Mrs. D. W. Cunnington, Ottawa, was matron of honor. Her imported gown, designed by Fernande, was of Calais ribboned lace in delphinium blue. With it she wore an original crownless hat of softly braided toning ribbon and veiling. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and freesia.

C. Reginald Tanner, Vancouver, was best man and ushering guests to pews were Dr. W. H. Reginald Tanner, Calgary, and Terrence Tanner, Vancouver.

Same floral theme as arranged in the church was used to decorate the Victoria Golf Club for the reception.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Fisher of Sackville, Mrs. P. M. Boulton and Miss Diana Boulton, both of Montreal; Dr. and Mrs. W. H. R. Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Roenisch, all of Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Russell, Miss Beverley Russell, Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Dwerryhouse, Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan and Mrs. Ruttan, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mills, Miss Laura Holmes, Mr. Terrence Tanner, Miss Dixie Hall, Mr. and Mrs. D'Alton McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brusset, all of Vancouver; Sir Richard and Lady Latham of Mission, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Milner of Qualicum Beach, and Col. and Mrs. D. W. Cunnington of Ottawa.

As her going-away outfit, the bride chose a Chanel-inspired jacket dress of Dubarry blue silk pessaite. The slim sheath dress had a bodice of shirred silk chiffon. Her flowered hat was in varying shades of blue. Accessories were white and corsage, gardenias and freesia.

Starting May 30th.

Sukiyaki-Easy Style

Have you ever dreamed of sitting on bamboo mats in a Japanese tea house, enjoying their excellent cuisine? You can bring the mysteriousness and beauty of Japanese culture to your home. Simplicity is the keynote—and canned convenience foods combined with the Japanese hibachi are the secrets behind the amazing ease of preparation. Sukiyaki, the most familiar Japanese dish, is a work of art made with a canned beef gravy sauce. The hibachi, a miniature cast iron charcoal burner, is becoming very popular. A draft below the grid easily regulates the fire—makes cooking to perfection a "cinch".

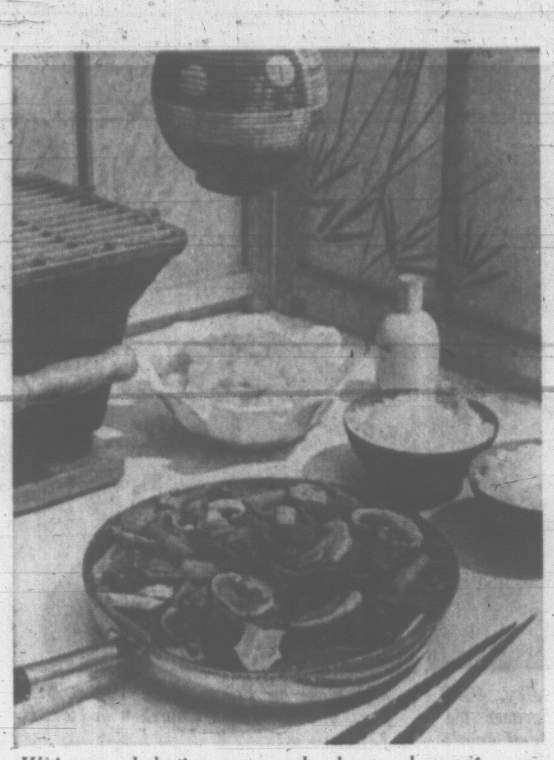
The Japanese believe cooking is an aesthetic experience . . . each ingredient is delicately cut into beautiful shapes . . . quickly cooked before the eyes of family and guests. To prepare this oriental dinner in traditional style, have all your ingredients laid out on a tray . . . thinly sliced beef, diagonally sliced celery, green onion strips, sliced mushrooms, and fresh spinach. It takes only a little over five minutes for the beef and vegetables to simmer to juicy doneness in the exquisite soy flavored canned beef gravy sauce.

Individual bowls of rice and chilled mandarin oranges complete the dinner—along with a porcelain mug of additional soy sauce and, of course, the traditional tea. For fun, let everyone try their hand at chopsticks!

EASY MOCK SUKIYAKI

½ pound spinach, 1 pound round steak, VERY thinly sliced; 2 tablespoons salad oil, 1 can (10¼ ounces) beef gravy, 2 tablespoons soy sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups diagonally sliced celery, 1½ cups sliced fresh mushrooms, ½ cup green onion cut in 2-inch strips, cooked rice, soy sauce.

Remove stems from spinach. In large frying pan, brown beef in oil. Stir in gravy, soy sauce, and salt; add spinach leaves, celery, mushrooms, and green onion. Cook for 5 to 7 minutes, stirring gently. Serve with rice and additional soy sauce. Makes four servings.



With canned beef gravy on hand, any housewife can astonish her family and friends by creating sukiyaki, worthy of any Japanese gourmet. Try it—you'll be repeating the recipe—by request!

Women's Committee Gives $4,000 During the Year

Report of the treasurer, Mrs. V. Furlong, given at annual meeting of the Women's Committee, showed a sum of $2,000 presented to the Victoria Symphony Society during the past year.

A further sum of $2,000 was voted from the meeting, held in the Deal Street home of Mrs. S. G. Watt Monday night.

Receipts for the year totalled $4,504.94; disbursements, $2,278.73. Biggest money-making project was "Italy To-Day," which netted a sum of $1,450.76 for work of the committee.

Mrs. Jack Barraclough was re-elected president for another year. Other officers are Mrs. Arthur Laundy, first vice-president; Mrs. Eileen Napper, second vice-president; Mrs. B. Marriott, recording secretary; Mrs. Joan Terry, treasurer, and Mrs. K. Thompson, corresponding secretary.

Chairmen were named as follows: Mrs. W. Ouimette, publicity; Mrs. J. Gillespie, box office; Mrs. D. Radcliff, Mrs. L. M. Shore, program selling; Mrs. S. G. Watts, flowers; Miss Charlotte Crawford, membership; Mrs. F. Crisp, Mrs. O. Neidermann and Mrs. V. Benn, meeting caterers; Mrs. J. Fraser, meeting notices, and Mrs. J. A. Hutchison, hastinotes.

Membership total as given by Miss Crawford showed 64 active and 38 associates.

The meeting was preceded by a dessert and coffee party.

GIRL GUIDES

Victoria—Miss Judy Falconer was presented with her Gold Cord by Fort Camosun division commissioner, Mrs. Harry Winnett, at a mother and daughter dessert party held by 21st Victoria Guide Company. Also attending were deputy area commissioner Mrs. P. McKeever and North District commissioner, Mrs. M. Smith. They awarded six service stars and six proficiency badges to Guides. Three recruits were enrolled by the captain, Mrs. G. Thompson.

Dunsmuir—The annual tea of the Dunsmuir District Girl Guides, Lady Douglas Division, will be held in Hudson's Bay Douglas Room Tuesday, from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. There will be a door prize and home cooking sale. The district includes Brownies and Guides of St. Alban's, St. John's and Belmont United Churches, and St. Margaret's School.

Trefoil—A meeting of the Trefoil Guild of the Canadian Girl Guides will take place in the Guide Hall, Pandora Avenue, on Thursday at 8 p.m.

Chanel's Arthritis Starts Style

PARIS (Reuters) — Copper dominates French costume jewelry this season.

Gabrielle Chanel, long acknowledged as a fashion trail blazer, unintentionaly launched it when she started wearing a copper bracelet as an antidote for arthritis.

Many people in France believe that copper worn against the skin has a therapeutic effect on rheumatic complaints.

Balenciaga adopts the copper craze with oversized dress clips made of burnished copper and large white "fresh water" pearls. The clips are worn pinned right in the centre of narrow V necklines.

Wrought iron, oxidized metals or dull-toned gold and silver substances hammered into rough-hewn effects are also in the news.

In the wake of Crusade and Byzantine jewelry launched by Yves St. Laurent last season, wide link chains come on the 20th century fashion scene this summer direct from the middle ages. Some support large medallion pendants. Others feature such shapes as breastplates.

Brass and copper nailheads in geometrical patterns are used for decorative belts at Pierre Cardin. Crahay of Lanvin introduces unusual belts, made of four or five rows of evenly matched artificial pearls.

Polished agate is an unorthodox material used for buttons in oval, round and square shapes.

Enamel, an inexpensive material, is used by Christian Dior and other leading houses. Colors follow the galaxy of flower shades on the couture palette, or are worked in black and white contrasts highlighted with gold.

Clips and pins are often worn this season in such unexpected places as the cuff of a long-sleeve dress or the top of one shoulder.

Nanaimo Meeting Favors Red Ensign

Mrs. Olive D. Wilson, president of the Victoria Women's Progressive Conservative Association, was among those who attended quarterly provincial meeting in Nanaimo last weekend. Meeting endorsed the Red Ensign as the national flag and sent a telegram to Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker confirming same. Miss Lynn Morrow, Vancouver, chaired the meeting. Mrs. Davie Fulton and Mrs. Wilson presided at the refreshment table when a reception and tea was held Friday afternoon. An engraved silver bowl was presented to past provincial president Mrs. E. D. Strongitharm, Nanaimo.

THEY DID WHAT THEY HAD TO DO, SAYS SURVIVOR OF EMPRESS OF IRELAND SINKING

'Heroism Was Submerged in Something Very Much Greater'

By BOB BELL

There were innumerable acts of heroism when the Empress of Ireland was holed and sank 50 years ago this Friday, but they can be seen only in retrospect, says Murton D. A. Darling, of Sidney.

Mr. Darling, 75, was one of 465 survivors of the sinking of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Ireland in the St. Lawrence River, May 29, 1914. The story of the sinking appeared in Weekend Magazine last Saturday.

A total of 1,012 men, women and children lost their lives in the se.. disaster that was, at the time, second only to the Titanic.

The pride of the Canadian Pacific fleet, the Empress was considered almost unsinkable with 10 water-tight bulkheads and a trained crew that could have them sealed in 30 seconds.

But when she was struck amidships in a dense St. Lawrence River fog by the steel-prowed coal-carrier Storstad, the proud Empress keeled over on her starboard side and sank in 15 minutes.

There was not time to consider heroism, said Mr. Darling. "There was no panic; everyone did what he had to do."

Now that he looks back on the disaster he can see acts of heroism, but at the time there was no thought given to it.

"Heroism was submerged in something very much greater," he said.

He doesn't consider anything he did as courageous.

Mr. Darling, then 25 and a lieutenant in the British Defense Force in China, was returning on leave to England.

"There was no time to get acquainted with anyone before the collision." He had dinner with Sir Henry Seton-Karr, an English explorer and author, then went to his cabin for the night.

The Storstand rammed the Empress at 2 a.m.

"I heard the engines ring 'Stop' and said to myself, 'What the devil's that?' Then the engines reversed and then came the crash," Mr. Darling said.

He put on an overcoat over his pyjamas, got his bedroom slippers and stepped out in the companionway.

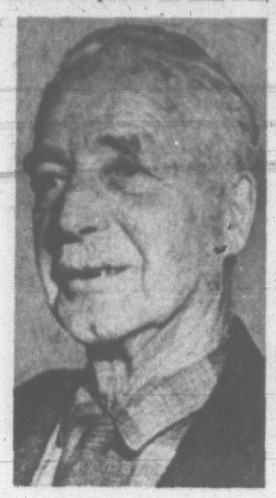
"The ship listed so fast that by the time I was in the companionway I was walking with my right foot on the wall and my left on the carpet."

He grabbed a lifejacket, put it over his head, and worked his way up three decks to the bridge.

There he met Seton-Karr, who tied the leg-straps on Mr. Darling's lifejacket, and said, "Better go, my lad. There's no time left." He never saw Seton-Karr again.

By this time the Empress was listing so badly Mr. Darling was able to step off the bridge and walk down the side of the ship.

Halfway along he saw a man . . . "what the devil's that?" trying to pull himself through a porthole. Mr. Darling and one other pulled the man free, then walked off the side of the ship into the water.



DARLING

"I don't know how long I was in the water. I remember hanging onto a piece of refuse on one side, and being bumped by an ice-floe on the other. That will give you an idea of the conditions."

After being picked up out of the water, Mr. Darling and other survivors were taken to a small store shed on the river.

By this time, the residents of Rimouski, Que., one and a half miles away, had been awakened, and they came to the scene in every conceivable method of transportation.

"They tried to do what they could," said Mr. Darling, "but the situation was beyond their conception."

The man Mr. Darling pulled from the porthole, ship's surgeon James Grant, was working over the injured in the shed. He fixed a woman's broken leg, using his own pyjamas as a bandage.

Later that day Mr. Darling discovered he had broken a toe sometime during the sinking.

He came to Victoria in 1924, and worked as a long-shoreman for Canadian Pacific.

A few months later he injured his finger and was sent to see the company doctor.

"As I went in, I realized who it was. It was Dr. Grnat, the man I pulled from the porthole," Mr. Darling said. Dr. Grant, who has since died, was extremely skeptical when Mr. Darling told him.

Mr. Darling had to tell the whole story of the woman with the broken leg before Dr. Grant was convinced.

While stevedoring in Victoria, Mr. Darling narrowly missed another sea disaster in 1927.

The freighter Emdyk, outbound from Tacoma, went aground on Race Rocks with a cargo of copper. A call went out for stevedores to meet the tugboat Spray in the Inner Harbor to go out and take some of the copper off the ship.

The Spray was caught in the tide and capsized under the Emdyk during the operation, and six men lost their lives, Mr. Darling said.

He missed boarding the Spray by 10 minutes, when he had a flat tire on his bicycle.

Mr. Darling later founded a cleaning products firm in Victoria, and is now retired.

VMD ONLY BIDDER ON FERRY

'Nobody Could Beat My Price'—Husband

HUSBAND
. . . "competitive"

Victoria Machinery Depot was the sole bidder when tenders were opened Tuesday for a new ferry for the Island-Mainland run.

VMD's bid of $3,894,264 was at first described as "too high" by Premier Bennett. But after examination, ferry authority officials said it was comparable to the cost of earlier ferries.

At the same time, Premier Bennett blamed the lack of tenders on the fact B.C. shipyards "have lots of business."

But Harold Husband, president of VMD, said other yards know better than to compete with VMD.

"I didn't think anyone would be able to beat my price, no matter who bid," he said.

The ceremonial opening of tenders took place at 2 p.m. in Premier Bennett's office with ferry authority officials and half a dozen representatives of shipbuilding industries in attendance.

The premier noted the bids were for ferry No. 11 for the Island-mainland run. After opening the tender he said VMD's price was "very high in my opinion."

He said the Queens of New Westminster and Nanaimo cost just a shade under $3.5 million each and "this is 10 per cent higher."

"It looks as if the shipbuilding industry has a lot of business. We are glad to see them busy, but I don't like this price," he said.

Mr. Husband said the bid also indicates that his firm has a competitive yard. He said previously he had built two ferries at the same time, with resultant savings impossible to achieve with a single contract.

Also, he said, his firm had experienced a 16 per cent increase in wages since the last ferries were built and although the increase does not come all at once, an 11 per cent boost in wages will be in effect before the ferry is launched in June, 1965. He said other costs are up 6 to 7 per cent.

"CLOSE AND TIGHT"

In reply to a question by the premier, Mr. Husband said the bid was "as close and tight as last time." He said his firm wants and needs the job and he asked to be advised immediately if possible, if he had won the contract.

The premier said the bid would have to be studied. There is a remote possibility of a new call for tenders.

Premier Bennett then asked, "How can we keep our ferry rates down in view of these costs. We are keeping them down but you are not," he told Mr. Husband with a smile.

"We are having great difficulty in keeping our rates down. Our volume is going up but our costs are going up by a greater percentage," the premier added.

NO KITE-FLYING

"I don't think the public appreciates the great value they are receiving," he said and he pointed out that the government put a million dollar subsidy into the ferry system each year.

"How long we can continue these low rates, I don't know. We hope, forever." He said later he was not trying to "fly a kite" leading to a boost in fares.

Following the press conference word was issued by the premier's office stating that the newest ferry contained half a million dollars in new equipment which was not included in specifications for earlier ships — hence the costs are comparable.

GROUP RATES ABOLISHED ON HOLIDAYS, WEEKENDS

Special group rates on B.C. ferries will no longer apply on holidays and weekends.

A cabinet order-in-council Tuesday ended the reduced rates which had applied for Sunday School outings and similar group excursions on weekends. Premier Bennett said the groups were holding back regular traffic.

He thought the new system will encourage more travel on slack days.

Regular fare Island-to-Mainland is $2 one way, per person. Organized groups of 10 to 14 are able to travel for $1.50 each. Groups of 15 to 24 for $1.25 each and groups of over 25, for $1.10 each—but only on weekdays.

Duncan Calls Bids On Hospital Loan

Duncan city council has decided to call tenders for the sale of $188,000 worth of debentures, the city's contribution toward the $3,500,000 cost of the new Cowichan district hospital.

Some of the money has already been contributed by the city.

Council also decided to study a $50,000 dyking plan submitted by its consulting engineer, Russell Potter, to ease the annual fall and spring flood threat along the Cowichan River.

Mr. Potter's report on the city waterworks was accepted and the water committee was given the problem of water extension and financing.

The engineer assured council there was no doubt of the feasibility of the water installation in the city and its immediate surrounding area.

At the same time, such areas as Maple Bay, Koksilah, Eagle Heights and the Fairfield-Ortana subdivision could be supplied, he said. The big problem would be financing.

This could be achieved by the consumer, by the utility of sales through meters.

The council also:

Learned the highways department will widen the inside shoulder of Government to allow for pedestrians as soon as the project can be fitted into the program.

Why Be Half Safe?

Q. When are firemen's faces as red as their suspenders?

A. When the fire hall burns down.

And Duncan firemen aren't taking any chances.

Council Monday agreed to a fire department request for installation of a smoke and heat actuated alarm for the fire station at a cost of $359.

The silent protectors will be located on each of three floors where the slightest whiff of smoke or flame will touch off the siren.

COWICHAN VALLEY MEET AT DUNCAN

Winners Listed in 'Olympics'

DUNCAN—Youngsters from all over the Cowichan Valley competed in the fourth annual junior Olympic training meet held at the Cowichan Senior Secondary School track by the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 53.

First and second place winners will compete in the zone finals June 20. Following this event, the first and second place winners of the midget and bantam divisions will participate in the provincial track meet at Richmond, Aug. 7 to 9.

THE ASSOCIATES:

who they are, what they do and how they can help you with a financing plan for every need

THE ASSOCIATES finance commercial ventures and private dreams.

You may never have heard of them, but they've been in business for close to fifty years. You may never have borrowed from them, but it's quite possible that the company you work for has done so at one time or another.

The Associates, with their affiliates, form one of the biggest and most experienced companies in the world of finance. They have assets totalling more than a billion and a half dollars. And they have a network of 600 offices in the United States and Canada.

And yet it isn't surprising that you may never have heard of them.

One good reason why their name is not more familiar is that the Associates are not in the business of persuading people to borrow money. They are in the business of lending to responsible companies and individuals at reasonable rates of interest. And that's a business that can be conducted quite quietly and calmly.

Some Canadian newspapers have had a good deal to say recently about exorbitant rates of interest, hidden charges and the dangerous game of lending money to people who are not qualified to borrow.

The Associates have never conducted business in this way. In many cases, their rates of interest compare very favourably with the rates charged at Canadian banks; there are no hidden charges and no obscure clauses in their contracts; and they never lend money to unqualified people.

IS THERE A DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE ASSOCIATES AND OTHER FINANCE COMPANIES?

Most other finance companies specialize in certain kinds of loans. In automobile financing, for example, in business loans or in debt consolidation. The Associates, on the other hand, have a financing plan for literally every need. They make it possible for you to go to one company for all your borrowing needs and they simplify the paperwork both for us and for you.

Other finance companies normally limit the amount that can be borrowed. At the Associates, there is no limit. No request is too big; and certainly none is too small. The Associates make multi-million-dollar loans to companies and hundred-dollar loans to individuals. Repayment schedules are just as flexible. There's no rule that says loans must be repayed within a set time. Repayments can almost always be tailored to suit your budget.

YOU BORROW BEFORE YOU BUY AT THE ASSOCIATES

Borrowing ahead of time makes shopping simpler and often means that you can save by taking advantage of a bargain when you see it. The Associates call this "Look-Ahead Borrowing." It makes all kinds of sense.

Something else that makes sense for people who are buying houses is the Home Owner's Loan Plan. It allows you to use the equity you have in your home as collateral for a loan. You borrow over a longer term and at a lower rate of interest than you'd pay for an unsecured loan. And you qualify for the plan whether you've finished paying for your home or not.

A FINANCING PLAN FOR EVERY NEED

Generally speaking, people have the same needs, desires and ambitions. So 999 out of every 1,000 loans are made for the same comparatively short list of reasons. The Associates have developed a specific plan to fit every one of them. The list that follows is not complete. But it will serve to give you some idea of their scope and variety.

THE ASSOCIATES HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN

This practical plan provides the money you need to make any one of a hundred different improvements in your home. You simply get an estimate from your builder and bring it along to the Associates.

THE ASSOCIATES HOME FURNISHING PLAN

When you furnish a home, you normally shop at several different stores, and pay separate finance charges at each. With the Associates plan, you avoid multiple interest payments by paying for your purchases with one monthly cheque.

THE ASSOCIATES BUSINESSMAN'S PLAN

Your standard of living is expected to advance along with your career. This plan helps you keep pace. It provides money to move into a new home, to buy a new wardrobe or a second car; money for business expansion, for new equipment or to meet sudden emergencies.

THE ASSOCIATES AUTOMOBILE FINANCING PLAN

You can often make a better deal on a new or used car when you have cash in your pocket. The Associates plan puts it there. You get terms sensibly designed for your budget and a contract that's crystal-clear.

THE ASSOCIATES BETTER LIVING PLAN

Sometimes luxuries are necessary, too. The Better Living Plan takes care of all the things you want to do and buy to make your life as full and complete as you want it to be.

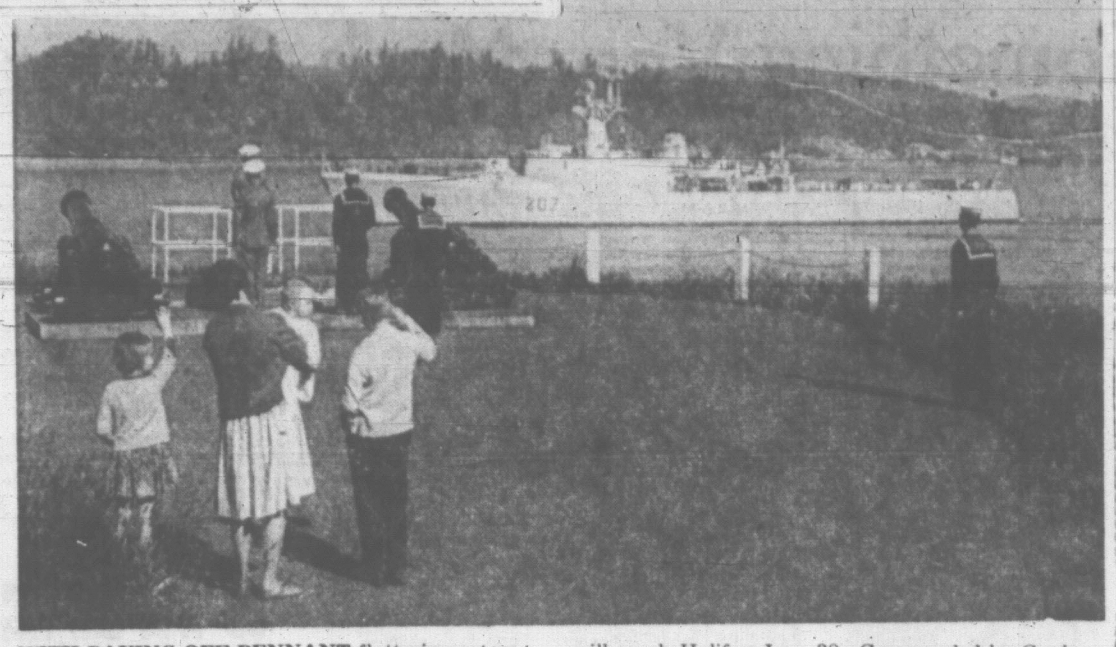
THE ASSOCIATES FARM CREDIT FINANCING PLAN

The costs involved in operating a farm grow every year. The Associates plan makes money available for business and personal expenses at short notice. Repayments are arranged to suit seasonal incomes.

THE ASSOCIATES

THE ASSOCIATES ARE HERE IN VICTORIA

The office is at 895 Fort Street. The manager is Mr. Brian Coutts. He'll be delighted to answer questions and to give you details of any or all of the Associates financing plans.



WITH PAYING-OFF PENNANT fluttering astern, HMCS Skeena yesterday morning (May 26) left Esquimalt for Halifax and major conversion at an eastern shipyard. Work will include addition of Variable Depth Sonar and installation of hangar and flight deck for anti-submarine helicopter. Ship will reach Halifax June 30. Commanded by Cmdr. M. A. Martin, Skeena has been attached to Second Canadian Escort Squadron here since commissioning in spring of 1957. Soon after arrival on east coast, ship's company of 12 officers and 110 men will return to Pacific Command.

ONE CHIEF ESSENTIAL

Details Revealed Of Defence Plans

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's integration of defence headquarters under a single chief of staff is absolutely essential if savings are to be achieved, Defence Minister Hellyer said Tuesday.

Outlining his plan to the Commons defence committee, Mr. Hellyer said the number of generals, lieutenant-generals and major-generals is being reduced to 12 from 17, and similar savings can be achieved as integration of the armed forces on functional lines proceeds.

"We feel this will operate satisfactorily and efficiently, and that we will be able to keep our forces at a high state of readiness, and keep up the support which is absolutely essential."

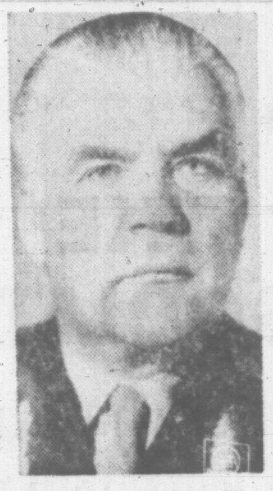
Under existing defence headquarters organization, the minister is advised on military matters by the chairman of a chiefs of staff committee and by the chiefs of the navy, army and air force. The chairman of the Defence Research Board and the deputy minister of national defence also have direct lines to the ministry.

Under the new setup, the chairman of the chiefs of staff and the three services' chiefs will be replaced by a single chief of defence staff.

Marcel Lambert (PC — Edmonton West) questioned Mr. Hellyer about the source of his new organization plan, and the real purpose to be achieved.

Mr. Hellyer said it was to streamline the forces and use the money saved on new equipment purchases. The purpose, he said, was "to get the maximum amount of force in a high state of readiness for the least amount of money."

Mr. Lambert said it involved a fundamental reorganization of the armed forces which Parliament was being asked to approve "on his own word and the word of the government."



FIRST high Soviet military official to visit Yugoslavia in seven years, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, Soviet defence minister, arrived in Belgrade today.

'Mods' Drown

READING, Eng. (UPI) — Three "Mods," or sharply-dressed teen-agers, were drowned Sunday in the River Thames when five "Mods" jumped into a small boat containing four others, overturning it.

'Thalidomide Atmosphere Dangerous'

TORONTO (CP)—The thalidomide tragedy has generated an atmosphere which threatens to prevent further life-saving drugs from reaching the market, Stanley N. Conder, general manager of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, said Tuesday.

Mr. Conder said baby deformities linked to thalidomide two years ago has caused drug research to be viewed with fear and suspicion. This fear threatened to provoke legislation that would impede medical discovery in the drug field.

"An overly cautious approach to a valuable substance might well protect the general public against some adverse side effect," he told the annual meeting of the Ontario Medical Association. "But it might also prevent a patient from having medication that is essential to his life."

Research would lose their initiative if drug legislation becomes too restrictive, Mr. Conder warned.

IWA MEMBERS ACCEPT! THIS SETTLEMENT

- Proposed by Conciliation Officer E. P. Fisher
- Recommended by the IWA Policy Committee.

MAKE SURE OF THESE GAINS, THE BEST YET OBTAINED BY THE IWA

- Every worker in the coast lumber industry to get a pay boost of 28 cents an hour in two years.
- The proposed new base rate, $2.36 an hour, is as high as the base rates won by the 1963 IWA strike in Washington, Oregon and California.
- Journeymen tradesmen to get a pay boost of 30 cents an hour next June 15, and 43 cents an hour in two years.
- Shingle sawyers and shingle packers to get a floor under their earnings of $3.11 an hour and $2.57½ an hour, respectively.
- Planermen to get a survey of rates and categories.
- Paydays to be every second week.
- Health and Welfare weekly sickness and accident indemnity payments to be raised to $50.00 for 39 weeks.
- Qualifications for paid statutory holidays to be clarified.
- Earned vacations with pay to be taken.
- Travel time provision for loggers to be improved.
- Arbitration procedure to be clarified.

REJECTION IS A GAMBLE AGAINST ODDS

We must be frank with ourselves.

A membership rejection vote will invite a rejection vote by the employers. This will put the IWA back at the bargaining table to make a fresh start on negotiations.

Objectionable proposals made by the employers and omitted from this proposed settlement, such as higher board rates, a re-scheduled work week with less overtime on weekends, reduced travel time rate, loss of rest periods, and less fare allowance, etc., will be demanded again.

The ordinary conciliation procedures have been exhausted. If the employers should choose to defy a decisive government-supervised strike vote for higher demands, the Union would have no alternative but to strike. A satisfactory form of mediation is uncertain. No one can predict the outcome.

With this settlement assured, why gamble on uncertainties? Our 26,000 members and their families cannot afford a gamble of this sort for the uncertain prospect of a few cents more on the hour.

WHITE MAN SLAIN

N.Y. Mob Seeks To Lynch Negro

NEW YORK (AP —) "Lynch him . . . kill him," shouted a mob of whites outside a bar where a Negro was being questioned about the holdup murder of a white bartender.

The victim was the third white man attacked by Negroes near the western edge of Harlem in five days.

Police had to call in reinforcements Tuesday night to push through the mob to a patrol car with the Negro. They said early today that the man, Alonzo Cook, 20, of Harlem, had admitted the shooting.

Police said the bartender, Gerald Esmond, 55, was talking to a lone customer when the gunman entered and said, "Give me your money."

GRABBED MONEY

"Are you kidding?" Esmond asked, and was shot twice. The gunman grabbed $40 from the cash register and fled, pursued by the customer.

Police arrested Cook after they found him in a church yard. He was booked on a charge of homicide.

Esmond, married and the father of one, was well-known in the Vinegar Hill section of Manhattan's upper west side, a predominantly white neighborhood. A crowd gathered at the bar and the noisiest rattled and pounded on the door, shouting for a lynching.

Last Friday night, L. Carroll Adams, 56, a professor of physical education at Columbia University, was attacked and robbed of $70 by about 20 teenage Negroes.

RACIAL INCIDENT

He was quoted as telling his family: "It was definitely a racial incident. They came at me screaming, 'White man, we're going to get you. White man, we're going to kill you.' "

Adams was attacked at 120th Street and Riverside Drive after he left a Peace Corps meeting. Police captured six of the Negroes, aged 13 to 16.

The next day Prof. John Hazard, 55, of Columbia Law School, was attacked by five Negro teen-agers at Morningside Drive and 113th Street. They knocked him to the ground, took his watch and wallet containing about $30 and fled.

Soviet Car Delayed

BERLIN (AP) — U.S. military police detained a Soviet military sedan for 75 minutes in West Berlin Tuesday, a U.S. spokesman said. The action was in retaliation for similar detention of an American military sedan in East Berlin recently.

VICTORIANS TO GRADUATE FROM McGILL

Among the students who will be attending the convocation ceremony Friday at McGill University are two from Victoria.

John Sargent, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. Sargent, 3333 Henderson, will receive his bachelor of arts degree with first-class honors in economics and political science. He is also the winner of the Allen Oliver gold medal and fellowship in economics and political science.

Frank Buffam, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. B. B. Buffam, 2855 Beach Drive, a university scholar who passed with great distinction in the general course will receive his bachelor of science degree.

Malaysia Summit Still Stalled

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters)—The scope and timing of withdrawal of Indonesian forces from Malaysian Borneo today still blocked agreement between Malaysia and Indonesia on a summit peace meeting over the Malaysian dispute.

Salvador Lopez, the Philippines special envoy, said his country, Malaysia and Indonesia agreed "in principle" to the top - level meeting, but a spokesman for the Malaysian foreign affairs ministry said principles are still at stake.

Indonesia has vowed to "crush" the British-backed Malaysian federation, made up of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah (North Borneo), and has termed it a British "neo-colonialist plot."

Indonesia-backed forces have been fighting British and Malaysian troops in Borneo for the last 17 months.

Malaysia has insisted there should be a total withdrawal of Indonesian guerrillas from Malaysian Borneo before a summit conference is convened.

But Indonesia has said the withdrawal should begin when the talks start, with the speed of the withdrawal based on the outcome of the talks.

12 WIVES, 65 CHILDREN

105-Year-Old Beats First Traffic Ticket

CHICAGO (AP)—A motorist who said he is 105 years old, a father of 65 children and living with his 12th wife, won dismissal of a traffic charge Tuesday because it was his first known offence in 50 years of driving.

The grey - bearded motorist, Joseph Ben Abraham, of Gary, Ind., showed up in traffic court wearing sandals and a dark suit.

Abraham, who said his oldest child is 86 and his youngest 2½ years, produced a birth certificate written in Hebrew which he said attested he was born in Palestine Sept. 3, 1858. He also presented a driver's licence issued to him in New Jersey in 1962.

"They got me for making an illegal turn in the 1600 block of East 75th Street," he told Magistrate Michard Jorzak.

Abraham said he has lived in the United States since 1961.

Magistrate Jorzak dismissed the charge because of Abraham's spotless traffic law observance record since he started driving in 1914.

GET LUCKY AND ALL LIT UP
at St. Pat's this Wednesday! We've been waiting for weeks for a shipment of those popular St. Pat's lighters—now they're here, so it's

CIGARETTE LIGHTER NIGHT AT ST. PAT'S

Every winner, and both his neighbors also, will get a handsome lighter — and the winners will get some handsome chunks of cash, too! Like this—we'll have a

REVERSE MUSTWINPOT STARTING AT $200

If you call bingo in 50 calls or less you win $200. If nobody bellows "Bingo," then

51 CALLS PAYS $190
52 CALLS PAYS $180

and so on. No matter how many calls it takes, the

and probably more. If you're slow to win, you'll only get (only, he says!) $100 on this game, but the FORWARD Mustwinpot will really pay off for you! This is a full card, starts with

$100 AT 50 CALLS
$110 AT 51 CALLS
$120 AT 52 CALLS

and goes right on for as long as it takes to get a bingo—so it's

$210 AT 61 CALLS

and so on. Every other game pays at least $20 and we reckon to pay out over $800 at the friendly game in St. Patrick's Hall, Trent St. (off Fort near Foul Bay, opposite Safeway. Take Willows-Uplands bus). Game starts

21 MALE HELP WANTED

EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY
We would like to interview a man between the ages of 25 and 40, who wants to consider a business opportunity which is very worthwhile. This man should have a reasonably good education and preferably some executive experience. We are prepared to invest considerable money in the right man. If you like to know more about this position which offers unlimited potential earnings with generous establishment allowance please telephone 383-2755 for an appointment.

ASK YOURSELF
where will you be 3 years from now? Will you be satisfied with your earnings? Will you still be wanting to make the change to a higher paying career? Let me show you the names of Victoria men who are now managers of the Canadian Fuller Brush Co. and you will want to have a closer look at this expanding opportunity to change your life. For interview without obligation phone Mr. Salmond, 477-3626.

ARE YOU EARNING $500-$800 A month? If you are over 25, conscientious, ambitious, and thinking to better your way of life in worthwhile permanent employment, we offer you a car, a profit sharing plan and many other benefits. Sales experience necessary. Contact Don White, Telmac Small Cars, EV 5-5441.

21 MALE HELP WANTED

MEN
Between the age of 25 and 40
Wanted for an EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY
If you are dissatisfied with your present occupation, are at a dead end or want to earn a way above average income, answer this ad. To qualify you must be above average, have University entrance or better and be prepared to work as you've never worked before. Answer guaranteed. Open to all races, creed or color.
Victoria Press, Box 119

WILL I SUCCEED?
This is the doubt many people have when they are considering entering the selling profession. We can answer this for you by giving you a series of written tests at no cost or obligation to you. The results of these tests will be frankly and honestly discussed with you. We will offer you employment only if the results show that your chances for success are above average. If you are accepted you will join people who earned up to $18,000 in commissions last year and you are welcome to inspect their T-4 slips. Generous advance system available. You'll have nothing to lose and everything to gain by investigating this opportunity now. Whatever your present occupation may be apply to Victoria Press, Box 111.

PROVINCE-WIDE BAKERY requires 2 route salesmen for its house to house division. Only smart-appearing men of good character and clean habit need apply. We value ambition and initiative above previous sales experience. The men we select will be trained at our expense and those who can meet with the requirements will be given an established route to operate. High earnings for the right man. Complete medical plan and other benefits. For a personal interview, write Victoria Press, Box 124.

ANNOUNCING
HOME OWNER'S LOAN PLAN!

Now you can borrow the money you need to pay off large outstanding bills . . . to finance a university education . . . to remodel your entire home . . . purchase a summer cottage . . . or for any good money saving reason. It's the Associates Home Owner's Loan Plan: big money for today's biggest needs. Here's how it works. If you're a home owner, you can use the equity in your home as collateral for the loan. And you may qualify whether your home is paid for or not. You get cash at a reasonable rate of interest—no bonus charge or hidden fees added. Stop at your nearest Associates office or telephone and ask about our HOME OWNER'S LOAN PLAN—it's the easy, worry-free way to enjoy the things you want now!

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Despite the airing of industry linen in public, the Emmy Award show went off smoothly Monday.

There was no real cause for NBC-TV to carry on tasteless attacks on rival networks ABC and CBS. The two networks boycotted the show because they want to see a revamping of the categorizing and nominating procedures of the Emmy system of awards.

Stephen

They are not alone. Many people in the industry want to see something done to improve the present set-up. The very heavy-handed and crude attacks by NBC-TV artists during the ceremonies just slipped the network down a notch in the opinion of the viewing public. The banality of the material of That Was the Week That Was was too much to take.

Ironically, CBS-TV, one of the boycotting networks, received the most Emmys, 13, with the Danny Kaye and Dick Van Dyke shows, and The Defenders series, walking off with most of them.

By another irony, ABC-TV, the other boycotter, won the Program-of-the-Year award for the excellent "The Making of the President, 1960," a documentary about the late President Kennedy's election campaign.

The ceremonies were hosted in Hollywood by Joey Bishop and in New York by E. G. Marshall.

Bishop set the scene, which he referred to as "the greatest fight of the century," with his crack: "Well, I guess we're going through with it." The remark referred, of course, to CBS and ABC allegations that voting and classifications for the awards are illogical and unfair.

In his speech before the awards were presented, Academy president Mort Werner explained the voting and predicted: "There will always be disagreement but out of disagreement will come progress. Even though Emmy's feathers are ruffled, she will continue to fly."

The NBC Huntley-Brinkley report scored its sixth straight victory in the news reporting field.

In fact, NBC made it a shutout in the news division by winning another Emmy for best achievement in news commentary or public affairs with three white-paper programs—"Cuba . . . Parts One and Two," "The Bay of Pigs" and "The Missile Crisis."

Television's two top-rated series, "The Beverly Hillbillies" and "Bonanza," did not get recognition of any sort.

Though CBS and ABC boycotted the Emmy show, the stars of shows seen regularly on the two networks were very much in evidence as cameras panned the audiences in New York and Hollywood.

The awards mean a great deal to the winners and fears that the stars would not turn out proved groundless.

The U.S. networks have, in general, no actual control over such activities by their stars.

SOCCER TRAGEDY

'Made No Mistake' Contends Referee

MONTEVIDEO (AP) — The referee at the disastrous soccer game in Peru is mourning for a week at his home in this capital of Uruguay with his wife and two daughters.

"Then I want to see my priest," said Angel Eduardo Pazos. "I want to be sure the fault wasn't mine, like some Lima newspapers are saying. It has been so terrible.

"But I will remain a referee," added Pazos, 38, a metal worker who officiates at soccer games in his spare time.

Argentina's team was leading Peru's 1-0 in the pre-Olympic game in Lima Sunday when Pazos disallowed a Peruvian score because a Peruvian player had committed a foul. A spectator jumped onto the field and ran toward Pazos.

Police dragged the man off, but other fans poured onto the field and Pazos exercised his right to call off the game. Rioting began.

"The police had to use tear gas because the water hoses didn't work," Pazos said.

A frenzied push for the exit gates began, but four of the seven at the north end of the stadium were still locked. Body upon body was crushed against the barriers. Those who fainted or stumbled were trampled. There were 328 dead and hundreds more injured — the sports world's greatest tragedy.

MOB KILLS POLICEMEN

Peruvian authorities disclosed Tuesday that three of the dead were policemen killed by the mob. Rioters strangled a sergeant with his own necktie. An officer who tried to save him was thrown from the stadium wall to his death 50 feet below. A third policeman was thrown into the path of stampeding spectators and was trampled.

Pazos said he couldn't understand why the stadium gates were closed.

"Fifteen minutes before the game was to end, the gates to the stadium were open," he said. "Then they were closed. This doesn't make sense."

In Lima, one explanation was that the gates were closed to keep out youths trying to see the game without paying. Others charged the gate attendants abandoned their positions to watch the game. The south gates to the stadium had been opened before the rush started, and there were no deaths or injuries there.

Pazos returned to Montevideo on the first plane Monday.

Pazos played soccer as a student and has been a referee for 13 years.

Crying as he talked, Pazos said: "I was correct in my call. There was no mistake. I called the game by the rules."

"An excellent referee, an all-around athlete, 100 per cent honest," said the Montevideo newspaper El Pais.

MALCOLM X
. . . spiritual rebirth

Malcolm X Turning Moderate?

CHICAGO (AP) — Malcolm X says he now rejects separation of the races as a goal for the Negro because of a "spiritual rebirth" in which he found a new kind of brotherhood.

"Separation is not the goal of the Afro-American," Malcolm told a mixed audience of 1,500 Saturday night. "Nor is integration his goal. They are merely methods toward his real end—respect and recognition as a human being."

Malcolm, who formed his own mosque in March after being suspended from the Black Muslims, said he experienced a "spiritual rebirth" during a five-week tour of the Middle East and Africa.

"I saw a spirit of unity and brotherhood between blue-eyed blondes and dark-skinned Negroes that I have never seen before," he said.

"In the past," he said, "I committed myself to the indictment of all whites. But no longer do I subscribe to a sweeping indictment of any race."

The Black Muslims, for which Malcolm was formerly a leading spokesman, is a religious sect seeking a separate homeland apart from white-dominated society.

Malcolm made the statements during a debate with Negro author Louis Lomax. The men agreed on the necessity for dignity and freedom for Negroes, but differed in their approaches to the civil rights movement.

H. Haskell Again Heads Arcanum

City postman Harold Haskell of 2317 Shakespeare Street has been re-elected regent of Majestic Council No. 1513, Royal Arcanum.

Other officers are Clive Watson, vice-regent; Ken Hancock, orator; Howard Patch, past regent; Harry Maddaford, secretary; James Stewart, collector; Bill Richardson, treasurer; Glen Twamley, guide; Robert O. Brown, warden; Floyd Cordick, sentry, and Bill Zwinger, trustee.

Send A Child To Camp

Musical artists will sing and dance Friday night at Oak Bay Junior High School so that some boys and girls may enjoy a two-week stay at Camp Thunderbird this summer.

Performing in the Camp Thunderbird Review will be soloists, Ruth Campion, Stan Martin and Billy Dyson. Accompanist will be Richard Proudman.

Other entertainers on the program will include the Varsity Singers under the direction of Rodney Webster, instrumental solos and dance routines.

Each year 10 per cent of the campers at the YM-YWCA camp in Sooke are sponsored by service clubs and private citizens. This year the camp committee is sponsoring the musical review to raise funds for more boys and girls.

Tickets for the concert are on sale now at the YM-YWCA. Show time is 8:15 p.m.

First Grads Make Token Gift to Uvic

A token gift of $300 will provide some early planting—perhaps a student grove — on Gordon Head campus, gift to the University of Victoria from its first graduates.

Within five years, if representatives of the class of '64 agree, the fund could swell to more than $8,000, to be used for a special project decided in 1969.

The first amount was given to university development board chairman H. B. Elworthy at a graduation luncheon. It will be used for part of the quadrangle landscaping program to be undertaken this summer.

STUDENT GROVE

Development manager Floyd Fairclough said it could be used to start a student grove, perhaps with fountain and seats that could give incentive to future classes to expand the theme.

Meanwhile, it is proposed that the 169 members of the 1964 class contribute a sum of money, annually for five years, placing it in trust for a more ambitious project.

The needs of the university at that time would be reviewed.

Not Guilty Plea Made

A man accused of the armed robbery of a bank pleaded not guilty when he appeared in Saanich court Monday.

William Clarence Kraft will stand trial next Tuesday before Magistrate William Ostler.

Two other men have already been convicted of the armed holdup of the Bank of Montreal at Cook and Quadra. Each of them was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment.

Students Fill Council Posts

DUNCAN—Cowichan Senior Secondary School student Colin Tassis was elected by acclamation as president of the student council for the 1964-65 school year.

Also elected to the executive were: Jim Piers, first vice-president; Dale Robertson, second vice-president; Barbara Kerrone, secretary; Joanne Altice, treasurer, and Diana Juriloff, house director.

'Make an Offer' Company Told

Failure of the company to make a proposal on salaries is the major factor preventing a settlement of the strike at MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River, Port Alberni, a union official said today.

Sixty striking members of the office workers' union walked out last week, and since then 3,000 members of five unions have honored the picket line.

'MUST KNOW'

Union international representative Bill Lowe said today: "In order to resolve this problem, the union must know the company's position regarding salary scales."

Mac-Powell, he said, told Mr. Peterson it could not make a definite proposal at this time, but would consider contacting the company's salary administration office.

Mr. Lowe said a company bulletin mailed to employees, and residents of the Alberni Valley incorrectly presented union stands on holidays, vacation, seniority and salaries.

"We had previously agreed to certain conditions of seniority, and are not asking for any changes to holidays and vacations," he said.

WRONG DATA

Salary-range information in the bulletin is "absoluely wrong," he said.

Mr. Lowe said union security was discussed at the Peterson meeting, but the company would not agree to any form of union security "commonly accepted by labor and industry in B.C."

He said the company representative "stated at this meeting that he is not inclined toward any form of union security whatsoever."

Mr. Lowe said the union regrets the decision to reject compulsory arbitration was necessary, but that it is not in the interests of members of trade unions.

SMOKING WAS FATAL

At one time, the smoking of tobacco was punishable by death in parts of Germany, Persia and Russia.

MADE MODERN INDIA

Nehru Blended His Ideas With Political

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Jawaharlal Nehru, only son of a wealthy family, gave up a life of ease for the hardships of resistance and prison to become the maker of modern India.

Mohandas Gandhi was the spirit behind the mass movement that swept India to independence in 1947 after partitioning of the huge subcontinent.

But it was Nehru, as the first prime minister, who had the difficult task of consolidating independence.

He lived not only to see his ideal become a reality, but also to mount India's destiny after independence.

After the 1947 partition of India, Nehru faced the triple task of consolidating the new-found unity inside India, adjusting the delicate relations with neighboring Moslem Pakistan, and building up India's foreign policy.

STATES MERGED

Millions of refugees were absorbed and resettled and the 570 Indian princely states were peacefully merged.

Abroad he mapped out firmly a middle course of friendly neutrality. Relations with Pakistan remained strained, mainly because of the Kashmir question, but trade and cultural exchanges were established.

Nehru was a paradox in himself. An idealist, with the mind of a scholar and a dreamer, he was at the same time a practical politician.

He was a republican and a socialist. Yet he approved of republican India staying in the Commonwealth and compromised with capitalism for the sake of peaceful progress toward the welfare state.

Though a Hindu by birth, and one who on occasion performed the rites demanded by orthodoxy, he was secular in his whole outlook.

WAS TOLERANT

Religious as well as racial intolerance were foreign to his nature, and Moslems, Sikhs and Christians alike had complete confidence in his fair handling of minorities.

His English education and upbringing made him Western in manner and often in outlook. "I have become a queer mixture of East and West," he wrote in his autobiography.

Athletic, fond of mountaineering and riding, he practised Yoga and until late in life used to stand on his head for a minute each day.

But illness last year aged him considerably and he no longer displayed the dashing vigor which formerly so distinguished him.

But Nehru continued to be dominant. And although his policy had drawn criticism, virtually no one could suggest an alternative to his leadership.

The criticism came from a somewhat disillusioned Indian intelligentsia who thought India should take a stronger stand over its border dispute with Communist China. But the critics concentrated on Nehru's cabinet colleagues instead of on him.

When independence from Britain was achieved, his popularity was such that he could have become India's dictator. But his whole ideology was rooted in the parliamentary and constitutional system.

The ruling Indian Congress Party owed more to him than to any other political leader who guided its destinies. To the peasant, congress was "Panditji's (Nehru's) party" and his vote was cast for "Panditji" alone.

FAMILY WEALTHY

Born in Allahabad, Nehru was the only son of a well-to-do Brahmin family. His father built up the family fortunes by success in law.

In 1905 the family sailed for England and the young Nehru, then 15, was sent to the English private school of Harrow. He later went to Cambridge where he became cox of Trinity College's rowing eight. He studied law in London and was called to the bar in 1912.

Returning to India, he soon became involved in the upsurge of national feeling. He met Gandhi in 1916 and his fate was decided.

He came into conflict with the British "Raj" and in 1922 got the first of nine prison sentences.

In 1938 he went to Spain during the civil war and wholeheartedly supported the Spanish republican cause. The following year he went to China and met Gen. Chiang Kai-shek.

OPPOSED FASCISM

Always an outspoken opponent of Fascism, he refused to exploit India's precarious position during the Second World War. His attitude, however, was that the war was not India's since she had not attained independence.

He and several Congress Party colleagues spent the three latter years of the war under detention. But to pave the way for independence an interim Indian government was formed in 1946 with Nehru as vice-president.

In August, 1947, Britain transferred power to India and Nehru became first prime minister of independent India. He remained in office continuously until his death.

Scarcely were the two new states of India and Pakistan established than hostilities broke out between them over Kashmir. The struggle lasted more than a year before a cease - fire line was established.

Nehru was responsible for a series of five-year plans for agricultural and industrial development.

VISITED CHOU

In 1954 he exchanged visits with Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, and together they proclaimed the "five principles of peaceful coexistence" which later became the base of India's foreign policy. But the 1962 Sino-Indian border conflict was a bitter blow to Nehru.

He condemned the Anglo-French action in the Suez Canal Zone in the fall of 1956. But he was criticized abroad in 1961 over his government's annexation of the Portuguese Indian territories of Goa, Daman and Diu.

Nehru's wife, Kamala, died nearly 30 years ago and his son survived only a week. Thus it has been his daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, who, together with her two sons, brought a touch of domesticity into his life.

There have been frequent reports Nehru wished to see his daughter, a widow, take over as his successor. A member of the Congress Party's high command, she served for a time as party president.

But the Indian prime minister never publicly indicated whom he favored as his successor.

Guardsman Shot

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—One National Guardsman was shot and three others were injured here Monday night in a new flareup between integrationist demonstrators and troops using bayonets and tear gas to disperse them.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second questior a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Sherida Ferrera, age 13, of Bellevue, Wash., for her question:

Which are the earth's oldest mountains?

Most mountain chains rise from long, shallow ditches and take ages to reach their full height. Meanwhile, wind and weather wear them down to their stubborn roots. Their life span covers millions of years, but the earth has been making and re-making her mountains for billions of years.

Earth scientists once thought that the world's oldest mountains were the gently rolling Laurentians of eastern Canada. Now they suspect that other mountains were a-building at the same time. At any rate, they have found fire-formed rocks of the same period in Europe and Africa, South America and Australia.

Igneous rocks formed by seething volcanoes give the clues to ancient mountain-making, even when the mountains themselves have been weathered and worn to ground level. As the earth lifts up in rocky ranges, stresses and strains in the crustal blocks cause rivers of molten lava to spill up from deep layers below. Where there are young mountains, there are sure to be volcanoes.

The Laurentians were formed in the Archeozoic Era of the earth's history which began some three billion years ago and lasted one billion years. Most rocky layers formed during that distant age now are buried deeply under a mile or more of newer rocks. Evidence is hard to find, and, what's more, the deep rocks have been crushed and changed by the weight of rocks above them.

Mountains Worn Down

However, the experts have enough evidence to suggest that the Archeozoic Era was a restless time of world-wide mountain-making. Its seething lavas formed vast domes of igneous rock called geological shields. Ridges in the shields were lofty mountain ranges long since buried or worn down to their rocky roots. The vast shields of igneous rock formed during the Archaezoic Era may be, we suspect, the sturdy platforms on which the present continents rest.

One of them is the Canadian Shield which centred around Hudson Bay. During the age-long period of unrest, its mountains rose to lofty heights, wore down and rose again six times. The Laurentians of Canada reached their full height sometime during these ancient times.

The Archeozoic Era is the oldest mountain-making period of which we have proof. It may be the first such period in the age-old history of the earth, but this is not likely. The earth is estimated to have had at least four and a half billion birthdays, and lofty ranges may have risen and fallen many times before the dawning of the restless Archeozoic Era.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Mary Ellen Beardmore, age 10 of Lansing, Mich., for her question:

Who were the Vikings?

At the dawn of modern history, parts of northern Europe were populated by the Norsemen. Most of them were blond people, sturdily built and sturdy in character. They loved the sea and took their fabulous ships on fabulous voyages far from home. Sometimes they found and settled new lands, and sometimes they traded with settled peoples as far away as the eastern Mediterranean. And sometimes, sad to say, they plundered and fled like pirates.

These sea rovers of the North were the Vikings. They lived in Scandinavia and Denmark, in Iceland and Greenland. About 1,000 years ago a band of Vikings captained by Leif Ericson reached America by sailing westward across the Atlantic. But the New World was not settled by men from Europe until Columbus rediscovered it some 500 years later.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—D'you realize that many married couples are being happy right now when they should be throwing ash-trays at each other?

"I ascribe the high American divorce rate," — says French psychiatrist Dr. Henri L. Vullard, after a tour of N.Y., Washington and Los Angeles— to married couples' failure to quarrel oftener . . ."

Wishing to be helpful, I've talked to everybody from con men to congressmen and drawn up some "instant bloodshed" conversation-openers that'll start the battling without fooling around.

"You know my husband—the man who has everything—but lost it," is one of my B.W.'s lines that get me started. Some others:

Husband to wife: "What work is your brother not doing now?"

Wife to husband on weekend: "Don't your home, children and wife interfere terribly with your golf nowadays?"

Husband: "Meet my wife who just returned from the Catskills with the award for obesity, and her mother, Miss Longevity of 1876."

A husband may also take his wife dancing at a romantic spot, time it carefully, and then snarl, "Oh, so you're leading again!"

When a husband says, "This is my new $300 suit," the wife should shriek, "You're Kidding!"

Fat Girl Comedienne Totie Fields at the Copacabana, tells me her husband, conductor George Johnston, was studying the curves of the Copa chorines, when she said to him, "I thought I was the apple of your eye."

"Yeah, but a guy likes a little fruit salad sometimes," he said.

But let's knock it off. My B.W. just called.

"You going to be working late at the office again?"

"I'm terribly afraid so, honey," I sighed.

Just before hanging up she said, "Is your office still at Toots Shor's?"

It's in the bag for Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton to film "Sands of Kalahari" in Africa starting in September, with Burton's Welsh pal, Stanley Baker, producing and Joe Levine bankrolling. Then they'll do "Anne of the Thousand Days" for Hal Wallis. Liz is ready to work again.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: They tell of the book reviewer whose wife was kidnapped. He got a ransom note, read it, and sent it back with a rejection slip.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A tourist described his World's Fair map: "That's a piece of paper to help you get lost."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "God made woman beautiful so man would love her; then He made her foolish so she would love man."—Anon.

EARL'S PEARLS: You know how important movies have become to passenger flights? The other day they grounded a plane because of a bad projector.

That's earl, brother.

Egypt, Iraq to Unite

CAIRO (UPI)—Egypt and Iraq, in a surprise move designed to prepare for future union, Tuesday signed an agreement to create a joint military command and presidential council.

CNIB Superintendent In B.C. Resigns Post

VANCOUVER (CP) — Capt. Merrill C. Robinson, blind since he was hit by shrapnel in the First World War at the age of 18, announced his retirement Monday from the Canadian Institute for the Blind. Capt. Merrill will relinquish his post as superintendent of the British Columbia branch July 31, he told the annual meeting.

LATE NIGHT READINGS

U.K. Radio Pirate To Air Fanny Hill

LONDON (AP)—Screaming Lord Sutch, 22-year-old pop singer with a group called the Savages, sailed into Britain's pirate radio war Monday with a copy of Fanny Hill.

Wearing a purple buccaneer cloak and brandishing a cutlass, his screaming lordship boarded a 60-foot fishing boat and announced plans to anchor outside territorial waters and beam his scream back to the British.

His boat will join two pirate ships, Radio Caroline and Radio Atlanta, all trying to break the BBC's radio monopoly.

Caroline and Atlanta are in it for the advertising. Screaming Lord Sutch — real name Dave Sutch — said however that he will not take ads.

"There are thousands of talented youngsters in Britain all waiting for a chance," he said.

"Radio Sutch will give them a break. And if only one group really clicks, then I'm in business as a manager."

Sutch said he plans to start broadcasting today with his own group to provide the core of programs. He plans three daily transmissions totalling seven hours.

The late night transmission, he said, will include bedtime stories—readings from Lady Chatterley's Lover and Fanny Hill.

19-Cent Boost Railway Plan

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — A four-stage wage increase amounting to 10.1 cents an hour over a two-year contract was proposed today for 100,000 Canadian railway workers.

CUNNINGHAM . . . retires at 72.

The wage increase for the non - operating railway work force was put forward by Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe of Vancouver and David Lewis of Toronto in a majority conciliation board report made public today.

Gordon Cooper of Halifax, railway nominee on the federal conciliation board, filed a dissenting report that proposed a four-step pay boost amounting to about 12 cents an hour over the two-year contract.

Cost to the railways of granting the conciliation board recommendation is expected to be more than $50,000,000 over the life of the contract, which would expire Dec. 31, 1965. This figure includes the cost of extending the increase to other railway workers.

NOT BINDING

Specific proposals of the majority report, which is not binding on either the railways or the 15 unions representing the "non-op" work force:

—A six-cent hourly boost retroactive to Jan. 1, 1964.
—A further three cents an hour as of July 1, 1964.
—Another two per cent effective Jan. 1, 1965, estimated unofficially as the equivalent of four cents an hour.
—A final three per cent at July 1, 1965, estimated to be worth 6.1 cents an hour.

BOOSTS INSURANCE

The majority report also proposed a $10 increase to $50 in the weekly indemnity under the health and welfare plan in the railways, plus a $500 boost to $1,500 in life insurance for each participating employee.

Mr. Cooper backed the recommendations in the majority report on health and welfare benefits, but submitted a counter-proposal for wage increases that called for:

—Three cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 1, 1964.
—Another three cents an hour at July 1, 1964.
—One per cent next Jan. 1.
—A further two per cent as of July 1, 1965.

His wage proposals are understood to work out to about 12 cents an hour at the end of the contract compared with the 19.1 cents an hour recommended in the majority report.

CUNNINGHAM

Inspector Swaps Code For Hammer

By MARGE GILROY

Oak Bay building inspector for the past 19 years, Ken Cunningham, is prepared to lay down the building code and pick up a hammer and saw.

Mr. Cunningham, who is 72, said, "I may live to be 100 if I quit now, but if I don't I may not make 80."

After a total of 25 years with the municipality, he foresees the development of many more high-rise apartments in Oak Bay during the next 10 years.

"It is the only way to keep Oak Bay going," he said.

But apartment living is not for Mr. Cunningham. He prefers to spend his days gardening in the out-of-doors. He also will pick up his carpentry tools once again.

INSIDE WORK

Before joining the municipal staff, Mr. Cunningham tried his hand at farming, school teaching and carpentry. He gave up teaching because there was too much inside work. Only on the condition that he could spend half his time outside did he take on the job of building inspector.

By the time Mr. Cunningham retires at the end of the June, he expects Oak Bay to have adopted the National Building Code. Oak Bay, which now operates under a municipal code, is the last of the municipalities in the Greater Victoria area to adopt the national code.

With adoption of the new code there will be more restrictive fire regulations and Oak Bay will continue to demand that all apartment buildings be built of concrete. Regulations governing the construction of three-storey frame buildings will be deleted, he said.

WOULDN'T LOOK

National Housing Act regulations were so inadequate in 1953 Oak Bay wouldn't even look at them, said Mr. Cunningham. Instead Oak Bay adopted an amended city code.

The NHA has since been improved, he said.

Although the finishing work in older homes was much better years ago, Mr. Cunningham said today's houses are basically built better than 25 years ago.

Exits, basements and concrete structure, he said, have been much improved.

But whereas carpentry used to be the pride of a fine craftsman, Mr. Cunningham said the biggest aim now is to make money. And with carpenters costing $23 a day they have to hurry the work.

Nowadays, he said, "you can walk into a new home and the doors are not even hung properly."

Bootlegger Pays Fines Of $1,000

A woman bootlegger wrote a $1,000 cheque Monday and escaped a jail sentence.

She was Mary Tarko, 732 Kings Road, who was convicted on two charges.

The first time police raided her place they found a combo playing in the kitchen while patrons danced in the living room. They also found 26 dozen beer, 10 bottles of wine, three of rum, two of gin and two of rye.

A month later police again raided her establishment and seized two bottles of wine, nine dozen beer, four bottles of rum and three of rye.

Magistrate William Ostler said it was outrageous she continued operations after having been closed down once. He fined her $300 on the first charge and $700 on the second.

'Rights' Foe Nominated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats nominated a strong foe of the civil rights bill for governor of Florida Tuesday and pulled the carpet from under incumbent J. Howard Edmondson's bid for the U.S. Senate nomination in Oklahoma.

Jacksonville Mayor Haydon Burns rode the civil rights issue to the Democratic governorship nomination—and almost certain victory in November — over Miami's Mayor Robert King High, who described himself as a racial moderate.

Anglican Clergymen Back Birth Control

TORONTO (CP)—Delegates to the annual Anglican synod of the Toronto diocese Tuesday were asked to support the drive to make birth control legal.

The unscheduled resolution was placed before the synod by Rt. Rev. H. R. Hunt, Suffragan bishop of the diocese, and Ven. E. R. Bagley, archdeacon of Toronto East.

The clergymen are calling for the endorsement of a private bill now before the House of Commons which would remove the present ban on the sale of contraceptives and distribution of birth control information.

The motion will be debated by the synod today.

Bishop Hunt described the section as discriminatory. It classifies as a criminal offence the sale or advertising of conception control methods.

In his charge to the synod Tuesday, Rt. Rev. F. H. Wilkinson, bishop of Toronto, said the ecumenical movement could play a positive role in uniting Canadians.

Bishop Wilkinson said the ecumenical movement "could be a positive factor in the bicultural situation in this country." The movement could play a major part, not only in church unity, but also in increasing unity among "the people of this Dominion."

New Flag Unfurled

Now It's Official! 3 Leaves, Bars

By STEWART MacLEOD

The government today unveiled the design it will ask Parliament to approve as the official flag of Canada, and at the same time it was revealed parliamentary approval will also be sought to make O Canada the national anthem of Canada.

A colored reproduction of the proposed flag was distributed to members of Parliament and the Press Gallery today, six days after the design was approved by cabinet.

Prime Minister Pearson and several cabinet ministers were known to have favored the design and its selection had been predicted.

GEORGE V EMBLEM

A notice of motion appearing on today's Commons order paper says:

"That the government be authorized to take such steps as may be necessary to establish officially as the flag of Canada, a flag embodying the emblem proclaimed by His Majesty King George V on Nov. 21, 1921—three maple leaves conjoined on one stem—in the colors red and white then designated for Canada, the red leaves occupying a field of white between vertical sections of blue on the edges of the flag and also to provide that the Royal Union Flag, generally known as the Union Jack, may continue to be flown as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth of nations and of our allegiance to the Crown."

'THE QUEEN'

Under it was a second notice of motion:

"That the government be authorized to take such steps as may be necessary to provide that O Canada shall be the national anthem of Canada and that God Save the Queen shall be recognized as the royal anthem in Canada."

The proposed flag was among three designs shown to the press on two previous occasions by the prime minister's office.

The other two under consideration included one similar to the design selected, except it had no blue bars, and the other had three red maple leaves on a solid blue background.

SECRET KEPT

Since the decision was made, the 25 cabinet ministers and the half-dozen others who knew the choice have been sworn to secrecy, and despite daily prodding in the Commons there was no official indication of what design would be proposed.

The manner in which the resolution was presented meant it would go through only one debating stage, as opposed to four stages in the Commons for ordinary legislation and five for money bills.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker got his first look at the design from a copy handed him by a reporter. He said he had no immediate comment.

Some Conservative backbenchers said Tuesday night a filibuster is likely when the issue

JAWAHARLAL NEHRU

'Light Is Out' As India Mourns Nehru

(Times News Services)

NEW DELHI—Jawaharlal Nehru, builder of modern India and its prime minister since independence in 1947, died from a stroke at his home here today. He was 74.

(See also Page 42).

Shortly after the death of the leader of India's 470,000,000 people, a new acting prime minister was sworn in by President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan. He is Gulzarilal Nanda, home minister at the time of Nehru's death and senior government cabinet minister.

The acting premier will hold office until the ruling Congress parliamentary party meets to elect a new leader, who will become prime minister.

Nanda, a man with a reputation of getting things done, was one of the officials who broke the news to Parliament that Nehru was taken ill suddenly.

Before Nanda's swearing-in, it had been announced that his appointment as prime minister would be temporary.

"I have grave news to announce to the House and the country," Minister of Steel C. Subramaniam told the lower house of Parliament. "The prime minister is no more. The light is out."

DIED AT 2 P.M.

Nehru was stricken at 6:25 a.m., shortly after he got up at his usual hour. He died at 2 p.m., seven hours and 35 minutes later.

Eight doctors, including a brain specialist, tried to save him. The Associated Press

CAST OF 1,400

Peace Damsite Spectacular Tourist Bait

By FRANK RUTTER

PORTAGE MOUNTAIN—Man has changed the course of nature here to create a tourist spectacular unequalled anywhere in B.C. this summer.

A cast of 1,400 performs daily in a 3,000-foot arena scooped out of the bottom of the mighty Peace River.

Some of them do the show beneath floodlights through the night.

Their stage—the floor of the craggy Peace River Canyon—less than a year ago was beneath the fast-flowing brown river.

Now the water speeds through the centre of Portage Mountain, diverted by three huge concrete tunnels each the width of a four-lane highway.

And now the shape of the giant Peace River power project is gradually unfolding.

You can watch it all summer from vantage points high on either side of the canyon—so high that the men look like dolls, and their huge machines like toys.

And yet these observation posts nearly 600 feet above the river will be under water when the dam is finished in 1968.

B.C. Hydro is making tourist business a byproduct of its $680,000,000 power project, and already the transportation companies are taking advantage of it.

One busline offers a week-long tour of the Peace River country and Cariboo for $138 from Victoria.

'Chinese Teahouse' Offers View

Hydro has built a tourist lookout, known locally as the Chinese Teahouse, on stilts high above the project. It offers a panoramic view and inside, along with refreshments, you can watch the work below on closed circuit television. When you leave, you get an orange bumper sticker which proclaims "I have seen the Peace power project."

You can get to the project quite easily either by road or plane, landing on a gravelly Hudson Hope strip or more comfortably at Fort St. John, a 60-mile drive away to the east.

And when you get there it's a lot more than a big hole in the ground.

At present there are two main sights: the site of the dam itself on the riverbed, and a fantastic three-mile conveyor belt being built to carry 60,000,000 cubic yards of fill for the dam from a mountainous glacial deposit.

On the riverbed, blocked off by a 150-foot high coffer dam, huge cats are starting to smooth and compact the first loads of fill—taken from the bed itself.

On the left bank a layer of gunnite—cement and sand—is being hosed onto the rockbed to provide a seal for the core of the dam.

In the centre a 20-foot square concrete-lined trench has been punched through the ground. Here workmen will drill a curtain of grout, sealing the underneath of the dam as deep as 350 feet to prevent seepage.

Across the hillside opposite Portage Mountain runs the conveyor belt to the moraine which will eventually be transformed into a dam 600 feet high, 1,500 feet long and half a mile thick.

The belt, longest of its kind in the world, will carry rock, gravel and sand at 11 mph to three towering steel processing plants and then to a dump at river level.

100-Ton Truckload Each 35 Seconds

There 100-ton trucks will catch the fill at the rate of one truck every 35 seconds and carry it to its exact position on the dam.

This work will start in July.

The belt, driven by electric motors, is an engineering marvel.

Made of rubber with steel cables through the core, it runs on steel rollers, straight as a die across the hills.

Being built by a Vancouver firm, it is based on a patented German design, and a German foreman is supervising the project.

Trickiest part is splicing together 1,100-foot lengths of the rubber. It takes a day for each splice.

The belt and processing plants will cost $11,000,000 and when the project is finished the lot will be sold for scrap.

Main processing plant is five storeys high—all steel.

The plants will screen the material from the moraine into the various grades required for different sections of the dam—a fine impervious layer for the core, gradually thicker layers of gravel for the body, and heavier gravel and rock for the shell.

BALLOT COUNT on flag issue is supervised in Times office by secretary Elsie Edwards. Returns this week have run to more than 700 letters a day.

3,000 BALLOTS

Red Ensign Scores Runaway Victory

Nearly 3,000 Times readers have now expressed their preference between the Red Ensign and the new Canadian maple leaf flag design, which was officially disclosed in Ottawa today.

The design follows very closely the unofficial sketches carried earlier in newspapers.

But, it would seem, if the Times ballot can be regarded as a good sampling, that Victorians who have decided views on the flag favor the Red Ensign much better than two to one.

The latest count is:
Red Ensign 2,071.
Maple leaf 733.

The trend has been the same since the returns started coming in on Saturday. The ballot is discontinued today since it appears to have established what the feeling is.

Once again in today's mail there were dozens of letters accompanying the ballots.

Quite a number express deep feelings about fathers and sons who fought under the Red Ensign, and some who died.

Others are quite vigorous in their demand for an entirely new Canadian flag.

Some who like the maple leaf design would have one leaf instead of three.

Among those pulling for the Red Ensign some suggested the inclusion of a single maple leaf in the fly.

And several in both groups suggest a national plebiscite on the issue.

Ensign 2-1 In Edmonton

The Edmonton Journal, which is taking a newspaper poll on the flags reported a count today of 2,042 for the Red Ensign, 1,082 for new flag.

First returns in a Toronto Telegram poll were 1,150 to 289 for the Red Ensign.

Dief Sneers, Douglas Backs Maple Leaves

Although Opposition Leader Diefenbaker declined immediate formal comment, he remarked as he looked at the picture of the design and turned it around: "It doesn't make much difference either way."

A number of Conservative backbenchers re-affirmed their intention to fight the government's flag resolution into a general election, if possible.

New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas said he will support the proposed flag, but would have preferred one maple leaf on it instead of three.

PREFERRED ONE

"It's what we expected," Mr. Douglas said.

"I think I would have preferred a single maple leaf but I understand the background and significance of the three maple leaves as the national emblem chosen in 1921.

"Anyone with my Scottish background would, of course, like to see the Union Jack and the fleur-de-lis continued, but I recognize there are 5,000,000 Canadians who have neither a British nor a French background and we have to consider, too, the young people—of whom there are increasing numbers coming along—who don't feel any deep attraction to either Britain or France.

"I will support this design. One maple leaf might have been more distinguishable, from

WIRE BRIEFS

Congo Rebels Gain

ELISABETHVILLE, Congo (UPI) — Communist-backed Congolese rebel forces stabbed down the western shore of Lake Tanganyika today and captured the air field at the important town of Albertville in northern Katanga.

Forest Fire Erupts

LIVERPOOL, N.S. (UPI) — A major forest fire today crackled out of control through heavy spruce and pine in the Nova Scotia interior west of this South Shore pulp centre.

Flaherty Improves

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The condition of former convict Joseph A. Flaherty, 41, struck by an automobile May 22, was reported good today in Quincy City Hospital.

Arms Smugglers Held

NICOSIA (AP) — The Greek-Cypriot minister told a press conference today police have arrested a British airman and his wife for allegedly smuggling arms and acting as a courier for "Turkish - Cypriot insurgents" on Cyprus.

'Liberate the North'

Viet Platoon Wiped Out

SAIGON (AP)—The death toll of South Vietnamese troops in a Communist guerrilla ambush only 20 miles north of Saigon was 20 killed and eight missing, U.S. military sources said today.

That meant only two of the 30 men in the platoon that set out Tuesday to guard the road came back alive.

First Treaty Signed Between U.S., Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today an historic consular treaty with the Soviet Union and termed the event "a significant step" in building understanding between the American and Soviet peoples.

The treaty, announced simultaneously in Washington and Moscow, will provide for the opening of consular offices in the two countries. It is the first treaty ever negotiated between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Johnson, citing the advantages which he expects the U.S. to receive as a result of the agreement, said that when the treaty takes effect "Americans detained in the Soviet Union for any reasons will be assured of access without delay to American consular officials."

George Reedy, White House press secretary, was asked whether this would apply to any Americans who might be arrested on espionage charges.

"The statement says 'for any reasons'," Reedy replied.

Johnson said the agreement, which must be ratified by the Senate before it can take effect, will be signed in Moscow June 1.

'Guided India With Wisdom' —Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today the loss of Prime Minister Nehru of India will be felt by all who hope for peaceful progress in the world and for good relations among men.

He said in a statement:

"I had the great privilege of enjoying Mr. Nehru's friendship over many years. I learned to appreciate his deep and far-sighted wisdom, his strength and moderation, his devotion to freedom for nations and individuals. He had a deep respect also for law and for order; he had conquered prejudice and contained passion.

"He is rightly regarded as the architect of his country's independence and he guided India with skill and dedication in the early and critical years of its national existence.

"No man has made a greater impact on his time. He will be sorely missed by his countrymen. His loss will also be felt by all who hope for peaceful progress in the world and for good relations between men of all races and colors and creeds."

FOE PAYS TRIBUTE

'Champion of Liberty'

Times News Services

The death of Prime Minister Nehru of India shocked the capitals of the world today. Tributes poured forth from friend and foe alike.

Perhaps the most moving scene came at Geneva, where the delegate of Pakistan, a nation that once fought India and had no use for Nehru, rose to address the United Nations world trade and development conference.

His voice breaking with emotion, Pakistani delegate Habibur Rahman declared:

"He was a champion of liberty and freedom throughout the world and played a dominant role in the struggle for the independence of the Indian subcontinent. Pakistan joins with all its heart in the condolences offered to the Indian delegation and the Indian people."

In Moscow, Soviet Premier Khrushchev went to the Indian Embassy and stood for a minute in silence before a portrait of Nehru.

Khrushchev, accompanied by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and First Deputy Premier Alexi Kosygin, then signed the Book of Condolences, writing simply his name and the date.

He told Indian Ambassador T. N. Kaul that Kosygin would fly to India tonight with a party of officials to attend the funeral Thursday.

In Washington, President Johnson said the world has lost a leader who served all humanity in "fearless pursuit of a world free from war."

Paying tribute to the Indian leader as "a great and beloved man," Johnson said in a statement that there could be no more fitting memorial to Nehru than a world at peace.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk left immediately to attend the funeral.

In Britain, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home and Lord Mountbatten, chief of the armed forces, announced that they would fly to India this afternoon to attend his funeral. Douglas-Home will represent the British

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1964—PAGE 13

Arthur Mayse

We were weeding a border, one of this spring's rare sunshiny afternoons, when a sense of being watched made me glance around. A black Labrador retriever stood on the lawn, tail gently wagging.

Such amiable company was part of our life once. But not for a long time . . . a year, almost now . . . had we looked up to find a black Lab watching us.

She stayed, this other dog who used to be our dog's friend, until it became plain that Paddy wouldn't amble up from the wildlands or loaf around from the house. Then she trotted off in the direction of the cove, to wade the shallows and chase the gulls alone.

Win returned to her struggle with the stubborn couch-grass. She didn't speak, nor did I. Death is absolute: where love and tears have failed, how can words prevail?

Paddy was my good friend. But he gave his heart into Win's keeping on the day they met; and through eleven years, he was her dog.

The name that went with his papers and noseprint was Mossbank's Westerly Pat.

Tom Moss set him in Win's arms when he was not quite four months old. It was a cool autumn evening. Win opened her coat, and with reckless disregard for consequences, nestled him in it. His tongue dabbed at her chin, and she said to him, "Hey, Paddy!"

That was the start of it. From that day, unless prevented by some circumstance he couldn't cope with, Paddy was never away from her for more than an hour or two.

He slept where she could drop a hand on his head, and trip over him when she groped drowsily into each new day. This concession he won by sheer persistence, coupled with winning wiles familiar to anyone who owns—or more accurately, is owned by — a Labrador retriever.

He was a zealous and constant fetcher of gifts. Even this long after, we find it strange never to be wakened by a shoe or book dropped on the face—not to blink up into brown eyes that beg us to stop wasting a fine morning.

Sometimes he would decide that Win had been housebound too long. He would take her wrist in jaws that could crush a beef bone, but softly, and lead her outdoors.

Always, he was happiest when he could lure her to the beach. But he would settle for gardening, content to tag after her as if he were still a pup, and not grown to the heavy-boned 85 pounds of his working breed. He fetched and he carried, a more willing helper than certain children who claim an allergy to Gordon Head's too - fruitful soil.

We showed Paddy once. He behaved like a gentleman and came away with a ribbon of which we were fatuously proud. Mostly, though, he lived our casual family life. He rode in our car with muzzle poked out of a window to test each passing scent, and fussed when we had to leave him behind.

The urge to retrieve was in his blood, and water his second element. I can see him still, hitting the cove flat out, lunging web-footed toward the thrown stick, turning with a sweep of his otter tail to forge in to the shingle. Then back to us with his prize, at the wonderful Labrador gallop.

And always, good friend though he was to the rest of us, he remained Win's dog.

Once when he was still young, he trapped his foot cruelly under a floor-level cupboard. Win kneeled by him where he struggled. He whimpered, and nudged her hand while she worked to free him. But not even in pain and tenor did not snap at her.

Sometime, I know, we will find a new dog, committing ourselves to another few years of love, loyalty, and inevitable grief. But that black Lab will not eat from Paddy's bowl, or wear his collar.

FLAG-CONSCIOUS painter Harold Wilson, 4215 Cedar Hill Road, chose a novel way to let everyone know he likes to see the Union Jack preserved in Canada's flag. Careful use of the lawn mower keeps the question before the neighborhood. But how does he observe tradition that flag never touches the ground? And it could all turn out wrong if there are any maple trees shedding in area.

Bus Study Ordered By Cities

Mayor R. B. Wilson today said a closed meeting earlier this week of Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver represenatives agreed to preliminary study of the possible financial consequences of B.C. Hydro transit operations being turned over to the municipalities."

He was commenting on a statement Vancouver Mayor Bill Rathie to his council that the nine municipalities represented at the meeting in Imperial Hotel here agreed to block any move by the B.C. government to dump the buses on the municipalities.

"Our purpose in making these investigations is to avoid having to take over public transit," he said.

MORE GUARDED

Mayor Wilson's statement was much more guarded.

"All I agreed to—and I will still have to make my report to city council because it will make the final decision—was to have a preliminary study made of the transit system economics and related matters," he said.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett has several times indicated he wants the municipalities to take the money-losing operation off his hands when the B.C. Hydro bus franchise expires in 1967.

There were indications that one of the items to be studied by the united municipalities would be the present situation in which B.C. Hydro electricity revenues subsidize the bus operations.

UNFAIR

Premier Bennett is expected to say he won't give up the power distribution rights here and in Vancouver along with the buses because that wouldn't be fair to the rest of the power consumers in the province.

The municipalities are likely to shoot back that if B.C. power consumers should not have to subsidize Victoria and Vancouver buses, it was equally true that Victoria and Vancouver power consumers should not have to subsidize the rest of the province's consumers.

Research is expected to prove that high rates here and on lower mainland for power are being used to keep rates down in the rest of the province and even to help build the Peace River power complex.

Mrs. Emma Spink
. . . 95 Thursday

'Nowhere Like Victoria'

Victoria is the only place in Canada to live, says Mrs. Emma H. Spink, who will be 95 on Thursday.

"I came here with my husband in 1910 and I've been here ever since—there's nowhere like it."

Born in London, England, Mrs. Spink was brought to Canada by her parents when she was three months old and, except for a 20-year stay in New York, she has always lived in Canada.

'GREAT COUNTRY'

"It's a great country and a country with a future," said the cheerful soft-spoken old lady, interviewed in her room at Rose Manor, 857 McClure Street, where she has resided for 18 years.

Mrs. Spink is also the oldest living member of Victoria Seventh-day Adventist Church. She is the widow of Frank W. Spink who died here just 29 years ago.

'GOOD LIFE HERE'

"My husband travelled all over Canada," she said, "but he never wanted to live anywhere else but Victoria. We had a good life here."

Mrs. Spink recalled standing near the City Hall on New York's Wall Street when the church bells rang in the 20th century.

"So much has happened since then, I wonder how I can have lived through it all."

SIGHTLESS

Mrs. Spink has been sightless for the past 18 years and spends much of her time listening to the radio. She has a special liking for the CBC programs but listens to local stations when they broadcast "good music."

"I don't much care for this rock 'n' roll craze," she said. "The classics are more in my line."

No special celebration is planned for Mrs. Spink's 95th birthday but many friends are expected to call.

(See Page 41)

Many employees of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River with grievances against the company are pressing for picket lines at Harmac, near Nanaimo, and Powell River, a union spokesman said today.

Port Alberni office workers' union business agent Doug Gibson said extra picket lines are not being considered at present, but it could happen.

"We're being pressured by people, many of them with grievances against the company in Nanaimo and Powell River."

LEGAL ADVICE

Mr. Gibson said legal advice would be sought before any extra lines were set up.

He said he could not give any interpretation to a warning by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson that "strong disapproval" would be registered in the event of a strike-spread.

Mr. Peterson is in Vancouver and could not be reached for clarification.

Sixty members of the office employees union have been on strike at Mac-Powell in the Alberni Valley for a week, idling 3,000 workers who honored the picket line.

Northland Takes Over Barge Firm

Formal announcement of change of ownership of Vancouver Barge Transportation Ltd. is to be made here later today.

The firm will be taken over by Northland Navigation Company Ltd. June 1. Formalities were to take place at Empress Hotel at 5 p.m. at a gathering of officials headed by Capt. H. J. C. Terry, president of Northland.

Vancouver Barge was taken over by Vancouver Tug Boat Co. Ltd. a year ago from J. M. Lindsay and Associates.

The barge company operates scheduled freight services between Vancouver and Victoria, Nanaimo, Courtenay, Campbell River, Powell River and Vananda. The deal will permit Northland to move into the lower Gulf region, after confining itself to more northern areas for years.

A Vancouver source says Vancouver Barge was founded 40 years ago by the late Archie McGillis under the name Vancouver - Courtenay Transportation Co. It then employed two former rum-runners, the Etta Mac and Trucilla.

Under the new arrangement Northland will take over terminal facilities at the foot of Rogers Street in Vancouver and on Wharf Street here as well as control of eight cargo barges. Northland expects to employ its own tug Hecate Prince and tugs charted from Vancouver Tug Boat Co. An official said no immediate change in service or policy is anticipated.

SAANICH

Police Force Promotions Announced

A new detective-sergeant and three new uniformed sergeants have been appointed as the first stage in the re-organization of Saanich police force.

Chief W. A. Pearson announced today that Detective Robin Stewart has been promoted to sergeant in succession to Det.-Sgt. Joseph Armstrong, recently appointed as deputy chief in succession to John Hamilton.

He said Det.-Sgt.-designate Stewart will be in charge of the five-man detective branch. An earlier proposal to appoint a detective inspector has been shelved, the chief said.

Det. Stewart will assume his new rank June 1 as will the other appointees. He is 41 and joined the Saanich force in 1950.

UNIFORMED BRANCH

The three new uniformed sergeants are Corporals Robert Coleman, Frank Briers and Robert Peterson. Cpl. Coleman joined the force in 1946 and is 40 years old, Cpl. Briers joined in 1954 and is 43 years old, and Cpl. Peterson joined in 1953 and is 35 years old.

Saanich is a 36-man force including five civilian employees and two constables who will be taken on strength. Chief Pearson said further changes may be announced after the next police commission meeting June 16.

The new appointments were made on the basis of "ability and seniority," said Reeve Stanley Murphy. All are dependent on the men passing a routine physical examination and will be probationary for six months.

NEW COMANDER of HMCS New Glasgow, ex-frigate of Pacific command's ocean escort squadron, is Lieut.-Cmdr. O. J. A. Cavenagh, 39, of Victoria and Vancouver. Until recently he was operations staff officer at Atlantic command, Halifax. Lieut.-Cmdr. Cavenagh entered the navy in 1944, a graduate of Royal Roads, trained in the Royal Navy, served in Haida and became a navigation specialist.

Sun Thursday But Showers On the Way

Sun bathers can look forward to another day on the beach, but on the weekend they may find themselves dodging between sun shades and umbrellas

As a storm to the south and a storm to the northwest moves closer to Victoria, weatherman Bill Mackie said Victoria can expect some periods of cloudiness and possibly scattered showers

Thursday should be mainly sunny after morning clouds from the southern storm have moved out of the area. Westerly winds of 15 m.p.h. will bring cooler air but temperatures are expected to stay in the 60- to 70-degree range.

By Friday clouds from the northwest storm should be approaching Victoria and the general outlook for the weekend is cooler weather with cloudy periods and scattered showers.

Tuesday, temperatures of 66 to 69 degrees were recorded, changing the trend from below normal to above normal. Normal temperature for the same day is 63 degrees.

Low temperatures are still in the below-normal range as the thermometer keeps dropping into the low 40s each night. Normal low for this time of year is 48 degrees and Monday morning a low of 32 was recorded.

Distinctive Flag Tops Student Poll

A Victoria High School teacher has polled five classes on their flag preferences with topsy-turvy results.

The 140 students voted five to three for a distinctive new Canadian flag rather than retention of the Red Ensign.

But the same group voted five to three to retain the Red Ensign rather than adopt the maple leaf design being put forward by Prime Minister Pearson"s government.

UNITY SYMBOLS

The teacher, who asked to remain anonymous, said the students appeared to prefer a flag containing wider use of unity symbols—such as 10 small maple leafs, or the crests of the 10 provinces.

The same questions tried on six classes at Oak Bay High School showed almost five to one favored a distinctive new flag and almost three to one favored a maple leaf design over the red ensign.

Another school official noted that high school literature in B.C. is not without some partisan essays on a new flag.

HAIG-BROWN PLEA

In 1952 he wrote in support of "the triple scarlet maple leaves of the Second World War."

He added, "Let it be against a white ground, for the snow we are no longer too proud to admit, and for my country's innocence."

Uvic Graduate To Spend Year At French School

Valerie Mary Hall, 22, learned the morning after graduating from University of Victoria that she will spend the next year in France.

The major in French and Latin won a French government teaching assistantship at Ecole Normale d'Institutrices at Rennes, where she arrives in September.

It means she will teach English for two hours daily and have time to further her own studies in French and Latin, in which she will probably take a master's degree after returning to Victoria.

She lives at 1857 Crescent with her mother, Mrs. E. C. Hall.

15 Die, No Inquests

April report of the city police department to Victoria police commission this morning showed there had been police inquiries into 15 sudden deaths last month. No inquests were held by the coroner.

FUN TODAY, BUSINESS THURSDAY

Lions Cram Empress Den

Delegates of Lions Club district 19 rolled into the Empress Hotel in their hundreds today to register for the 43rd annual convention.

By noon, over half the expected 1,600 visitors, from British Columbia, Washington and Idaho had arrived.

More than 30 hosts from the four local clubs expected to be kept busy all this afternoon and Thursday morning with registrations.

Meanwhile, many delegates and their wives took advantage of the warm, sunny weather to see Victoria or to watch the Lions Golf Tournament at Royal Colwood Golf Club.

Main business will begin on Thursday with the opening of the general session in the Empress at 8:30 a.m.

There to welcome delegates will be Mayor Richard B. Wilson.

The convention ends Saturday.

Ask The Times

Q.—What causes condensation on windows throughout the house and can anything be done about it? F.P.

A. — Condensation forms when warm moist air comes into contact with a cold surface, such as glass. This can be avoided by providing adequate ventilation in rooms where condensation occurs.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Despite the airing of industry linen in public, the Emmy Award show went off smoothly Monday.

There was no real cause for NBC-TV to carry on tasteless attacks on rival networks ABC and CBS. The two networks boycotted the show because they want to see a revamping of the categorizing and nominating procedures of the Emmy system of awards.

Stephen

They are not alone. Many people in the industry want to see something done to improve the present set-up. The very heavy-handed and crude attacks by NBC-TV artists during the ceremonies just slipped the network down a notch in the opinion of the viewing public. The banality of the material of That Was the Week That Was was too much to take.

Ironically, CBS-TV, one of the boycotting networks, received the most Emmys, 13, with the Danny Kaye and Dick Van Dyke shows, and The Defenders series, walking off with most of them.

By another irony, ABC-TV, the other boycotter, won the Program-of-the-Year award for the excellent "The Making of the President, 1960," a documentary about the late President Kennedy's election campaign.

The ceremonies were hosted in Hollywood by Joey Bishop and in New York by E. G. Marshall.

Bishop set the scene, which he referred to as "the greatest fight of the century," with his crack: "Well, I guess we're going through with it." The remark referred, of course, to CBS and ABC allegations that voting and classifications for the awards are illogical and unfair.

In his speech before the awards were presented, Academy president Mort Werner explained the voting and predicted: "There will always be disagreement but out of disagreement will come progress. Even though Emmy's feathers are ruffled, she will continue to fly."

The NBC Huntley-Brinkley report scored its sixth straight victory in the news reporting field.

In fact, NBC made it a shutout in the news division by winning another Emmy for best achievement in news commentary or public affairs with three white-paper programs—"Cuba . . . Parts One and Two," "The Bay of Pigs" and "The Missile Crisis."

Television's two top-rated series, "The Beverly Hillbillies" and "Bonanza," did not get recognition of any sort.

Though CBS and ABC boycotted the Emmy show, the stars of shows seen regularly on the two networks were very much in evidence as cameras panned the audiences in New York and Hollywood.

The awards mean a great deal to the winners and fears that the stars would not turn out proved groundless.

Nehru Blended His Ideals With Politics

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Jawaharlal Nehru, only son of a wealthy family, gave up a life of ease for the hardships of resistance and prison to become the maker of modern India.

Mohandas Gandhi was the spirit behind the mass movement that swept India to independence in 1947 after partitioning of the huge subcontinent.

But it was Nehru, as the first prime minister, who had the difficult task of consolidating independence.

He lived not only to see his ideal become a reality, but also to mount India's destiny after independence.

After the 1947 partition of India, Nehru faced the triple task of consolidating the new-found unity inside India, adjusting the delicate relations with neighboring Moslem Pakistan, and building up India's foreign policy.

STATES MERGED

Millions of refugees were absorbed and resettled and the 570 Indian princely states were peacefully merged.

Abroad he mapped out firmly a middle course of friendly neutrality. Relations with Pakistan remained strained, mainly because of the Kashmir question, but trade and cultural exchanges were established.

Nehru was a paradox in himself. An idealist, with the mind of a scholar and a dreamer, he was at the same time a practical politician.

He was a republican and a socialist. Yet he approved of republican India staying in the Commonwealth and compromised with capitalism for the sake of peaceful progress toward the welfare state.

Though a Hindu by birth, and one who on occasion performed the rites demanded by orthodoxy, he was secular in his whole outlook.

WAS TOLERANT

Religious as well as racial intolerance were foreign to his nature, and Moslems, Sikhs and Christians alike had complete confidence in his fair handling of minorities.

His English education and upbringing made him Western in manner and, often in outlook. "I have become a queer mixture of East and West," he wrote in his autobiography.

Athletic, fond of mountaineering and riding, he practised Yoga and until late in life used to stand on his head for a minute each day.

But illness last year aged him considerably and he no longer displayed the dashing vigor which formerly so distinguished him.

But Nehru continued to be dominant. And although his policy had drawn criticism, virtually no one could suggest an alternative to his leadership.

The criticism came from a somewhat disillusioned Indian intelligentsia who thought India should take a stronger stand over its border dispute with Communist China. But the critics concentrated on Nehru's cabinet colleages instead of on him.

When independence from Britain was achieved, his popularity was such that he could have become India's dictator. But his whole ideology was rooted in the parliamentary and constitutional system.

The ruling Indian Congress Party owed more to him than to any other political leader who guided its destinies. To the peasant, congress was "Panditji's (Nehru's) party" and his vote was cast for "Panditji" alone.

FAMILY WEALTHY

Born in Allahabad, Nehru was the only son of a well-to-do Brahmin family. His father built up the family fortunes by success in law.

In 1905 the family sailed for England and the young Nehru, then 15, was sent to the English private school of Harrow. He later went to Cambridge where he became cox of Trinity College's rowing eight. He studied law in London and was called to the bar in 1912.

Returning to India, he soon became involved in the upsurge of national feeling. He met Gandhi in 1916 and his fate was decided.

He came into conflict with the British "Raj" and in 1922 got the first of nine prison sentences.

In 1938 he went to Spain during the civil war and wholeheartedly supported the Spanish republican cause. The following year he went to China and met Gen. Chiang Kai-shek.

OPPOSED FASCISM

Always an outspoken opponent of Fascism, he refused to exploit India's precarious position during the Second World War. His attitude, however, was that the war was not India's since she had not attained independence.

He and several Congress Party colleagues spent the three latter years of the war under detention. But to pave the way for independence an interim Indian government was formed in 1946 with Nehru as vice-president.

In August, 1947, Britain transferred power to India and Nehru became first prime minister of independent India. He remained in office continuously until his death.

Scarcely were the two new states of India and Pakistan established than hostilities broke out between them over Kashmir. The struggle lasted more than a year before a cease - fire line was established.

Nehru was responsible for a series of five-year plans for agricultural and industrial development.

VISITED CHOU

In 1954 he exchanged visits with Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, and together they proclaimed the "five principles of peaceful coexistence" which later became the base of India's foreign policy. But the 1962 Sino-Indian oorder conflict was a bitter blow to Nehru.

He condemned the Anglo-French action in the Suez Canal Zone in the fall of 1956. But he was criticized abroad in 1961 over his government's annexation of the Portuguese Indian territories of Goa, Daman and Diu.

Nehru's wife, Kamala, died nearly 30 years ago and his son survived only a week. Thus it has been his daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, who, together with her two sons, brought a touch of domesticity into his life.

There have been frequent reports Nehru wished to see his daughter, a widow, take over as his successor. A member of the Congress Party's high command, she served for a time as party president.

But the Indian prime minister never publicly indicated whom he favored as his successor.

CAST OF 1,400

Peace Damsite Spectacular Tourist Bait

By FRANK RUTTER

PORTAGE MOUNTAIN—Man has changed the course of nature here to create a tourist spectacular unequalled anywhere in B.C. this summer.

A cast of 1,400 performs daily in a 3,000-foot arena scooped out of the bottom of the mighty Peace River.

Some of them do the show beneath floodlights through the night.

Their stage—the floor of the craggy Peace River Canyon—less than a year ago was beneath the fast-flowing brown river.

Now the water speeds through the centre of Portage Mountain, diverted by three huge concrete tunnels each the width of a four-lane highway.

And now the shape of the giant Peace River power project is gradually unfolding.

You can watch it all summer from vantage points high on either side of the canyon — so high that the men look like dolls, and their huge machines like toys.

And yet these observation posts nearly 600 feet above the river will be under water when the dam is finished in 1968.

B.C. Hydro is making tourist business a byproduct of its $680,000,000 power project, and already the transportation companies are taking advantage of it.

One busline offers a week-long tour of the Peace River country and Cariboo for $138 from Victoria.

'Chinese Teahouse' Offers View

Hydro has built a tourist lookout, known locally as the Chinese Teahouse, on stilts high above the project. It offers a panoramic view and inside, along with refreshments, you can watch the work below on closed circuit television. When you leave, you get an orange bumper sticker which proclaims "I have seen the Peace power project."

You can get to the project quite easily either by road or plane, landing on a gravelly Hudson Hope strip or more comfortably at Fort St. John, a 60-mile drive away to the east.

And when you get there it's a lot more than a big hole in the ground.

At present there are two main sights: the site of the dam itself on the riverbed, and a fantastic three-mile conveyor belt being built to carry 60,000,000 cubic yards of fill for the dam from a mountainous glacial deposit.

On the riverbed, blocked off by a 150-foot high coffer dam, huge cats are starting to smooth and compact the first loads of fill—taken from the bed itself.

On the left bank a layer of gunnite—cement and sand—is being hosed onto the rockbed to provide a seal for the core of the dam.

In the centre a 20-foot square concrete-lined trench has been punched through the ground. Here workmen will drill a curtain of grout, sealing the underneath of the dam as deep as 350 feet to prevent seepage.

Across the hillside opposite Portage Mountain runs the conveyor belt to the moraine which will eventually be transformed into a dam 600 feet high, 1,500 feet long and half a mile thick.

The belt, longest of its kind in the world, will carry rock, gravel and sand at 11 mph to three towering steel processing plants and then to a dump at river level.

100-Ton Truckload Each 35 Seconds

There 100-ton trucks will catch the fill at the rate of one truck every 35 seconds and carry it to its exact position on the dam.

This work will start in July.

The belt, driven by electric motors, is an engineering marvel.

Made of rubber with steel cables through the core, it runs on steel rollers, straight as a die across the hills.

Being built by a Vancouver firm, it is based on a patented German design, and a German foreman is supervising the project.

Trickiest part is splicing together 1,100-foot lengths of the rubber. It takes a day for each splice.

The belt and processing plants will cost $11,000,000 and when the project is finished the lot will be sold for scrap.

Main processing plant is five storeys high—all steel.

The plants will screen the material from the moraine into the various grades required for different sections of the dam—a fine impervious layer for the core, gradually thicker layers of gravel tor the body, and heavier gravel and rock for the shell.

'Guided India With Wisdom' —Pearson

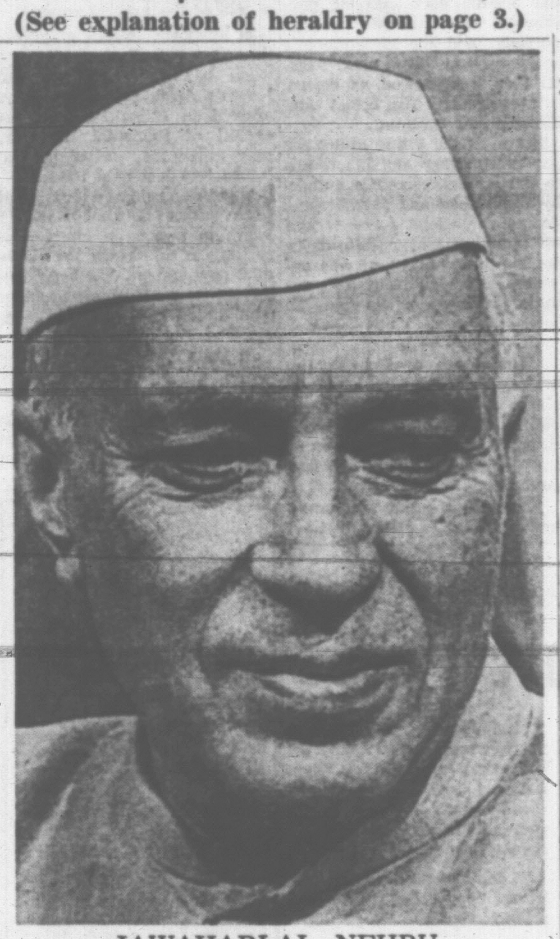
OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today the loss of Prime Minister Nehru of India will be felt by all who hope for peaceful progress in the world and for good relations among men.

He said in a statement:

"I had the great privilege of enjoying Mr. Nehru's friendship over many years. I learned to appreciate his deep and far-sighted wisdom, his strength and moderation, his devotion to freedom for nations and individuals. He had a deep respect also for law and for order; he had conquered prejudice and contained passion.

"He is rightly regarded as the architect of his country's independence and he guided India with skill and dedication in the early and critical years of its national existence.

"No man has made a greater impact on his time. He will be sorely missed by his countrymen. His loss will also be felt by all who hope for peaceful progress in the world and for good relations between men of all races and colors and creeds."



JAWAHARLAL NEHRU

'Light Is Out' As India Mourns Nehru

(Times News Services)

NEW DELHI—Jawaharlal Nehru, builder of modern India and its prime minister since independence in 1947, died from a stroke at his home here today. He was 74.

(See also Page 42).

Shortly after the death of the leader of India's 470,000,000 people, a new acting prime minister was sworn in by President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan. He is Gulzarilal Nanda, home minister at the time of Nehru's death and senior government cabinet minister.

The acting premier will hold office until the ruling Congress parliamentary party meets to elect a new leader, who will become prime minister.

Nanda, a man with a reputation of getting things done, was one of the officials who broke the news to Parliament that Nehru was taken ill suddenly.

Before Nanda's swearing-in, it had been announced that his appointment as prime minister would be temporary.

"I have grave news to announce to the House and the country," Miniate. of Steel C. Subramaniam told the lower house of Parliament. "The prime minister is no more. The light is out."

Nehru was stricken at 6:25 a.m., shortly after he got up at his usual hour. He died at 2 p.m., seven hours and 35 minutes later.

Eight doctors, including a brain specialist, tried to save him. The Associated Press

3,000 BALLOTS

Red Ensign In Clear Victory

Nearly 3,000 Times readers have now expressed their preference between the Red Ensign and the new Canadian maple leaf flag design, which was officially disclosed in Ottawa today.

The design follows very closely the unofficial sketches carried earlier in newspapers.

But, it would seem, if the Times ballot can be regarded as a good sampling, that Victorians who have decided views on the flag favor the Red Ensign much better than two to one.

The latest count is:

Red Ensign 2,071.

Maple leaf 733.

The trend has been the same since the returns started coming in on Saturday. The ballot is discontinued today since it appears to have established what the feeling is.

Once again in today's mail there were dozens of letters accompanying the ballots.

Quite a number express deep feelings about fathers and sons who fought under the Red Ensign, and some who died.

Others are quite vigorous in their demand for an entirely new Canadian flag.

Some who like the maple leaf design would have one leaf instead of three.

Among those pulling for the Red Ensign some suggested the inclusion of a single maple leaf in the fly.

And several in both groups suggest a national plebiscite on the issue.

'Liberate the North'

3 Leaves, Bar Official Design

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said in the Commons today he will announce Monday when the government proposes to open parliamentary debate on adoption of the maple leaf flag for Canada.

By STEWART MacLEOD

The government today unveiled the design it will ask Parliament to approve as the official flag of Canada, and at the same time it was revealed parliamentary approval will also be sought to make O Canada the national anthem of Canada.

A colored reproduction of the proposed flag was distributed to members of Parliament and the Press Gallery today, six days after the design was approved by cabinet.

Prime Minister Pearson and several cabinet ministers were known to have favored the design and its selection had been predicted.

GEORGE V EMBLEM

A notice of motion appearing on today's Commons order paper says:

"That the government be authorized to take such steps as may be necessary to establish officially as the flag of Canada, a flag embodying the emblem proclaimed by His Majesty King George V on Nov. 21, 1921—three maple leaves conjoined on one stem—in the colors red and white then designated for Canada, the red leaves occupying a field of white between vertical sections of blue on the edges of the flag and also to provide that the Royal Union Flag, generally known as the Union Jack, may continue to be flown as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth of nations and of our allegiance to the Crown."

'THE QUEEN'

Under it was a second notice of motion:

"That the government be authorized to take such steps as may be necessary to provide that O Canada shall be the national anthem of Canada and that God Save the Queen shall be recognized as the royal anthem in Canada."

The proposed flag was among three designs shown to the press on two previous occasions by the prime minister's office.

The other two under consideration included one similar to the design selected, except it had no blue bars, and the other had three red maple leaves on a solid blue background.

SECRET KEPT

Since the decision was made, the 25 cabinet ministers and the half-dozen others who knew the choice have been sworn to secrecy, and despite daily prodding in the Commons there was no official indication of what design would be proposed.

The manner in which the resolution was presented meant it would go through only one debating stage, as opposed to four stages in the Commons for ordinary legislation and five for money bills.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker got his first look at the design from a copy handed him by a reporter. He said he had no immediate comment.

Some Conservative backbenchers said Tuesday night a filibuster is likely when the issue

Dief Sneers, Douglas Backs Maple Leaves

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson's proposed maple leaf flag drew mixed reaction today from Opposition circles.

Although Opposition Leader Diefenbaker declined immediate formal comment, he remarked as he looked at the picture of the design and turned it around: "It doesn't make much difference either way."

A number of Conservative backbenchers re-affirmed their intention to fight the government's flag resolution into a general election, if possible.

New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas said he will support the proposed flag, but would have preferred one maple leaf on it instead of three.

PREFERRED ONE

"It's what we expected," Mr. Douglas said.

"I think I would have preferred a single maple leaf but I understand the background and significance of the three maple leaves as the national emblem chosen in 1921.

"Anyone with my Scottish background would, of course, like to see the Union Jack and the fleur-de-lis continued, but I recognize there are 5,000,000 Canadians who have neither a British nor a French background and we have to consider, too, the young people—of whom there are increasing numbers coming along—who don't feel any deep attraction to either Britain or France.

"I will support this design. One maple leaf might have been more distinguishable, from

First Treaty Signed Between U.S., Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today an historic consular treaty with the Soviet Union and termed the event "a significant step" in building understanding between the American and Soviet peoples.

The treaty, announced simultaneously in Washington and Moscow, will provide for the opening of consular offices in the two countries. It is the first treaty ever negotiated between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Johnson, citing the advantages which he expects the U.S. to receive as a result of the agreement, said that when the treaty takes effect "Americans detained in the Soviet Union for any reasons will be assured of access without delay to American consular officials."

George Reedy, White House press secretary, was asked whether this would apply to any Americans who might be arrested on espionage charges.

"The statement says 'for any reasons'," Reedy replied.

Johnson said the agreement, which must be ratified by the Senate before it can take effect, will be signed in Moscow June 1.

'Champion of Liberty'

Times News Services

The death of Prime Minister Nehru of India shocked the capitals of the world today. Tributes poured forth from friend and foe alike.

Perhaps the most moving scene came at Geneva, where the delegate of Pakistan, a nation that once fought India and had no use for Nehru, rose to address the United Nations world trade and development conference.

His voice breaking with emotion, Pakistani delegate Habibur Rahman declared:

"He was a champion of liberty and freedom throughout the world and played a dominant role in the struggle for the independence of the Indian subcontinent. Pakistan joins with all its heart in the condolences offered to the Indian delegation and the Indian people."

In Moscow, Soviet Premier Khrushchev went to the Indian Embassy and stood for a minute in silence before a portrait of Nehru.

Khrushchev, accompanied by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and First Deputy Premier Alexi Kosygin, then signed the Book of Condolences, writing simply his name and the date.

He told Indian Ambassador T. N. Kaul that Kosygin would fly to India tonight with a party of officials to attend the funeral Thursday.

In Washington, President Johnson said the world has lost a leader who served all humanity in "fearless pursuit of a world free from war."

Paying tribute to the Indian leader as "a great and beloved man," Johnson said in a statement that there could be no more fitting memorial to Nehru than a world at peace.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk left immediately to attend the funeral.

In Britain, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home and Lord Mountbatten, chief of the armed forces, announced that they would fly to India this afternoon to attend his funeral. Douglas-Home will represent the British

'Heroism Was Submerged in Something Very Much Greater'

By BOB BELL

There were innumerable acts of heroism when the Empress of Ireland was holed and sank 50 years ago this Friday, but they can be seen only in retrospect, says Murton D. A. Darling, of Sidney.

Mr. Darling, 75, was one of 465 survivors of the sinking of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Ireland in the St. Lawrence River, May 29, 1914. The story of the sinking appeared in Weekend Magazine last Saturday.

A total of 1,012 men, women and children lost their lives in the sea disaster that was, at the time, second only to the Titanic.

The pride of the Canadian Pacific fleet, the Empress was considered almost unsinkable with 10 water-tight bulkheads and a trained crew that could have them sealed in 30 seconds.

But when she was struck amidships in a dense St. Lawrence River fog by the steel-prowed coal-carrier Storstad, the proud Empress keeled over on her starboard side and sank in 15 minutes.

There was not time to consider heroism, said Mr. Darling. "There was no panic; everyone did what he had to do."

Now that he looks back on the disaster he can see acts of heroism, but at the time there was no thought given to it.

"Heroism was submerged in something very much greater," he said.

He doesn't consider anything he did as courageous.

Mr. Darling, then 25 and a lieutenant in the British Defense Force in China, was returning on leave to England.

"There was no time to get acquainted with anyone before the collision." He had dinner with Sir Henry Seton-Karr, an English explorer and author, then went to his cabin for the night.

The Storstand rammed the Empress at 2 a.m.

"I heard the engines ring 'Stop' and said to myself, 'What the devil's that?' Then the engines reversed and then came the crash," Mr. Darling said.

He put on an overcoat over his pyjamas, got his bedroom slippers and stepped out in the companionway.

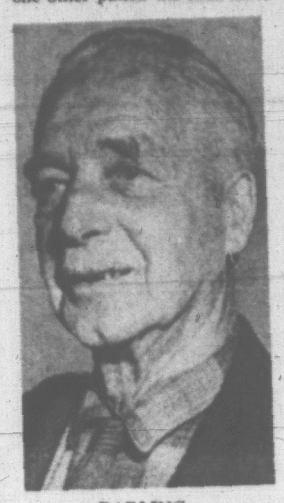
"The ship listed so fast that by the time I was in the companionway I was walking with my right foot on the wall and my left on the carpet."

He grabbed a lifejacket, put it over his head, and worked his way up three decks to the bridge.

There he met Seton-Karr, who tied the leg-straps on Mr. Darling's lifejacket, and said, "Better go, my lad. There's no time left." He never saw Seton-Karr again.

By this time the Empress was listing so badly Mr. Darling was able to step off the bridge and walk down the side of the ship.

Halfway along he saw a man trying to pull himself through a porthole. Mr. Darling and one other pulled the man free.



DARLING . . . "what the devil's that?"

He then walked off the side of the ship into the water.

"I don't know how long I was in the water. I remember hanging onto a piece of refuse on one side, and being bumped by an ice-floe on the other. That will give you an idea of the conditions."

After being picked up out of the water, Mr. Darling and other survivors were taken to a small store shed on the river.

By this time, the residents of Rimouski, Que., one and a half miles away, had been awakened, and they came to the scene in every conceivable method of transportation.

"They tried to do what they could," said Mr. Darling, "but the situation was beyond their conception."

The man Mr. Darling pulled from the porthole, ship's surgeon James Grant, was working over the injured in the shed. He fixed a woman's broken leg, using his own pyjamas as a bandage.

Later that day Mr. Darling discovered he had broken a toe sometime during the sinking.

He came to Victoria in 1924, and worked as a long-shoreman for Canadian Pacific.

A few months later he injured his finger and was sent to see the company doctor.

"As I went in, I realized who it was. It was Dr. Grnat, the man I pulled from the porthole," Mr. Darling said. Dr. Grant, who has since died, was extremely skeptical when Mr. Darling told him.

Mr. Darling had to tell the whole story of the woman with the broken leg before Dr. Grant was convinced.

While stevedoring in Victoria, Mr. Darling narrowly missed another sea disaster in 1927.

The freighter Emdyk, outbound from Tacoma, went aground on Race Rocks with a cargo of copper. A call went out for stevedores to meet the tugboat Spray in the Inner Harbor to go out and take some of the copper off the ship.

The Spray was caught in the tide and capsized under the Emdyk during the operation, and six men lost their lives, Mr. Darling said.

He missed boarding the Spray by 10 minutes, when he had a flat tire on his bicycle.

Mr. Darling later founded a cleaning products firm in Victoria, and is now retired.

VMD ONLY BIDDER ON FERRY

'Nobody Could Beat My Price'—Husband

HUSBAND . . . "competitive"

Victoria Machinery Depot was the sole bidder when tenders were opened Tuesday for a new ferry for the Island-Mainland run.

VMD's bid of $3,894,264 was at first described as "too high" by Premier Bennett. But after examination, ferry authority officials said it was comparable to the cost of earlier ferries.

At the same time, Premier Bennett blamed the lack of tenders on the fact B.C. shipyards "have lots of business."

But Harold Husband, president of VMD, said other yards know better than to compete with VMD.

"I didn't think anyone would be able to beat my price, no matter who bid," he said.

The ceremonial opening of tenders took place at 2 p.m. in Premier Bennett's office with ferry authority officials and half a dozen representatives of shipbuilding industries in attendance.

The premier noted the bids were for ferry No. 11 for the Island-mainland run. After opening the tender he said VMD's price was "very high in my opinion."

He said the Queens of New Westminster and Nanaimo cost just a shade under $3.5 million each and "this is 10 per cent higher."

"It looks as if the shipbuilding industry has a lot of business. We are glad to see them busy, but I don't like this price," he said.

Mr. Husband said the bid also indicates that his firm has a competitive yard. He said previously he had built two ferries at the same time, with resultant savings impossible to achieve with a single contract.

Also, he said, his firm had experienced a 16 per cent increase in wages since the last ferries were built and although the increase does not come all at once, an 11 per cent boost in wages will be in effect before the ferry is launched in June, 1965. He said other costs are up 6 to 7 per cent.

"CLOSE AND TIGHT"

In reply to a question by the premier, Mr. Husband said the bid was "as close and tight as last time." He said his firm wants and needs the job and he asked to be advised immediately if possible, if he had won the contract.

The premier said the bid would have to be studied. There is a remote possibility of a new call for tenders.

Premier Bennett then asked, "How can we keep our ferry rates down in view of these costs. We are keeping them down but you are not," he told Mr. Husband with a smile.

"We are having great difficulty in keeping our rates down. Our volume is going up but our costs are going up by a greater percentage," the premier added.

NO KITE-FLYING

"I don't think the public appreciates the great value they are receiving," he said and he pointed out that the government put a million dollar subsidy into the ferry system each year.

"How long we can continue these low rates, I don't know. We hope, forever." He said later he was not trying to "fly a kite" leading to a boost in fares.

Following the press conference word was issued by the premier's office stating that the newest ferry contained half a million dollars in new equipment which was not included in specifications for earlier ships — hence the costs are comparable.

GROUP RATES ABOLISHED ON HOLIDAYS, WEEKENDS

Special group rates on B.C. ferries will no longer apply on holidays and weekends.

A cabinet order-in-council Tuesday ended the reduced rates which had applied for Sunday School outings and similar group excursions on weekends. Premier Bennett said the groups were holding back regular traffic.

He thought the new system will encourage more travel on slack days.

Regular fare Island-to-Mainland is $2 one way, per person. Organized groups of 10 to 14 are able to travel for $1.50 each. Groups of 15 to 24 for $1.25 each and groups of over 25, for $1.10 each—but only on weekdays.

WIRE BRIEFS

Congo Rebels Gain

ELISABETHVILLE, Congo (UPI) — Communist-backed Congolese rebel forces stabbed down the western shore of Lake Tanganyika today and captured the air field at the important town of Albertville in northern Katanga.

Forest Fire Erupts

LIVERPOOL, N.S. (UPI) — A major forest fire today crackled out of control through heavy spruce and pine in the Nova Scotia interior west of this South Shore pulp centre.

Flaherty Improves

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The condition of former convict Joseph A. Flaherty, 41, struck by an automobile May 22, was reported good today in Quincy City Hospital.

Arms Smugglers Held

NICOSIA (AP) — The Greek-Cypriot minister told a press conference today police have arrested a British airman and his wife for allegedly smuggling arms and acting as a courier for "Turkish - Cypriot insurgents" on Cyprus.

Anti-Trust Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. justice department today filed an anti-trust suit to force the E. W. Scripps Co., publishers of Cincinnati's two daily newspapers, to divest itself of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

It was described as the first suit ever filed under the anti-trust laws seeking a court order to require a publishing firm to divest itself of a newspaper.

Viet Platoon Wiped Out

SAIGON (AP)—The death toll of South Vietnamese troops in a Communist guerrilla ambush only 20 miles north of Saigon was 20 killed and eight missing, U.S. military sources said today.

That meant only two of the 30 men in the platoon that set out Tuesday to guard the road came back alive.

Why Be Half Safe?

Q. When are firemen's faces as red as their suspenders?

A. When the fire hall burns down.

And Duncan firemen aren't taking any chances.

Council Monday agreed to a fire department request for installation of a smoke and heat actuated alarm for the fire station at a cost of $350.

The silent protectors will be located on each of three floors where the slightest whiff of smoke or flame will touch off the siren.

THE ASSOCIATES:

who they are, what they do and how they can help you with a financing plan for every need

THE ASSOCIATES finance commercial ventures and private dreams.

You may never have heard of them, but they've been in business for close to fifty years. You may never have borrowed from them, but it's quite possible that the company you work for has done so at one time or another.

The Associates, with their affiliates, form one of the biggest and most experienced companies in the world of finance. They have assets totalling more than a billion and a half dollars. And they have a network of 600 offices in the United States and Canada.

And yet it isn't surprising that you may never have heard of them.

One good reason why their name is not more familiar is that the Associates are not in the business of persuading people to borrow money. They are in the business of lending to responsible companies and individuals at reasonable rates of interest. And that's a business that can be conducted quite quietly and calmly.

Some Canadian newspapers have had a good deal to say recently about exorbitant rates of interest, hidden charges and the dangerous game of lending money to people who are not qualified to borrow.

The Associates have never conducted business in this way. In many cases, their rates of interest compare very favourably with the rates charged at Canadian banks; there are no hidden charges and no obscure clauses in their contracts; and they never lend money to unqualified people.

IS THERE A DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE ASSOCIATES AND OTHER FINANCE COMPANIES?

Most other finance companies specialize in certain kinds of loans. In automobile financing, for example, in business loans or in debt consolidation. The Associates, on the other hand, have a financing plan for literally every need. They make it possible for you to go to one company for all your borrowing needs and they simplify the paperwork both for us and for you.

Other finance companies normally limit the amount that can be borrowed. At the Associates, there is no limit. No request is too big; and certainly none is too small. The Associates make multi-million-dollar loans to companies and hundred-dollar loans to individuals. Repayment schedules are just as flexible. There's no rule that says loans must be repayed within a set time. Repayments can almost always be tailored to suit your budget.

Borrowing ahead of time makes shopping simpler and often means that you can save by taking advantage of a bargain when you see it. The Associates call this "Look-Ahead Borrowing." It makes all kinds of sense.

Something else that makes sense for people who are buying houses is the Home Owner's Loan Plan. It allows you to use the equity you have in your home as collateral for a loan. You borrow over a longer term and at a lower rate of interest than you'd pay for an unsecured loan. And you qualify for the plan whether you've finished paying for your home or not.

A FINANCING PLAN FOR EVERY NEED

Generally speaking, people have the same needs, desires and ambitions. So 999 out of every 1,000 loans are made for the same comparatively short list of reasons. The Associates have developed a specific plan to fit every one of them. The list that follows is not complete. But it will serve to give you some idea of their scope and variety.

THE ASSOCIATES HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN

This practical plan provides the money you need to make any one of a hundred different improvements in your home. You simply get an estimate from your builder and bring it along to the Associates.

THE ASSOCIATES HOME FURNISHING PLAN

When you furnish a home, you normally shop at several different stores, and pay separate finance charges at each. With the Associates plan, you avoid multiple interest payments by paying for your purchases with one monthly cheque.

THE ASSOCIATES BUSINESSMAN'S PLAN

Your standard of living is expected to advance along with your career. This plan helps you keep pace. It provides money to move into a new home, to buy a new wardrobe or a second car; money for business expansion, for new equipment or to meet sudden emergencies.

THE ASSOCIATES AUTOMOBILE FINANCING PLAN

You can often make a better deal on a new or used car when you have cash in your pocket. The Associates plan puts it there. You get terms sensibly designed for your budget and a contract that's crystal-clear.

THE ASSOCIATES BETTER LIVING PLAN

Sometimes luxuries are necessary, too. The Better Living Plan takes care of all the things you want to do and buy to make your life as full and complete as you want it to be.

THE ASSOCIATES FARM CREDIT FINANCING PLAN

The costs involved in operating a farm grow every year. The Associates plan makes money available for business and personal expenses at short notice. Repayments are arranged to suit seasonal incomes.

THE ASSOCIATES

THE ASSOCIATES ARE HERE IN VICTORIA

The office is at 895 Fort Street. The manager is Mr. Brian Coutts. He'll be delighted to answer questions and to give you details of any or all of the Associates financing plans.
